THOMAS CAR'S PERIL IN SIBERIAN WILDS

Breaks Through Bridge, Hangs Over Precipice, Jolts Over Ties, Dodges Trains.

WARNED OF BANDITS AHEAD

The Protos Car Leading, 204 Miles from Vladivostok and 60 Miles in Front of the Thomas.

Special Cable from THE NEW YORK TIMES'S Staff Correspondent with the Racers.

POGRANITCHNAYA, Siberia, May 28, (by courier to Nikolsk; thence by telegraph.)—After herculean efforts the American Thomas car has arrived over the railroad tracks from Nikolsk, and is ready to start on to-morrow morning for Harbin, with a prospect ahead that is far from inviting.

We left Nikolsk at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning en route for the railroad tracks, and had the misfortune at the outset to have the rear wheels of our car break through a bridge in one of the city streets, and lost valuable time in extricating them from the hole.

Reaching the railroad, we found we could get no running orders, so that we had to take our chances with the trains on the single-track line. As we went on we found that the only place where we could turn out were at stations and at road crossings, miles apart, and the nervous strain of listening for trains ahead and behind us was most exhausting. In spite of the great danger we were running we kept on until dusk overtook us. Convinced then that it would be foolhardy to prolong our railway journey, we forsook the tracks.

In the course of the day we covered three miles of temporary track around a bad washout where the regular bed of the railroad had been carried away. The ties of this temporary track were unbalasted, and altogether it was hard to negotiate. We were told that the Protos had been loaded on handcars to cross the stretch. A number of coolies hauled the Thomas over the distance, assisted by the motor, but the bumping was fearful, and racked us all dreadfully. The latter part of the day's run was not so bad, until nightfall, when we left the tracks. We were not able to proceed far after deserting the railroad. We spent the night at a peasant's house.

In the morning we found ourselves mired in a swampy meadow, and had great difficulty in getting the car clear and on the tracks once more. Shortly after we resumed our way on the ties we came to another stretch of temporary tracks two miles in length. We were afraid to risk bumping over this with a steep embankment on either side, and loaded the machine on a handcar to cover it.

In the afternoon we began the steep ascent of the mountain side, and in a newly ballasted place the car slipped off the track and halted on the edge of a 200-foot embankment. Our hearts stopped beating as the auto careened over the abyss, and it was with shaking hands that we pushed and hauled it back to the roadbed.

Two miles further on we heard a whistle ahead. There was no place to get off the track in sight, and we started on a wild run through a tunnel in the hope of getting away on the other side. There, however, we found a flagman frantically gesticulating for a clear track.

We were able to back up at the very entrance of the tunnel in a space just wide enough to allow the train to pass. An instant later the St. Petersburg Express passed us at slow speed, with the windows and platforms black with people eager for a sight of our car and its crew. They cheered us to the echo.

Further on we encountered a freight train, and the crew of four men had the hardest kind of work to lift the two-ton automobile off the track to allow the train to pass.

Just before nightfall we arrived here at Pogranitchnaya, having covered 144 miles from Vladivostok and fifty miles from Nikolsk. We learned here that the Protos was sixty miles ahead of us, and determined to start at dawn to-morrow in pursuit of the Germans. In order to lighten the car we have expressed all our extra baggage to Harbin, and will simply carry four days' rations with us.

Most disquieting rumors have reached us of robber bands between here and Harbin. The bandits living in the mountains beyond Pogranitchnaya last year attacked the town, and are reported to be contemplating another attack.

Last week three Hunchuse spies, belonging to the bands that have been active ever since the Russo-Japanese war, were captured here. They told the Chinese that they had heard of the projected trip of the rich automobilists through the country, and believed a good ransom could be secured by their capture. Added to the other difficulties we are experiencing, this indeed makes a pleasing prospect.

WOMEN HALT FILIBUSTER.

No Roll Call Demanded on Their Bill in the House.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Among the bills passed by the House to-day was one incorporating the Congressional Club, composed of the wives and daughters of Senators and representatives in Congress.

In stating that he would not insist on a roll call Mr. Williams of Mississippi jocularly remarked that to do so would cause a good deal of domestic unhappiness.

DIES IN HOFFMAN HOUSE.

Man Expires After Leaving Taxicab—Woman and Cabman Arrested.

An elderly, well-dressed man, supposed from letters and telegrams found in his pockets to be Charles M. Holmes of the firm of Holmes & Kimball, leather merchants of Boston, Mass., died last night in the corridor of the Hoffman House just after he had been assisted from a taxameter cab. Coroner's Physician A. T. Weston, who was in the hotel at the time and helped carry the dying man through the dining room to a couch in the corridor, says that death was probably due to heart disease.

For nearly half an hour Mr. Holmes was in great agony. He had registered at the hotel at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and was assigned to Room 461, a telegram from Boston having reserved that room for Mr. Holmes. In the afternoon he left the hotel, and last night went to an apartment house at 120 West Forty-seventh Street.

At 10:45 o'clock last night Hugh Fitzsimmons, chauffeur of a taxameter cab, was called by a bellboy of the house at 120 West Forty-seventh Street. As Fitzsimmons drew up in front of the apartment house he saw Holmes being led out of the door by a woman and the bellboy who had signaled the cab.

"The man was evidently very ill and was groaning," said Fitzsimmons. "He could hardly walk. I thought at first that he was intoxicated. The woman shoved him into the cab and closed the door. 'Take him to the Hoffman House,' she said to me. I started for the Hoffman House. All the way down I could hear my fare groaning inside the cab. When I drew up at the Twenty-fourth Street entrance of the hotel and opened the door I saw the man doubled up on a seat, still groaning. I called for help and we got him to a table in the dining room."

In the dead man's pockets $24.70 in cash was found, a gold watch and chain, several pocketbooks, and a number of letters, telegrams, personal papers, and memoranda. One of the telegrams was addressed to "Charles M. Holmes," and read: "Stock taking shows between $11,000 and $12,000; will go over carefully. Clear stock not overvalued. Hope you better." It was signed "Holmes & Kimball."

Detectives Summers and Griffith of the West Twentieth Street Station arrested Mrs. Moore later. She said that she had known Mr. Holmes for about five years, and that he had come to her apartment at 10:45 o'clock last night and told her that he felt ill. He had only stayed a moment or two, she said, and had asked to be sent to the Hoffman House. At his request, Mrs. Moore said, she got a taxicab for him.

The police also arrested the taxicab driver, Hugh Fitzsimmons, and Mrs. Moore's maid, Josephine Wells, as well as the elevator boy in the house, Frederick Moorehead, holding all of them as witnesses.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 28.—Charles M. Holmes of the leather firm of Holmes & Kimball, lived in Malden. Mrs. Holmes heard of his death by telephone to-night. So far as known, Mr. Holmes was not involved in any of the troubles which have recently affected the New England leather trade. He left Boston for New York to-day.

HUNT MRS. GUNNESS AGAIN.

Mysterious Woman Is Sought by Detectives in Brooklyn.

LAPORTE, Ind., May 28.—Attorneys Darrow and Worden, representing Ray Lamphere, stated to-day that A. J. Case and C. E. Gaerte, working on the Gunness case, have located in Chicago the mysterious "S. H.," who says he talked with Mrs. Gunness in Ogden, Utah, six days after the fire here which destroyed her home.

Attorneys Darrow and Worden are in receipt of a postal card mailed in New York, but unsigned, saying Mrs. Gunness might be found at 323 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn.

The news which was received here yesterday that Mrs. Gunness, the Laporte murderess, might be found at 323 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, threw that section of the city into great excitement last night. The furnished room house at that address is kept by Mrs. William Sailor. From lodgers there it was learned that a mysterious woman, whose description was like that of the Indiana murderess, had taken a room there about three or four weeks ago, and had stayed until two weeks ago. Her numerous acquaintances with men caused her to be dispossessed.

Detectives Fennell and Owens of the Fourth Avenue Station started an investigation and learned that a friend of this woman is now living in Seventeenth Street, near Eighth Avenue. Up to a late hour last night they had not located this woman, but were still searching for her. It was thought probable, however, that the woman went to the house while Mrs. Gunness was still at Laporte.

The woman resembling the description of Mrs. Gunness was known both as Mrs. Le Garde and Mrs. Aimes. Other lodgers in the house said last night that she was about 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighed about 175 pounds. Her complexion was ruddy and her hair dark. She spoke with a foreign accent, and her fellow-lodgers remarked her principally for her hasty temper. Her teeth were heavily set with gold fillings and crowns, an important point in the description of Mrs. Gunness.

"Mrs. Aimes or Mrs. Le Garde seldom went out," said one of the lodgers last night, "and when she did so she was always heavily veiled. In the house she kept to her own room, and always had the door locked. She seemed not to want to make acquaintances."

RUSSIA ANGRY AT PERSIA.

Czar's Financial Agent Attacked and Wounded in Teheran Residence.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 29.—Dispatches from Teheran received at the Foreign Office to-night state that an armed attack was made on the official residence in that city of the Russian Financial Agent, M. Ostrogradski, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and that the Russian official was dangerously wounded.

Three unknown men made their way into his residence and encountered M. Ostrogradski, fired a number of shots at him, one of the bullets striking him in the loin. Though badly wounded, M. Ostrogradski managed to fight off his assailants, who continued to fire at him. They then made a pretense to search for valuables, but fled at the approach of help.

The killing and wounding of the Russian representative in the dead of night in Teheran has had the very worst effect on the temper of the Russian Government. The Foreign Office has sent the most stringent representations for satisfaction for the outrage. The affair has dissipated official optimism with regard to the Persian situation.

The Novoe Vremya recalls numerous murders of Rusian diplomats in Turkey in recent years, and refers particularly to the killing of Minister Gribayedoff at Teheran, and expresses the opinion that retribution in blood will be necessary to save Russian prestige in the Orient.

COLIN THE UNBEATEN MAY NOT RACE AGAIN

James R. Keene's Great Colt "Bowed" in Both Forelegs and His Career Ended.

MYSTERY IN THE MISHAP

Found Amiss in His Box After a Fast Trial Which Had Not Apparently Injured Him—His Big Winnings.

Colin, by Commando-Pastorella, the unbeaten champion two-year-old of last season and the best race horse of his time, is hopelessly amiss in the training quarters of his owner, James R. Keene, at the Sheepshead Bay race course. The breakdown of the great horse was the subject of general gossip at the Belmont Park race course yesterday when the crowd was gathering for the afternoon races, and when the report that Colin probably never would go to the starting post again was verified by James Rowe, his trainer, and Foxhall P. Keene and H. De Courcey Forbes, the news caused a real sensation. The mishap to Colin was talked of to the exclusion of the affairs of the day's racing, and horsemen generally regarded the disability of the champion of the turf as a genuine calamity.

Colin had started but once this season, when on Saturday last he easily won the Withers Stakes, making his thirteenth straight triumph in his two years on the turf, and, with a magnificent list of engagements before him, was in preparation for his next stake, the twenty-five-thousand-dollar Belmont, to be run Saturday, which was conceded to be at his mercy.

Experts who had watched the progress of his training pronounced the colt perfectly sound and in better condition than he ever before had been when he pulled up after the Withers, and he was still in the same satisfactory condition at Sheepshead Bay yesterday morning when he was sent out for his final work in preparation for the Belmont Stakes. He galloped a mile and a quarter, timed by his trainer in 2:06 2-5, by others in 2:05, pulled up sound, and returned to his stable, where after a rub down he was put away in his box, showing no sign of lamness or injury.

Trainer Rowe looked him over again within half an hour after his gallop, and Colin was found to have gone wrong in both forelegs, with "bowed" middle tendons. The trouble more plainly is in rupture of the sheath, a strain in the substance of the tendons of the fore pasterns, on which rests the weight of the horse ordinarily, and many times his weight in impetus when he is galloping at a racing pace. The tendons were swollen until the pasterns were nearly double their normal size when the trainer found that the horse was amiss, and the signs were unmistakable.

Colin promptly went under the most expert veterinary treatment that was available, and there is just a bare possibility that the injured legs may be healed by skill and care, but only faint hope of that was entertained by the connections of the Keene stable yesterday. The full extent of the injuries remains to be ascertained, but there is no question now that Colin has "bowed" in both fore legs, and when it is considered that one "bowed" tendon is enough to retire a horse from racing, the serious nature of Colin's mishap is evident.

Cause of Injury Unknown.

Just how the injuries were received is not known, and may never be known. It is possible that the colt may have struck himself or strained both pasterns in his gallop, and in the heat and excitement of his work showed no lameness when he was pulled up. There was so short an interval between his gallop and his cooling out and being put away in his box that the early stage of the swelling might have gone unnoticed by the rubbers having charge of him. It is quite among the possibilities, too, that Colin might have struck or strained the tendons in his stall, as cases of that kind have been encountered, but it required some singular and mysterious accident or conduct on the part of the horse to damage both pasterns as in Colin's case, in the very brief period that the colt was not under observation.

In seeking explanation of the singular and mysterious injury of the most famous horse of the turf, it was suggested that Colin might have been the victim of malice by some enemy of the stable or some person who wished the horse out of the way. The suggestion was flouted by the stable connections, who said there could be no motive for foul play, and no reasonable possibility of any plan to cripple the colt being carried out.

However done, the mishap effectually disposes of Colin's chance for the Belmont Stakes, which, it seemed, he already had to the credit of his owner, and with the Belmont in the probabilities, about $200,000 in stake engagements for the remainder of the season, which, it had seemed, Colin had only to train on to win.

Mr. Keene did not go to either his training stable at Sheepshead Bay or the Belmont Park race track yesterday, but received early notice of the ill-fortune of his horse, and through the remainder of the day was receiving expressions of sympathy from friends who knew of his fondness and admiration for Colin.

The veteran turfman and breeder of Colin, Peter Pan, Sysonby, and the English Oaks winner Cap and Bells, accepted the news of Colin's mishap philosophically, but declined to express any opinion of the extent of the injury to Colin or the possibility of the horse training again, as he said he had not seen the colt and knew nothing more of what had happened than the reports sent to him from the trainer.

Colin remained at the training stable, at Sheepshead Bay, where he will continue until the full extent of his injuries has been ascertained. The colt's quarters are rear the centre of the long barn occupied by the Keene horses, and fronting on an enclosed stable yard, in which Trainer Rowe has a cottage facing the stable and commanding a view of the front of the entire barn. Colin last night had the full attention of the entire stable staff of helpers, and with the night watchmen on the outlook there was not a chance that if the colt even stirred in the night, the movement would be overlooked.

The Colt's Last Work.

The circumstances attending Colin's last work before his breakdown added much to the sensation that the mishap to the champion caused. Though Colin is engaged in the Brooklyn Handicap, to be run Monday, it had been decided that his stable mate Celt should start for the Brooklyn and Colin run for the Belmont. Celt, reputed to be nearly as good as Colin, was sent to Belmont Park yesterday, and ran for and won the Jockey Club Weight for Age race, as his final work for the Brooklyn, while Colin took his work for the Belmont at Sheepshead Bay.

As Trainer Rowe related the happenings of Colin's work, the colt was sent out with a stable mate, Transvaal, to gallop a mile and a quarter on the training track at Sheepshead Bay, which had been specially harrowed for the champion's trial, and was without a hoofprint of race horse on it when Colin went on the course. It was the trainer's intention to FACES DEATH FOR SCIENCE.

Frank Merritt Inoculated with Tuberculosis Germ to Aid in Finding a Cure.

In the hope of discovering a preventive and cure for tuberculosis Frank Merritt, who recently volunteered to surrender his body in the interest of humanity and medical science, has permitted a physician to inoculate his system with the germs of the disease. An examination made yesterday showed that already the disease has made considerable progress since the inoculation a week ago.

Mr. Merritt, who is a middle-aged man, and admits that Merritt is not his real name, was at one time a prosperous bookbinder in a western State. According to his story his wife and son died of tuberculosis, and their loss so preyed on his mind that he finally became a wanderer. Two weeks ago he applied to the Salvation Army headquarters in this city for lodging and was sent to the army's hotel in Chatham Square. It was there that he first announced his willingness to die if his death might aid in any way in combating the spread of tuberculosis.

For several days no one appeared to take advantage of his offer. Finally Dr. C. C. Carroll of 2,102 Broadway found Mr. Merritt, and last Thursday inoculated him with the germ of tuberculosis. A statement from the doctor's office yesterday said that the disease has now thoroughly entered into Mr. Merritt's system, and it is expected the case will be well under way in the next few days.

MILLIONS MADE HONESTLY.

Schwab Denies That the Millionaires of America Are Dishonest.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 28.—Charles M. Schwab startled the delegates to the Boilermakers' Convention to-day by declaring that American millionaires have made their money honestly.

"There is not a dishonest man among all of them that I know of," declared Mr. Schwab, with considerable emphasis. "I can name you a great many that have made their money by speculation, some in purchasing ore lands in the North with an anticipation of increasing values, and others by dabbling in stocks. There is not much difference in either deal, as both are speculation. A large part of money getting is speculation anyway, no matter how you get it, but all of my millionaire friends are honest even though they are speculators."

When Mr. Schwab was asked why men of wealth continue to accumulate wealth he replied:

"It's the love of the game. The man that makes his own money and has been a worker cannot reconcile himself to becoming a drone. As long as a man's blood flows red in his veins he likes to be up and doing. It's different with those who inherit their wealth."

BANKER ATTACKS BRYAN.

Says He Doesn't Know What a Bank Deposit Is.

CHICAGO, May 28.—David R. Forgan, President of the National City Bank of Chicago, believes that W. J. Bryan does not know what a bank deposit is, despite the fact that the Democratic leader has spoken many times recently on banking problems and has urged the guarantee system for the depositor as a safeguard against financial panics. Mr. Bryan's latest utterance on the question was delivered a few days ago before the Bankers' Club of Chicago.

Mr. Forgan addressed students of the University of Chicago last night and swerved for a moment from his general topic, "The Dignity of Commercial Life," by taking a rap at Mr. Bryan.

"I heard Mr. Bryan speak for an hour the other night on banking problems," he said. "Mr. Bryan is effective as an orator and forceful, but all the time he spoke I could find nothing in his talk to indicate that he had the slightest conception of what a bank deposit is. And yet Mr. Bryan is going about giving advice on how to stop or prevent a panic."

TWOMBLY QUITS MILK.

Owner of Florham Park Sells Out His Route to a Rival.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, N. J., May 28.—Hamilton McK. Twombly, whose place at Florham Park, near here, is one of the finest estates in New Jersey, is abandoning his milk route and before long will cease to be a milkman among his many other extensive business pursuits. No reason is given for Mr. Twombly's sudden determination to dispose of his milk route, the bare announcement being made that most of the route has been sold to Louis A. Noe, formerly Mr. Twombly's chief rival in the milk business.

When Mr. Twombly established his estate of many acres between Convent Station and this place several years ago he made it as much like an English estate as possible, having his farm and its cottages incorporated as Florham Park under the New Jersey borough act. He built a country home, greenhouses, stock stables, farm stables, and finally a dairy in which blooded stock had comforts rarely hoped for by Jersey farmers for themselves, to say nothing of their cattle. It was said that two cows had shower baths in their stalls, while the stable was equipped with a complete sanitary system.

"It is true that we have purchased a great part of Mr. Twombly's route," said a representative of the Noe concern today. "It has been a businesslike undertaking and we know of no reason for the sale."

At Mr. Twombly's Florham Dairy no one would discuss his reasons for retiring from the field.

MRS. IRELAND GETS DIVORCE.

Had Charged Her Husband, J. D. Ireland, with Desertion.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 28.—Recommendation that a divorce be granted to Mrs. John De Courcey Ireland of New York City was made to-day in a report filed by Attorney John S. Harding of this city as Master.

Mrs. Ireland was Miss Arline Davis, daughter of A. J. Davis, one of the wealthiest coal operators in this region. She charged desertion and incompatability of temper. Mr. Ireland made no defense. They separated on Nov. 9, 1905, and since then Mrs. Ireland has lived at her father's home here. They were married in this city on June 6, 1900.

Old Tale About Mr. Cleveland Denied.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland authorized George F. Parker, Secretary to the Equitable Trustees, to deny absolutely yesterday the truth of a published report that Mr. Cleveland was suffering from cancer. Mrs. Cleveland is now in Princeton. Dr. Bryant has not been in Lakewood since Monday, and no other physician is in attendance on the ex-President so much has his condition improved.

FIRST DESCRIPTION OF WRIGHT AIRSHIP

Orville Wright Gives Details of the Machine's Construction.

HAS PERFECT FAITH IN IT

Confident That, Barring Accidents, It Will Satisfy the Requirements of the American Government.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 28.—Orville E. Wright, of Wright Brothers, gave a description this evening to THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent of the Wright aeroplane.

He said that he and his brother had solved the aerial navigation question to the extent that, barring accident, they were sure to fulfill their contract with the Government for a flying machine that will stay in the air one hour and travel a distance of five miles and return at a rate of forty miles an hour. Mr. Wright stated that he was confident the Wright aeroplane would make a successful flight at Fort Myers, notwithstanding the condition of test ground which could hardly be more unfavorable.

"I believe that our machine is the nearest approach to the practical flier in existence," said Mr. Wright. "The French, who claim to be the greatest investigators of aerial navigation, are modeling all their machines after the Wright type, as nearly as they can without infringing on our patents. With the exception of a few details of construction that have necessarily to be kept secret in order to preserve the commercial value of our invention, practically every part of our machine has been patented in every country in Europe and America."

Mr. Wright says the Wright Aeroplane differs from other fliers in that it is much more complete than any of them. He describes it as follows:

"Approximately it consists of a box-like frame forty feet wide, seven feet long, and seven and a half feet deep, made of spruce and ash. At the centre and top front is a 'front rudder,' a feature which the Wrights introduced and which has proven superior to the old method of a rear rudder.

"In the centre and to the rear is the 'tail' of the machine—approximately twelve feet in length, less than one-third the length of those on French fliers. This consists, in different models of one or two vertical cloth-covered frames. At the rear, balancing the machine, and as near the centre as possible, are two propellers.

"Below the framework and toward the front is a skid, similar to the rudders, on sleds. This is used for landing and differs in this particular from the French machines, which are equipped with wheels. For a portion of 12 feet at each end the upper and lower framework is provided with a surface of strong cotton cloth.

"With the wheel arrangement the French find it dangerous to effect a landing on smooth ground with the machine traveling at a rate of more than ten miles an hour. With our skid we can land safely on any ground, other than absolutely hilly ground, while our machine is traveling at a rate of fifty miles an hour, without any particular danger to the machine or the persons operating it.

"In the centre of the machine at the bottom is a small double-wheel truck, which, running on a monorail, is used while the machine is acquiring speed enough to leave the ground. The monorail is easily movable in any direction.

"The machine weighs about 800 pounds, and in addition to its own weight, including a four-cylinder motor of between 25 and 30 horse power, devised and made by the Wright Brothers themselves, can carry two men and fuel enough to drive the machine 300 miles. It can carry enough fuel, with one man aboard, to travel 500 miles."

In the tests at Kitty Hawk, the machine made a five-mile flight, traveling as high as sixty miles an hour. The Government test is away below the machine's limit, according to Orville Wright. He says that the same model used in the Kitty Hawk trials will be used in the Government tests. The tests will have to be successfully made before Aug. 28.

15 AEROPLANE FLIGHTS.

Delagrange Makes Final Trials at Rome—Wind Interferes with Experiments.

ROME, May 28.—Leon Delagrange, the French aeroplanist, made the last of his ascensions in this city to-day. He went into the air for fifteen separate flights. The maximum distance covered was about 3,600 feet at a height of six or seven feet from the ground. This distance was covered in sixty-four seconds. Owing to a slight wind, M. Delagrange was not able to turn his machine as he desired.

EXPLOSION SCARE ON LINER.

Rifle Goes Off in a Trunk on the Carpathia and Causes a Stir.

There was much excitement on the Cunard pier yesterday when an explosion took place in a trunk about to be lowered into the hold of the outgoing steamer Carpathia. Detectives Moody and Leeson, who were first on the scene when an attempt was made some years ago to put a real infernal machine on the steamer Umbria of the same line, took charge of a harmless little traveling trunk, from which a dense smoke was pouring.

"Get back there," shouted Leeson as two 'longshoremen approached.

The detectives were about to throw the trunk into the river, when, impressed with the fact that the danger was over, they decided upon a further investigation.

Leeson pried back the lid of the trunk and threw it open. The contents were on fire. It was then found that a loaded rifle had accidently exploded and set off a quantity of powder in an old-fashioned powder horn. The clothing in the trunk caught fire, but the blaze was soon put out.

Patrolman Darnson of the Traffic Squad arrested a man late yesterday afternoon who said he was the owner of the trunk. He gave the name of John Szato and said he was from Youngstown, Ohio. Szato was locked up in the Charles Street Station as a suspicious person.

KIDNAPPER SHOT DEAD.

Abducted His Wife's Friend and Was Followed by Posse.

Special to The New York Times.

LAGONIER, Ind., May 28.—William Patterson kidnapped Mrs. Sergent, a friend of his wife's, this afternoon, and was shot dead by a posse which went in pursuit, Patterson's brother-in-law firing the fatal shot after he himself had been wounded.

Patterson, at the point of a revolver, compelled a hotel keeper to assist him in taking the woman from a carriage and placing her in his automobile. The posse pursued in another automobile, and a running fusilade of shots was fired between Patterson and his pursuers before he was killed.

Recently Patterson and his wife separated, and Patterson blamed Mrs. Sargent for the trouble. It is not known why Patterson kidnapped the woman. He had been drinking heavily, and it is believed he intended to murder her.

MAY CHASE THE GOLDSBORO.

Creditors of Export Shipping Company Plan to Catch Bailey.

The creditors of the bankrupt Export Shipping Company, whose President is on the high seas on the steamer Goldsboro, will hold a meeting to-day at the office of A. Parker Nevin, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, 170 Broadway, to consider ways and means for capturing the Goldsboro and arresting F. G. Bailey, the head of the export concern and those with him.

"There is reason now to believe that Bailey has with him on the vessel his wife, three children, another woman, and his brother," said Mr. Nevin. "Outside of Haiti, two other places are suggested as the vessel's destination, Caracas and Honduras. Then, again, there is a remote possibility that the boat, an old one, has gone down."

Mr. Nevin estimates the loss met by manufacturers throughout the country by confidence in the Export Shipping Company and Bailey as about $100,000. No report of the Goldsboro arriving at some foreign port was received yesterday. It is possible that the vessel has been remanned and has touched at some small place where clearance papers are not scrutinized or highly valued.

CANADIAN DAM BURSTS.

Three Men Drowned and Money Loss Is $500,000.

PORT ARTHUR, Ontario, May 28.—The Civic dam on Current River burst yesterday, causing a disastrous flood. The loss of three lives and a money loss estimated at $500,000 is reported. A Canadian Pacific freight train pulling into Port Arthur ran on to submerged tracks, the engine overturning. Engineer Savage, Fireman McBridge, and Brakeman Inmann, who were on the engine, were pinned under the wreckage and drowned.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company will be the heaviest loser, with several miles of track washed away.

WRECK $1,000,000 PIPE LINE.

Dynamiters Destroy Water Supply of El Paso & Southwestern Railway.

EL PASO, Texas, May 28.—Dynamiters yesterday wrecked the big pipe line that conveys water from Bonita Mountains, N. M., to Carrizozo, N. M., where all the engines of the El Paso & Southwestern Railway system are supplied.

This pipe line, which diverts the entire water supply of the Bonita River, cost about one million dollars.

GIRL'S BRAVERY REWARDED.

Bank Gives Her $500 for Aiding Its Messengers Attacked by Thieves.

Eva Jovernicka, the young Polish girl of 83 First Street, who frustrated the attempt of three men on Monday to rob three messengers of the Jefferson Bank, was called to the bank yesterday, and received a reward of $500 from President Herman Croesel. The gift was decided upon after a meeting of the Board of Directors.

The girl, who could not speak English, seemed not to understand until she saw the roll of yellow-backed bills. Then she smiled, grasped them tightly in her hand, and, after making some response in Polish, hurried home. Through an interpreter, she explained last night that the money would make her and her husband practically independent in their native land.

The couple will stay here for a short time and then go to their old home, Yawornicke, in the Province of Sarnock, in Austro-Galicia, near the Polish border.

MRS. C. C. HISCOE A SUICIDE.

Wife of New York Decorator Kills Herself in New Rochelle Home.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 28.—Mrs. Charles C. Hiscoe, wife of a decorator, with offices in Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, committed suicide this afternoon in her home at 187 Sickles Avenue, New Rochelle, by inhaling gas.

Mrs. Hiscoe, who was prominent in New Rochelle society, locked herself in her room and after fastening a tube to a gas jet, tied it in her mouth with a silk handkerchief. Her fourteen-year-old son returning home from school and failing to get into her room, crawled out on the veranda roof, and, peering into the room, saw her sitting in a chair, dead.

Mr. Hiscoe said his wife had been worrying over his financial troubles, as he had been unable to collect a large number of bills. Mr. Hiscoe is a member of the New Rochelle Yacht Club and is an amateur athlete and swimmer of note.

ELINOR GLYN PLAYS FARO.

Wins $1,000 in Rawhide Gambling House and Sees the Sights.

Special to The New York Times.

RAWHIDE, Nevada, May 28.—"I have traveled from Budapest to Bombay, from Boston to Bakersfield, and there are few experiences I have not had, but I would not give last night's experience for them all," said Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks," this morning. She arrived at Rawhide in charge of Sam Newhouse, the Utah millionaire; Count Leon De Laborde of Paris, and several women friends.

Mrs. Glyn went after new things. In the Northern, the biggest gaming place in the camp, she wagered $200 on faro, lost, and repeated the bet three times before she won, leaving the place $1,000 to the good. This money helped pay her expenses for the night in Stingaree Gulch, the Tenderloin of Rawhide. There are half a dozen dance halls and 600 women in the street.

She witnessed a shooting scrap between a drunken prospector and a drunken gambler. The prospector took two shots at the gambler as the latter made a leap around the corner of a building.

A banquet was given to her and her party in the leading hotel of the camp in the early morning hours. Plates were spread on a pine-board table, extending the length of the dining room. Mrs. Glyn responded to the toast, "Mines and Mining."

Hearst gain, 7 votes.

Hearst gain on six boxes counted yesterday, 41 votes.

Hearst gain on two boxes counted Wednesday, 27 votes.

Total Hearst gain on eight boxes, 68 votes.

Ballot boxes from six election districts, specially selected by Clarence J. Shearn, who is looking after W. R. Hearst's interests in the Mayoralty recount suit, were opened yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Lambert and the jury trying the suit, resulting in a further gain of 41 votes in favor of Mr. Hearst. This, with the 27 votes gained by Mr. Hearst from the two boxes opened the previous day, makes a total of 68 votes gained by him so far.

The sensation of the day came with the opening of the first ballot box, which was from the Nineteenth Election District of the Fourth Assembly District. At the time of the 1905 election John F. Ahearn, now Borough President of Manhattan, was the Tammany leader there. The official count gave McClellan 321 votes to Hearst's 77. The recount showed 311 votes for McClellan and 90 for Hearst. This announcement was received with a demonstration at the rear of the courtroom, which was quickly suppressed by Justice Lambert, who threatened to have the court cleared on a repetition.

It was clear that the result of the recount caused the court some astonishment.

"I want to see the tally sheets," said Justice Lambert. "Where are the Election Inspectors? Where are the tally sheets?" he asked.

Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for Mayor McClellan, explained that the sheets were in the County Clerk's office and offered a copy of The City Record containing the printed returns.

"No, that won't do; I want to see the originals. I want to know who was responsible for these figures," persisted the court.

Finally the tally sheets were handed to him and found to coincide with the official count figures. However, no further action was taken by Justice Lambert.

Two Explanations.

This was the high-water mark of success reached by the Hearst party during the day. Mr. Shearn unhesitatingly said:

"It is a complete demonstration of the truth of the claims we have been making. It is palpable and gross fraud. What other explanation can be offered?"

Later in the day Mr. Richards put the discrepancies discovered so far down to clerical errors. He said:

"There has been no fraud shown. It is true errors have been found, but they are merely clerical ones. You must remember that the boxes so far opened have been the 'star boxes' of our opponents, and in many cases it has been merely a question of marking. It cannot be said that one of the ballots was marked for identification. Barring the gains of 23, 15, and 12, those got from the remaining boxes are insignificant and will disappear altogether as the recount progresses."

During the morning session but one box was opened at a time, but after recess, Justice Lambert directed that two should be opened simultaneously. This will have the effect of expediting the recount considerably, and it is more than probable that the court will order this increased early next week. The counting, too, proceeded in a much more businesslike manner, and it was seldom that Justice Lambert was called on to decide a disputed ballot.

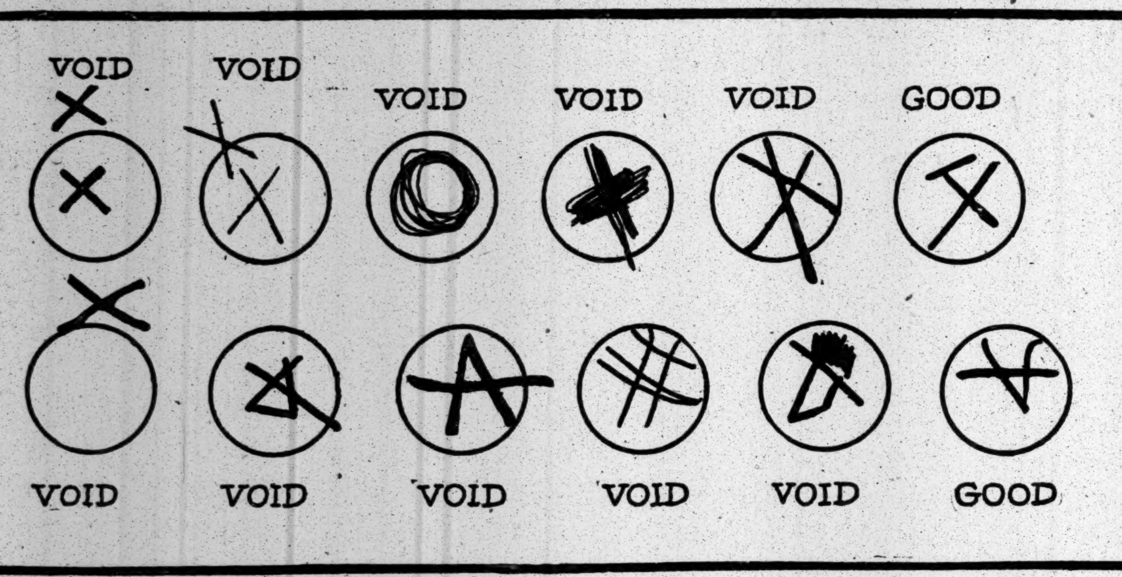
31 Votes in Question.

The one exception to this was while the votes from the Third Election District of the Twenty-fourth Assembly District were being counted. At one time it looked as if Hearst was going to get a gain of 31 votes from it. Then a parcel containing that number was found. It appears that in December, 1905, Justice Giegerich, when called on to decide as to their legality, decided against them, and they were put in an envelope. They were all McClellan votes. Justice Lambert, however, after looking them over, decided that the majority of them could be counted.

Before each box was opened Mr. Richards got the jury to inspect it and note the condition of the seals. In nearly every case they were loose, and in one, the First Assembly District, of which "Battery Dan" Finn is Tammany leader, he insisted that the long paper seal pasted across the slot had been cut immediately over the slot and another piece of paper pasted over it. He also called the jury's attention to the fact that the same key opened every box. The jury displayed great interest and minutely examined the boxes.

The majority of the Hearst gains were made through the counting of ballots for

SOME OF THE BALLOTS PASSED ON YESTERDAY BY JUSTICE LAMBERT.



McClellan which the court decided should not have been credited to him through illegal marking. There were, however, instances where this excuse was not available, notably that of John F. Ahearn's district, the Nineteenth of the Fourth, where in the official count Hearst was only credited with 77 votes, whereas the recount gave him 90.

Mr. Shearn announced yesterday that Mr. Hearst, who is on his way to Europe by the Cunarder Lusitania, is receiving the results of the recount by wireless, and will continue to do so as long as is possible. This came after the announcement of the Hearst gain of 23 from Ahearn's district, when the Hearst faction was especially jubilant. A list of ten boxes to be produced to-day was given by Mr. Shearn to President Dooling of the Board of Elections at the close of court yesterday.

OPPOSE CONTROL OF CHURCH POWER

Presbyterians Vote Against Domination of Executive Affairs by Few Men.

CREATE NEW COMMISSION

From Which Paid Agents of Church Boards and Permanent Officers of the Assembly Are Excluded.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, May 28.—To-day's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly opened with a lively debate about an amendment to the report of the Committee on Administrative Agencies adopted in a previous session. The amendment, as adopted, provided that an executive commission of fifteen members should not include any paid agents of church boards or permanent officers of the General Assembly.

The Rev. S. J. Niccolls of St. Louis said he believed the Assembly had adopted that amendment without understanding it. He didn't believe the Assembly should cast a shadow on 200 men who had faithfully served the church. It had put a "brand" on these men, Dr. Niccolls said, and he was himself in the "outlawed" class. The Assembly's action, he said, was unjust to men like Louis Severance of Cleveland, Ohio, who gave from $50,000 to $100,000 a year to the church, and on John H. Converse of Philadelphia, equally generous.

"I regret," Dr. Niccolls said, "that after such long service for the Church I should be placed in a class that will have no part in the government of the Church."

Dr. Niccolls had hardly finished speaking before eighteen or twenty Commissioners were on their feet.

When the Moderator had nearly broken the big mallet—the little gavel disappeared long ago—an amendment to the amendment to the original report had been adopted. It provided that the executive commission shall include no agents or members of the Church boards or permanent officers of the assembly except the Moderator.

This means that all the boards will report to the executive commission when it has been selected, and that the big affairs of the Church will be administered by men who have not heretofore served in executive capacities, and are not, as a Commissioner said, "Too close to the business."

CHANCELLOR DAY SUSTAINED.

Appeal on Dr. Cooke's Charges Dismissed by Methodist Conference.

BALTIMORE, May 28.—The Rev. George A. Cooke's appeal against the ruling of Bishop David H. Moore in the matter of Mr. Cooke's charges against Chancellor J. R. Day of Syracuse University has been dismissed by the Judiciary Committee of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Cooke preferred charges against Chancellor Day before the New York Conference, alleging that Dr. Day had spoken disrespectfully of President Roosevelt in his writings, Bishop Moore presiding.

It was decided to merge the publishing interests of the denomination into one corporation, to be called the Methodist Book Concern, with publishing agents to be elected by the General Conference.

CHARGES POLICE GRAFT HERE.

United Presbyterian Clergyman Assails System in Other Centres.

PITTSBURG, May 28.—With the election last night of the new Moderator, the Rev. Dr. James G. Carson of the Xenia (Ohio) Theological Seminary, and the announcement that $1,280,090 had been raised during the year as a free-will offering, the first business session of the General Conference and semi-centennial celebration of the United Presbyterian Church began here to-day.

The Rev. Dr. S. W. Eachron of New York, speaking of "The United Presbyterian Church East of the Mississippi," flayed the Police Department of New York City, and of all cities. He asserted graft was running rampant in the large centres, where the foreign population, most of it immigrating from Southwestern Europe, settles.

PHILIP'S DEFENSE SHOWN.

Witnesses Say He Was Hounded by Cabman He Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Government's conduct of the trial against Gaston P. Philip, well-known here and in New York for the murder of Frank Macaboy, a cabman, last year, developed to-day many features in favor of the accused man. The gist of the evidence brought out to-day was that Philip had been hounded by Macaboy before he turned on him in the Arlington Hotel and killed him.

The Government brought out that the night before the shooting Macaboy had not only threatened Philip, but had followed him to his room. At this point the evidence was contributed by William Grissett, elevator boy at the Arlington.

He swore that he took Philip to the fifth floor of the hotel and that the cabman accompanied him. He then heard their vioces raised in controversy and saw the two men scuffling together in the corridor. Shortly after that they turned a corner out of sight from the elevator, and a shot rang out.

James O. Breast, a clerk at the hotel, testified that he ran to the scene immediately following the shot, and found Philip kneeling beside the cabman. Breast said he took a revolver from Philip that was unloaded and showed no signs of having been recently discharged. Macaboy, he declared, said at first that he had shot himself, but later he changed this statement and said that Philip had shot him.

Other witnesses told of the night's revel that led to the shooting.

EXPECT TO SINK MONITOR.

The Florida to be Torpedoed at Hampton Roads on June 10.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., May 28.—The monitor Florida, whose turret yesterday was the target of the big gun of the Arkansas, is now at the Norfolk Navy Yard fitting out for another important test. On June 10 she will be taken again to Hampton Roads to be torpedoed with a Whitehead torpedo.

The torpedo will be sent against a spot on the side of the vessel about eight feet under water. Inside the vessel, just back of the spot that is to be hit by the torpedo, a bulkhead of a new form will be built; it probably will be filled with water. It is expected the torpedo will sink the Florida, but as the experiment will take place in water not over 25 feet deep, it will be easy to refloat the vessel.

Capt. Quinby, who, with his crew, was abroad the Florida throughout the tests yesterday, sums up the results in two words: "Perfectly successful."

TO TRACE FORGED RACE TRACK LETTERS

Investigation to Follow The Times's Disclosure of Efforts to Defeat Gov. Hughes's Reforms.

PROSECUTIONS ARE LIKELY

"Senders Took a Leaf Out of Cassidy's Book," Says a Senator—Three Who Voted for Bills Wavering.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 28.—A profound impression has been created here by the disclosures in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, indicating that forgery on a wholesale scale has been resorted to in order to win votes for the defeat of the Governor's race-track reforms when they come before the extraordinary session. The TIMES article was the sole topic of conversation among the few Senators who assembled for the session here this afternoon.

Not less than ten thousand of the circular letters have poured into the capital Post Office within the last ten days. Some of the Senators, notably Senators Agnew, Page, Fuller, Taylor, Travis, and O'Neil, for many days have received a variegated mail, containing at least one thousand of these race-track missives. Some of the legislators who had become rather impressed with the size of their mail felt tempted to consign the letters to the waste basket when the result of the investigation became known here this morning. Upon further thought they changed their minds.

It is now likely that the letters will be preserved and used as evidence if an investigation that will be set on foot immediately by Senator Page should result in evidence that properly may be placed before a Grand Jury.

Senator Page to Investigate.

When Senator Page read this morning that the investigation conducted in his district had shown beyond doubt that the six race-track letters culled at random from his voluminous mail were "fakes," he decided to investigate.

"I shall have every one of the thousand or more letters sent me traced, and perhaps we will find some way of bringing persons responsible for this bold and criminal deception to justice," said the Senator.

"The race track people in sending these letters, in my opinion, have taken a leaf out of Cassidy's little book," said one Senator here to-day. "These letters, to my mind, may have been intended to serve the purpose Cassidy's John and I telegram served so well and render it less awkward for prospective converts to the race track people's way of thinking to explain their vote."

O'Neil a Possible Convert.

Senator William T. O'Neil of Franklin was mentioned to-day as a possible convert. He is a man with a very good record in the Legislature. While he has been in doubt about the practicability of the race track reforms, he made a ringing speech denouncing the opposition Senators as violators of their oaths to support the Constitution when the bills were up for final passage at the regular session.

SMOTHER SMALL DOG TO SEE IT REVIVED

Successful Demonstration of an Artificial Respiration Machine Cheered in Brooklyn.

WOMEN IN THE AUDIENCE

But Most of Those Present Were Physicians—The Dog, Gathered in from the Street, Wagged Its Tail.

An audience, composed of about thirty men and three or four women, most of the men being physicians, attended a demonstration of Prof. George Poe's machine for producing artificial respiration in the library of the Kings County Medical Society, at 1,313 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, last night, under the auspices of the First Legion of the Red Cross Society. They all applauded enthusiastically when the demonstrator, Dr. William Harrison of Guadalajara, Mexico, smothered a small yellow dog gathered in from the street, and afterward revived it by means of the respiration machine.

The audience watched with eager attention the convulsive twitchings of the dog's muscles as it was slowly deprived of air, and leaned forward eagerly when one of Dr. Harrison's assistants lifted the limp body in the air to show the watchers that no sign of life remained. Finally when the machine did its work and the victim of the demonstration was brought back to life, the audience voted unanimously, if its opinion could be judged by the applause, that the demonstration had been a complete success, although the little dog staggered as it tried to walk, and gave every indication of suffering.

The machine is the invention of Prof. Poe, said to be a cousin of the late Edgar Allan Poe. For many years he has been a Government chemist. Prof. Poe, who is blind now and a paralytic, is Vice President of a surgical supply company of Norfolk, Va. His machine is the result of thirty years' work. He conceived the idea, it is said, when he saw a near relative suddenly revive within two hours of the time set for his burial.

The machine is a combination of suction and pump, which alternately exhausts the foul air in the lungs of a person nearly dead and pumps in fresh air or oxygen. Its demonstration last night was the result of much negotiation, for Prof. Poe has been overwhelmed with requests to exhibit its working.

Dr. Harrison, who had the demonstration in charge, explained the plan of the machine and its method of operation, and told how it was hoped that much might be done toward curing consumption by the use of the invention. Its principal value, however, he said, would be in cases of drowning or asphyxiation. Prof. Poe did not offer his machine as a rival of "Gabriel's horn," said Dr. Harrison, but he asserted that the machine would revive persons who were dead to all appearances.

In preparation for the demonstration to come a small boy had been provided with a quarter and told to go out in the street and find a dog. The youngster returned presently with a yelping yellow cur. The little dog was carried to the stage. Its tail began to wag in a friendly manner when it found itself tenderly handled.

In an instant, however, Dr. J. P. Jackson of Norfolk, Va., who was assisting Dr. Harrison, had clapped a cap over the dog's nose and mouth. Some one else tied the animal's feet, and the audience settled back to watch the animal suffocated. For a few minutes it struggled desperately. The cap was held firmly over its nose and mouth, however, and gradually its struggles became weaker. Then its muscles began to twitch spasmodically. Suddenly a low wailing moan broke from its throat. The moaning continued for a short time and then suddenly ceased. At the same time the dog's muscles, which had become contracted, relaxed, and its body became limp.

Its feet were untied, and one of the demonstrators held it up in the air and then dropped it back gently on the floor. The dog did not move. A physician in the audience accepted an invitation to come up and examine the dog. After a few minutes he announced that while there was still life in the animal, it would die without the aid of artificial respiration.

The announcement was the signal for the attachment of Prof. Poe's machine. The handles were worked up and down a few times, and at last the small dog's chest began to heave up and down. A little more working of the handles and the dog kicked once or twice feebly. The movement was continued, and at last, after about ten minutes, the dog managed to climb to its feet.

It staggered and tottered as it tried to walk. It acted as though it were suffering from the effects of a drug, and was very weak. That it lived at all, however, was a vindication for Prof. Poe's machine, and the audience was properly appreciative.

Prior to the demonstration on the dog, a rabbit was put under ether, and revived almost immediately and without a struggle.

Brooklyn has been rather famous in recent months for experiments upon animals. One of the recent volunteer experiments was performed upon two puppies in the Bradford Street Hospital. Two young doctors sewed the dogs together and kept them alive for some time in that state. When called upon for an explanation they said that they were merely trying to see if the dogs would grow. They were formally reprimanded and suspended by Commissioner of Charities Hebbard.

NOT SAME MINING COMPANY.

Troubles of One Nevada Company Keep Another Company Explaining.

With so many issues of mining stocks, many similarities in name are sure to occur. Particularly those companies which take their corporate name from the locality in which their property lies are often embarrased by the company into which this class of nomenclature often throws them. THE TIMES printed a story yesterday of the troubles of the stockholders of the Nevada Copper Mining and Smelting Company of 25 Broad Street. The Nevada Smelting and Mines Corporation, which has not the remotest connection with the first-named company, happens to have offices in the same building, in addition to having a slightly similar name. THE TIMES's story kept the officers of the Nevada Smelting and Mines Corporation busy yesterday explaining that they had no connection with the other company.

To reassure stockholders, the company issued this formal notice in addition to printing an advertisement to the same effect:

> An article having appeared in the morning papers in connection with the Nevada Copper Mining and Smelting Company, which, because of the similarity in name to the Nevada Smelting and Mines Corporation, has caused some confusion, the officials of the Nevada Smelting and Mines Corporation desire to state that their company has no connection in any way, shape, or form with the company mentioned in the newspapers.

NEGROES DENOUNCE TAFT.

Connecticut Convention Opposes Secretary Because of Brownsville Affair.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—In resolutions adopted to-day at the convention of prominent negro voters of Connecticut, which will again meet in a few weeks at New Haven, Secretary Taft and his candidacy are bitterly denounced and Senators Foraker and Bulkeley are highly eulogized.

"We are opposed to Secretary Taft," run the resolutions, "because of the part he played in the Brownsville affair and his abandonment of the Fifteenth Amendment, and we, citizens of Connecticut, do solemnly and with great earnestness declase that neither the President nor Secretary Taft, if nominated, can or will receive the support of the colored voters of Connecticut."

FOR HARMONY AT CHICAGO.

Senator Hopkins, a Cannon Man, Slated for Resolutions Chairmanship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Republican National Convention at Chicago next month will be a harmony affair if the party leaders in Washington can make it so. This became evident to-day when it was learned that Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois has been slated for the Chairmanship of the Committee on Resolutions.

Senator Hopkins has never shone as a Roosevelt man and is now in the Cannon camp. Of course, the main planks in the platforms will have to be acceptable to the candidate, and that is one of the things Arthur I. Vorys, Frank H. Hitchcok, and Wade Ellis of Ohio have been talking over with the President and Secretary Taft for the past two days.

With the selection of Senator Burrows as Temporary Chairman of the Convention, Senator Lodge as Permanent Chairman, and Senator Hopkins for this committee Chairmanship, it is evident that the Senators are going to have about what they want in the convention, except the nominee, which is fine for harmony.

DRYDEN OUT FOR MURPHY.

Wants to See Him Chosen for Vice President at Chicago.

Ex-United States Senator John F. Dryden, who had previously expressed himself as favoring the nomination of William H. Taft for President, gave expression yesterday to his preference for Franklin Murphy, ex-Governor of New Jersey, for the Vice Presidential nomination. Mr. Dryden stated that he could see no one more worthy of the honor than Mr. Murphy. He said that in the first place, geographically, commercially, and politically, New Jersey was entitled to recognition. In the second place, there was no member of the great Republican Party more worthy of recognition by his State or his party than Mr. Murphy.

"A representative American manufacturer, a stanch and earnest worker for many years in the ranks of the party, and a member of the National Republican Committee, a former Governor of the State, and identified with many important public undertakings," said Mr. Dryden, "his name would add strength and dignity to the National ticket."

GOV. JOHNSON FOR PUBLICITY.

Wants Candidates for Nomination to Show How Much They Spent.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota, who was in Chicago yesterday on his way from the South to Minneapolis, gave his indorsement to the effort William Jennings Bryan is making to have Congress pass the bill requiring publicity for campaign contributions.

Gov. Johnson suggested that candidates in general elections be required to reveal how much was contributed, but that candidates for nomination be required to show how much they spent and by whom it was contributed.

TWO WOMEN FOR DELEGATES.

Colorado May Send Bryan's Daughter, Mrs. Leavitt, and Mrs. Hayes.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 28.—Colorado may emphasize the franchise for women in the State by sending two women delegates to the Democratic National Convention to be held in Denver in July.

Following the movement on foot in Denver to seat Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, there is a strong undercurrent among the Democrats of El Paso County to tender the honor of delegate to the convention to Mrs. Margaret Howell Jefferson Davis Hayes of this city, the only living daughter of Jefferson Davis.

"THEODORE III. CLUB" MEETS.

Artists Who Are for Roosevelt Gather in Shinn's Studio.

The artists' Theodore III. Club, the object of which is to try to give Mr. Roosevelt a third term, met at Everett Shinn's studio in Waverley Place last night and unanimously agreed that Mr. Shinn, painter and inventor of the Theodore III. puzzle, should be sent to Washington to meet the idol of the club, to shake his hand, and to tell him in what high regard the club held him. The meeting was attended not only by most of the eight artists who form the club, but by others besides.

The Secretary of the club, Mr. Calvert, displayed a great number of letters which the club has received from various Senators relative to the puzzle, which has been distributed all over the country, and he also announced that nearly $376 had been raised for the fund to start the magazine, to be called "The Ideal President." This magazine is to be published in case Mr. Roosevelt is nominated, the first issue a week after the convention.

The members of the club are William Glackens, Robert Henri, Everett Shinn, Morris Prendergast, John Sloan, Ernest Lawson, George B. Lukes, and Arthur B. Davies.

BRYAN GETS WEST VIRGINIA.

Delegates Instructed to Vote for Him Until He Withdraws.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 28.—At the largest Democratic State Convention in West Virginia for many years held here to-day four delegates at large were selected for the National Convention at Denver. They are George I. Neal, C. W. Osenton, L. A. Reymann, and Clyde B. Johnson.

Resolutions were adopted instructing the delegates to work for and support William J. Bryan for the Presidency so long as his name is before the Denver Convention.

The contest between W. E. Chilton and National Committeeman John T. McGraw did not figure openly in the convention, and it is declared that two of the delegates favor McGraw and two Chilton.

Arizona Instructs for Bryan.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 28.—The Arizona Democratic Convention met to-day, elected delegates to the National Convention, and instructed them to vote for the nomination of William J. Bryan for the Presidency. The delegates are W. A. Forbes, Pima; W. N. Webb, Graham; George J. Stoneman, Gila; J. P. Dillon, Yavapai; T. A. Reardon, Coconino, and B. A. Packard, Cochise.

Memorial Day, May 30, marks the opening of the Summer season at the great seashore resorts of the New Jersey Coast. Occurring this year on Saturday, thousands will avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting one of the forty pleasure places which line the one hundred and twenty-five miles of ocean beach.

Asbury Park and Long Branch will be especially attractive on Memorial Day. The entire beach front at Asbury Park will be illuminated at night by thousands of incandescent lights. There will be fine band concerts in the Arcade, a high-class theatrical entertainment at the Casino; all the boat docks on Deal Lake will be opened and surf bathing will be inaugurated.

Long Branch will have a special G. A. R. celebration, with a street parade in the morning and a patriotic address in the afternoon. Bicycle races will be held at Manasquan.

An elaborate celebration will be held at Wildwood. There will be a big parade, a May Pole dance on the beach, the launching of the floral boat in honor of dead naval heroes, and a big baseball game. Sea Isle City will hold a similar celebration. Ocean City will celebrate the day more quietly but not the less delightfully.

Atlantic City and Cape May will be important points of interest for Memorial Day parties. The delights of these two resorts are too well known to need description. All the Summer pleasures will be inaugurated.

send Colin a mile and a quarter in about 2:08, and Marshall, the best exercise rider of the Keene stable, had plain and definite orders. Colin, always a bit sluggish, will not work alone, and Transvaal was sent with him to induce him to gallop.

The horses went away together, and Colin, going freely, shook off Transvaal after six furlongs, and went on alone so fast that Trainer Rowe signaled the rider to slacken his pace, but Colin, going on against the pull his rider took on him, finished out the mile and a quarter in 2:06 2-5. Some of the horse watchers who were about reported the trial to be faster, and started much gossip about a sensational trial before they knew that anything had gone wrong with Colin. One of these timers, an expert, caught this record of the trial: Furlong, .12 1-5; quarter, .24 3-5; three furlongs, .37; half, .48 3-5; five furlongs, 1:00 2-5; three-quarters, 1:13 2-5; seven furlongs, 1:25 4-5; mile, 1:38 4-5; mile and a furlong, 1:51 4-5, and mile and a quarter, 2:05. This would make the trial one of the fastest, if not the fastest, ever seen hereabouts. The time has been surpassd by a fraction of a second only once or twice in actual races over the Sheepshead Bay mile-and-a-quarter course.

Of the chances of Colin recovering Trainer Rowe had little to say. He is the foremost and most successful trainer in America, and with more than thirty years' experience with high-class race horses, he said that he had not seen bowed tendons restored often enough to cause him any real ground for hope in Colin's case.

Had Won His Thirteenth Race.

The accident to Colin is a singularly heavy blow to the Keene establishment, and though the stable still has the good colt Celt left as the best of its three-year-olds, the latter is not engaged anything like so well as is Colin.

Colin last season, in twelve races, was not beaten, and won a total of $131,007. Some of the superstitious among the horsemen yesterday remarked on the fact that his victory in the Withers Stakes, which brought the total of his winnings up to $143,097, was his thirteenth race, and it was recalled that the unbeaten Tremont also broke down after winning thirteen races, and never ran again.

With his engagements, which included every great stake of the turf to which a three-year-old could be eligible, it was well within the possibilities that Colin this season might have won close upon $200,000, and there was a strong chance that his earnings for the season would have reached a figure, for his two years on the turf, which would have excelled the world's record for earnings, made by the English horse Isinglass, of $280,675, won in four years.

The loss to Mr. Keene, in the matter of money and aside from all sentiment, through Colin's breakdown is a big one, and ranks among the great misfortunes that have come with marked frequency to the most successful breeder and owner of race horses on the American turf. The most recent of these blows were the death of Sysonby, winner of $184,438 in two seasons, just as he was ready to begin a new season's campaign as a four-year-old; the breaking down and retirement of Peter Pan last season just after the colt had won the Brighton Handicap and when he had the prospect of sweeping all the rich stakes before him, and the loss by death of the sensationally successful young stallions Domino and Commando just as they went to the top of the winning list in the first two or three years of their service in the stud.

The breakdown and retirement of the Brooklyn Handicap winner Superman only two days ago was another instance of the ill-fortune which Mr. Keene had to overcome to hold the place he has secured as the leader of the winning list for a number of years and the maker of a world's record for a stable's winnings last season, when his horses earned a total of $400,000.

There were misfortunes to temper the successes, however, in the earliest part of Mr. Keene's turf career, as in his first notable ventures, the fifteen-thousand-dollar Spendthrift, Mr. Keene's first race horse, and the best of his time in America, broke down promptly on being sent to England, where, likewise, the Kentucky Derby winner Lord Murphy, bought and sent abroad by Mr. Keene, failed utterly, while the fashionably bred English stallion Blue Gown, bought by Mr. Keene for importation to America for $25,000, never even reached America, as he died at sea.

USEFUL HINTS TO HOUSE KEEPERS.

A COAT of Natural Jap-a-Lac applied over old or new linoleum or oil cloth will double its life, by preserving the original coat of varnish which would otherwise soon be washed or worn off.

WEATHER BEATEN front doors are revived and beautified when coated with Jap-a-Lac, and "newness follows the brush." It is best to use the color nearest that of the old finish.

WINDOW and DOOR screens should be coated with Jap-a-Lac each spring, using the Brilliant Black on the wire, and the Mahogany, Oak, Cherry or Walnut on the frames. It gives them new life and the wire cloth is protected from rust.

PORCH FURNITURE should be protected and beautified each spring with Jap-a-Lac. It is best to use the color of the old finish; but if you wish to change the color, use Red or Green Jap-a-Lac.

WICKER FURNITURE coated with Mahogany, Ox-Blood Red, Malachite Green or Gloss White Jap-a-Lac, looks better than new.

WATER PIPES, furnace fronts, radiators, hot water tanks and iron fences are preserved and beautified with the use of Jap-a-Lac. Use the Gold, Aluminum, Dead Black or Brilliant Black.

PICTURE FRAMES, candelabra, gas fixtures, lamps, etc., given a coat of Gold, Aluminum or Dead Black Jap-a-Lac, are renewed almost beyond belief;—the Dead Black produces that beautiful wrought-iron effect.

OLD AUTOMOBILES, carriages, wagons, agricultural implements, etc., Jap-a-Lac-ed with either Brilliant Black, Red, Green or Empire Blue, look 100% better, and are given new life. The cost is nominal, and the work can be done by an inexperienced person.

JAP-A-LAC is a household necessity, and can be used in a hundred and one ways, from "cellar to garret," and is especially adapted for finishing old or new floors and woodwork. Ask your paint dealer.

An interesting feature of all F. & O. stores is that you can always get "what you want when you want it" in footwear.

Just now we are featuring (and selling) some very fine lines of seasonable and sensible shoes in blacks, tans and colors for town, shore or country.

SENATE CLEARS WAY FOR CURRENCY BILL

Opposition of Democrats Disappears After Caucus—La Follette Only Hindrance.

EXPECTED TO PASS TO-DAY

Stone Comes 1,500 Miles and Says He Will Fight Bill to the End—Plan to Adjourn Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Such rapid strides were made to-day in the currency debate that it is considered practically assured that a financial bill will be passed to-morrow and all arrangements made by Congress to adjourn on Saturday until next December. The expected opposition of the Democrats disappeared after their caucus in the morning. The only possible stumbling block in the way of the programme is Senator La Follette, and to-night he intimated that he would not talk at any great length against the adoption of the compromise bill.

Only two speeches against the measure are scheduled for to-morrow. These are by Gore, who will not speak more than two hours, if that long, and La Follette, whose address is not expected to take up any great amount of time. Once these are out of the way, Aldrich will call for a vote, and to-night he is confident the bill will go through with a majority greater than attended either the original bill bearing his name or the substitute measure when the legislation was returned to the House.

Aldrich is being complimented on his handling of the currency situation, which up to a few days ago seemed impossible of solution. The work done in the room of the Committee on Finance has been herculean. Besides two distinct and inharmonious parties in the Senate there were as many different camps in the House, the ideas and theories of all of which had to be reconciled. That the conferrees managed to evolve a bill out of the chaos is considered remarkable.

Culberson Asks Question.

When the bill was brought up to-day Culberson seized the opportunity to "smoke out" Aldrich on the provision that permits railroad or any other bonds to be used as a basis for emergency currency. He asked if the term used in the description of the securities on which Clearing Houses could authorize the issuance of currency did not embrace all descriptions of securities. The term provides that "any security, including commercial paper," is available for such issue.

"Most certainly," replied Aldrich, in response to the question. "A Clearing House association may use its own judgment, but it is subject to the ruling of the Treasury officials."

Aldrich then proceeded to outline the provisions of the bill, asking that a vote be taken upon it at the earliest moment. Before he introduced the measure he had several conferences with Culberson and other Democrats, and ascertained from them that there would be no organized resistance to the passage of the bill. Culberson said the question of time for speeches had been left entirely to the discretion and wishes of the individual members of the minority.

Encouraged by this, Aldrich determined to ask for unanimous consent that a vote be taken at 5 o'clock to-day, or, in case this was overruled, he proposed to keep the Senate in continuous session until a vote could be had. The attitude of the Democrats led him to believe that this could easily be accomplished, but he ran into a snag when he came to La Follette, who never has been confined to the Republican reservation.

"Oh, no you won't," said La Follette. "You'll do nothing of the kind. We'll not grant unanimous consent for a vote, and if you try to force a vote by a continuous session I'll get up and talk on the bill for a week if necessary. We intend to see to it that every one opposed to this vicious legislation is given a chance to be heard, and to be heard in his own time."

Aldrich withdrew gracefully. So to-day Teller talked at some length, Owen voiced his opposition at lesser length, and Newlands devoted more than two hours to an attack on the bill and a more pointed attack on Aldrich. He obtained from Aldrich an acknowledgment that the latter has known for several years that the bank reserves have been inadequate.

"Maladministration," Says Newlands

"Here we have an example of the maladministration of the Republican Party," said Newlands. "Under the blighting lead of the Senator from Rhode Island, the Senate Committee on Finance, although knowing of the condition of the reserves, has done nothing to remedy a situation that was all too apparent."

He referred to the fact that the Financial Commission appointed to investigate the whole question of the currency consisted of the members of the Senate Finance Committee, reinforced by the Finance Committee of the House, and insisted that the country could place no confidence in any commission composed of such men. He urged that there should be an equal number of financial experts outside of Congress on the commission, these experts to be appointed by the President.

As the situation shapes itself to-night there is nothing in sight to prevent the passage of the bill before adjournment to-morrow. In that event it is the intention to pass the General Deficiency bill, the last of the appropriation measures, and then adopt a resolution of adjournment. With the passage of the resolution the exodus of members of Congress will be on, although the formal adjournment will not be taken until some time Saturday. The delay is to give the President opportunity to sign the large number of bills that have been thrust upon him in the closing days.

Stone Intends to Fight.

Senator Stone arrived from Missouri to-night bedecked with war paint and feathers. He brandished a tomahawk, and had been in town only a few minutes when he announced his intention of fighting the Currency bill to the limit of his powers. The Senator's indignation was augmented by the fact that the Democrats had telegraphed him to come 1,500 miles to fight a bill and that on his arrival he discovered that they did not intend to fight.

To-morrow he says he will endeavor to organize the Democrats. If he cannot get a party agreement to fight he will endeavor to induce as many of his colleagues as will go with him to make the fight and will co-operate with Senator La Follette. Senator Stone in an interview declared that the bill was a Republican trick to fry fat in Wall Street for campaign purposes and he did not propose to stand for it. Coupled with his fight against the Currency bill will be a demand for publicity legislation. Aldrich will see Stone to-morrow.

It was announced to-night that Speaker Cannon had practically determined on the majority members of the nine who will represent the House on the Currency Commission. These are reported to be Weeks, Burton, Hayes, McKinney, Vreeland, and Moore. The appointment of Moore is not yet definitely settled, but it is said on high authority that the others named will be chosen to serve. The Senate members of the commission, unless an unexpected change in plans is made, will all be members of the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

BANKERS' VIEWS ON THE BILL.

"A Heart-Breaking Disappointment," Says A. B. Hepburn of Chase National.

Sentiment among leading Wall Street bankers yesterday while generally regretful that Congress, after ample time and the best advice, had seen fit to rush through a compromise measure at the last moment, was on the whole inclined to look upon the Aldrich-Vreeland measure as better than nothing.

Currency reform has been the subject of careful investigation and report by the best banking authorities in New York, and these have freely given their conclusions to Congress, and have worked hard to impress upon the legislators the undesirable features of both the Aldrich and Vreeland measures out of which the compromise bill was made.

The bank Presidents who were at the active head of affairs during the money troubles of last Fall, which was the primary cause of the urging of currency reform at this session of Congress, have already put themselves on record as against a hasty piece of emergency currency legislation, and were reluctant yesterday to make specific criticism of the new compromise bill.

Clearing House Certificates.

A. B. Hepburn, President of the Chase National Bank, who has been one of the closest students of the requirements of an adequate currency reform, and who has been a leader in the campaign at Washington against the undesirable features of the measures discussed in Congress, called the Aldrich-Vreeland bill yesterday a "heart-breaking disappointment," but said it was better than nothing.

He focused the consensus of banking opinion in a discussion of the features of the bill, and said:

> What we need is a currency to keep us out of a panic rather than to help us out. The heavy tax, ranging from 5 per cent. to 10 per cent., redemption fund requirements, and other necessary expenses will preclude the possibility of using the currency except when money commands very high rates.
>
> The "National Currency Associations" provided for must first convene, receive the application of the constituent members for the proposed currency, approve, and forward the request to the Controller of the Currency, who forwards the same with his recommendation to the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of the Treasury "shall, if in his judgment business conditions in the locality demand additional circulation, approve the same," &c. The cumbersome machinery necessary to obtain this circulation compels the banks to advertise the crisis, which the Secretary of the Treasury confirms, all of which seriously aggravates the conditions which the currency is presumed to be efficacious in allaying.
>
> Banks with ample capital, good management, abounding in liquid assets representing the best credits of the country, were last year constrained to practically suspend currency payments because they could not get gold fast enough from Europe to meet the demand. This law furnishes an emergency currency which will save them that humiliation in future and will mitigate the loss which the public, as well as the banks, suffered in consequence of such suspension.
>
> Clearing House certificates last year served each locality very well in financing their local needs, but the certificates of one locality were of no avail in any other locality, hence the exchanges of the country were paralyzed. This is evident by the fact that New York exchange commanded as high a premium throughout the crisis as did currency. This emergency currency will obviate that because the certificates are equally good in all parts of the country and are perfectly good everywhere, as the Government is bound to redeem the same.
>
> As stated above, it does not aim to keep the business of the country out of trouble—only to help it out.
>
> Disappointing as it is, it is better than nothing and I am glad it has become a law. There is one feature that is most gratifying. Congress has recognized the natural and normal assets of the banks as a legitimate basis upon which to issue currency, guardedly and grudgingly, to be sure, but nevertheless they have recognized that fact.
>
> Discount banks are organized to aid the commerce and trade of the country, and their assets are presumed to consist mainly of promissory notes or obligations of people engaged in business. It is absurd that they should be constrained to go outside of their business and buy bonds which they do not want as a basis of banknote circulation. How long will the merchants and business men of this country tolerate Governmental discrimination against their credit and financial standing?

Bankers Withhold Views.

A canvass of the leading National banks yesterday found bankers who had not taken an active part in the currency fight reluctant to discuss in detail the new measure. Frank A. Vanderlip, Vice President of the National City Bank, said that although he had seen the complete text of the bill printed in THE TIMES, he had not had time to go over it thoroughly, and said he did not wish to make any comment on a matter which required careful analysis.

Alexander Gilbert, President of the Market and Fulton National Bank and President of the Clearing House Association, was not willing either to discuss the matter.

J. Edward Simmons, President of the Fourth National Bank and President of the Chamber of Commerce, said that his views remained those embodied in the various actions taken by the Chamber against in complete fiscal legislation.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the National Copper Bank, said that he could not speak with any authority on a matter which required more careful analysis than he had been able to give, but he thought that in view of the difficulty of having a measure to satisfy the big banks as well as the country banks, the new bill had a good deal of virture.

Prefers Defeat to Winning with Bryan.

Col. Le Gage Pratt, Congressman from the Eighth New Jersey District, who lives in East Orange, has stirred up all the Bryanites by a speech he made Wednesday, in which he said: "I would rather have my party go down to defeat with a good honest man at the head of it than to have William Jennings Bryan at the head of the ticket under any circumstances." The Congressman made this attack on the Peerless One at a dinner of the Newark Young Men's Christian Association.

A BILLION A YEAR SPENT BY CONGRESS

Appropriated $1,007,086,569, of Which $391,474,342 Was for Army and Navy.

DEFICIT IS $129,000,000

Post Office Department Received the Largest Appropriation for One Service — Pension List Long.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—When Congress packs its carpet bag this week and goes home, it will have established a record for expenditures never reached before in the United States in times of peace.

The total of its drafts upon the Treasury is $1,007,086,569, and there may be a few millions added to this before the gavel falls Saturday on the long session of the Sixtieth Congress. Only once before have expenditures reached the billion dollar mark; that was in 1865, when the country was in the throes of civil war and when the total outlay was $1,309,000,000. Of this $1,030,000,000 was for the maintenance of the army.

Of the appropriations for the fiscal year of 1909, that for the Post Office Department is heaviest; next to it in size comes pensions, closely followed by the permanent annual appropriation bill. The navy also carries a heavy sum, the bill this year making immediate provision for work on the two battleships authorized, a practice that has not been followed hitherto.

The record-breaking expenditure is made through the medium of sixteen general appropriation bills. Over many of these there were bitter differences of opinion, and practically all of them underwent changes before they finally were whipped into such shape that the Senate and House agreed to make them law. The bills, with their amounts in round numbers, follow:

Amount of Appropriation Bills.

Urgent Deficiency	$24,111,805
Indian	8,746,687
Legislative, &c.	32,833,821
Army	95,382,247
Post Office	224,065,142
Pensions	163,053,000
Fortifications	9,570,745
Agriculture	11,672,106
District of Columbia	10,117,669
Diplomatic	3,947,539
Naval	122,662,716
Sundry civil	112,937,314
Military academy	845,634
General deficiency	30,782,848
Permanent annual	154,194,296
Additional urgent	2,163,500
Total	$1,007,086,569

During the last year, more attention than ever before has been given to the reorganization and strengthening of the military branch of the Government. In consequence the expenditures for the army and navy have been the heaviest in history, not taking into account for comparison, of course, the years when the country has been engaged in war. Counting pensions, fortifications, and the expenses of maintaining the military academy as coming under the head of war expenses, the total is close to $400,000,000.

In detail the figures are as follows:

Army	$95,382,247
Pensions	163,053,000
Fortifications	9,570,745
Navy	122,662,716
Military academy	845,634
Total	$391,474,342

In the face of this expenditure of more than $1,007,000,000, the statement is made that the estimated receipts for the coming fiscal year will be $878,123,011. The deficit faced by the Government is thus in the neighborhood of $129,000,000.

More Pay for Customs Inspectors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Inspectors of Customs at New York and Philadelphia are to receive greater compensation in the future. A bill passed Congress to-day increasing their pay from $5 a day to $6. The increase also applies to Inspectors at Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, and such other ports as the Secretary of the Treasury may care to designate.

BOSTON MAINE

FIND EVIDENCE OF A PAPER MONOPOLY

But Committee Majority Demands Further Inquiry and Opposes Tariff Removal.

MINORITY REPORT PUT IN

Recommends Passage of the Stevens Bill to Place Wood Pulp on Free List and End "Acute Situation."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—There may have been a monopolistic white paper trust, but that is no reason why the tariff on paper and wood pulp should be removed. This, in substance, is the opinion of the Republican majority of the select committee of the House which has been conducting an investigation of the subject for the last few weeks. True to the prediction made in these dispatches when the committee was appointed, Speaker Cannon's men have submitted a stand pat record, mitigated only inferentially by a declaration that they have not all the facts yet, and intend to continue the hearings during the Summer.

Assigning as a reason the fear that Canada would impose an export duty on wood pulp and print paper, the Republican majority in a "preliminary and partial" report recommended that the Stevens bill removing the duties on print paper and wood pulp be not adopted. Instead of this measure the majority suggests as a remedy for the conditions they find in the paper trade "a mutual agreement or treaty between our country and Canada."

Assenting in general to the findings of the majority, the two minority members, Representatives Sims of Tennessee and Ryan of New York, recommended that the Stevens measure be passed to bring to an end as speedily as possible "an acute situation," which they describe as having grown out of existing duties that "have raised the price of wood pulp and print paper not only in itself, but by giving to the paper manufacturers a shelter behind which they could organize combinations which, if not technically susceptible of proof as 'unlawful trusts,' are, in our opinion, in reality such. It is true that the tariff of itself, perhaps, might not account for the full advance in price, but the tariff, plus the tariff-engendered combinations, do account for all of it."

In the majority report, which is signed by the four Republican members of the committee, Representatives Mann, Miller, Stafford, and Bannon, it is made plain that the investigation is not yet over, and that there still is a possibility that important evidence—in particular looking to the unearthing of an illegal combination of paper manufacturers—may come out. The committee will continue its hearing through the Summer. It promises to make definite recommendations with more elaborate findings when Congress convenes next December.

The committee expresses a doubt concerning the existence of a paper monopoly, though it declares that the undoubted rise of prices all over the country at the same time points to a well-formulated understanding between the manufacturers. On this point the report says:

"That a general increase was in fact put into effect on new contracts appears to be unquestioned. Some of the contracts then outstanding were five-year contracts, which had several years yet to run. Others are based upon the annual market price, with a maximum price named, and others upon different terms.

"The advance in price made by the International Paper Company on new contracts was close to 50 cents per hundred pounds, or $10 per ton. While this advance has applied up to the present time on probably less than one-half the news print paper consumption, yet, if the advance which was made should be applied to the entire consumption of news print paper in the United States, it would probably amount to an advance of about $10,000,000 per annum.

Fails to Prove Any Combination.

"The evidence before the committee so far fails to prove any combination of print-paper manufacturers to advance prices or otherwise in restraint of trade, but considerable evidence was presented which might excite suspicion that such a combination had been made and was in existence. Evidence was presented in relation to a combination of manila and fibre manufacturers, and it seems to be admitted that that combination did exist, has since been dissolved with a fall in the price of its products, and is now under investigation through the Department of Justice in the United States Court at New York.

"Such of the paper manufacturers as have appeared before your committee during its hearing have strenuously and completely denied under oath the existence of any combination, agreement, or understanding of any nature whatever among the paper manufacturers or their selling agents to regulate, control, or advance the price of paper, the assignment of customers, or for any other purpose in restraint of trade."

The majority report is summed up in the following words:

"While there appears to have been complaint on the part of the paper manufacturers that the selling price of paper for 1906 was too low to be fairly remunerative, yet we are inclined to think it was not until the Summer of 1907 that there was a general increase in print paper prices. That a general increase was in fact put into effect on new contracts appears to be unquestioned."

As to a Combination.

As to the charge of the existence of a combination in restraint of trade, the report says:

"The evidence before the committee so far fails to prove any combination of print-paper manufacturers to advance prices, or otherwise in restraint of trade, but considerable evidence was presented which might excite suspicion that such a combination had been made and was in existence.

"Such of the paper manufacturers as have appeared before the committee during its hearing have strenuously and completely denied under oath the existence of any combination, agreement, or understanding of any nature whatever among the paper manufacturers or their selling agents to regulate, control, or advance the price of paper, the assignment of customers, or for any other purpose in restraint of trade."

In the course of this preliminary report there are discussed the increased cost of production, increased cost of wood pulp, cost of ground pulp, hours of labor in mills, "some increase in the price of paper justified," Canadian competition, exportation from Canada, removal of the tariff, and the Stevens bill. Under the sub-head "Removal of the Tariff" the report in part says:

Removal of the Tariff.

"The question as to the removal of the tariff on print paper and wood pulp is intimately connected with the conservation of the forest resources of the United States as well as its effect upon the paper manufacturing industry and the newspaper publishing industry. The committee is not yet prepared to make a recommendation as to the permanent policy of the United States in regard to the duty on paper and pulp, except that the committee is firmly of the opinion that the tariff on newsprint paper and on wood pulp should not be removed as to paper or pulp coming from any country or place which prohibits the exportation of pulp wood, or which levies export duty on paper pulp, or pulp wood, or makes any higher charge in any way upon wood pulp or pulp wood intended for exportation to the United States.

"It would seem that for the American publisher to be assured of low prices for his paper, it is essential to maintain paper mills in the United States. Any policy that would give the Canadian mills a preferential advantage over American mills in obtaining the raw material at a lower price, must inevitably result in the dismantling of American paper machines and the ultimate dependence of American publishers on Canadian mills. Under such conditions Canada could levy export duties on print paper that would result in enhanced prices without the presence of competition from American paper manufacturers.

The Minority Report.

The minority report indorses the Stevens bill in its entirety, and recommends its passage.

Discussing the issues between the publishers and the paper manufacturers, the report states that an acute situation which might be termed "trade hysteria" was precipitated in 1907 in news print paper manufacture when a group of sixteen Wisconsin mills, known as the Wisconsin Wood Pulp Association, bought 50,000 cords of pulp wood in the Province of Quebec, Canada, which purchase entailed a transportation of that material a distance of 1,500 miles. "It introduced a new and unlooked for factor which demoralized the wood pulp markets of the United States as well as of Canada, where nearly 1,000,000 cords of pulp wood are bought for export to the United States.

"It started paper quotations upward until one paper trade journal reported that the current prices for news print paper on July 1, 1907, ranged from $52 to $62 per ton. This advance had been foretold by paper salesmen and others nearly a year prior to a so-called paper famine."

Market Was Glutted.

Immediately following the panic of October, 1907, it is stated, newspaper publishers sought to offset their losses caused by diminished advertising revenues and by increased cost of paper by reducing the number of pages of their papers, resulting in a diminution of consumption. In consequence the paper mills, which had been taxed to supply the market, soon found their stocks accumulating, with a decreasing demand for their product. The market was soon glutted. Confronted with the alternative of reducing their prices or closing their mills and discharging their labor, the paper manufacturers, it is stated, chose to maintain the high prices.

"They kept their prices so far above the normal level," says the report, "that Canadian mills were able to pay the duty of $6 a ton and to undersell American mills in the American market, doing this while paying wages for labor that compared favorably with the wages paid by the American mills." The maintenance of high prices under such conditions, it is stated, brought about the unlooked-for result of giving to Canadian labor some of that work of production which otherwise would have gone to American labor.

Many cases of hardship among publishers in consequence of notification of a proposed increase in price are cited. It is pointed out that these papers were forced to the alternative of contracting at the higher price or a suspension of publication.

"Evidence of concert of action on the part of the paper makers in obtaining higher prices are furnished by reports from many newspapers located in every part of the country, though actual violation of the criminal statutes has not been shown. However, the paper makers failed to explain the uniformity of prices or to entirely justify their advance in price.

"The testimony also showed that the reduction in the hours of labor was not general throughout the entire country, though all mills raised their prices upon the allegation that their labor cost had thereby been increased. The claim that pulp wood had increased in price has more merit than the claim of increased labor cost, but the increase in wood cost did not justify the advances which the paper makers ultimately adopted."

After calling attention to the fact that "an extraordinary and unaccountable secrecy marked the relations of manufacturer and publisher, and that contracts with large consumers were made under obligations of confidence and secrecy," the report concludes:

"We find that the revenues derived from import duties on pulp and printing paper are so small and the benefits to be obtained from the abolition of those duties are so considerable that we urge the placing of pulp and printing paper on the free list. We believe that relief from existing conditions can be fully and promptly secured only by the immediate consideration and passage of H. R. No. 18,608, introduced by Mr. Stevens."

KILL A ROOSEVELT BILL.

No Money for Waterway Board—Employes' Bill Barely Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—One of the President's pet measures was slain in the Senate arena to-day, and another, although crippled, is coming up to-morrow to renew its fight for existence.

The first was the bill providing funds for the maintenance of the Inland Waterway Commission. Senator Newlands sought to have it considered, but Senator Aldrich objected, and it was lost for this session.

The other was the bill providing compensation for injured Government employes. It was introduced, only to be objected to by Senators Hale and Teller. Senator Depew made such a strong fight, however, that finally he wrung from Mr. Aldrich a promise that it get consideration to-morrow.

WRIGHT MAY SUCCEED TAFT.

Not Looked Upon as a Democrat—Plan to Break Solid South.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Roosevelt and members of the Administration developed a conspiracy of silence touching the report published to-day that Gen. Luke E. Wright of Memphis had been chosen for appointment as Secretary of War to succeed Mr. Taft when the latter quits the Cabinet after his nomination for the Presidency at Chicago next month. The universal refusal either to confirm or to deny the report is taken as reason for believing it to be well founded.

Gen. Wright has been a Democrat, but recently the Democrats of Tennessee have been accusing him of being a backslider. It is the desire of the Administration to break into the solid South which is put forward as the reason for choosing Gen. Wright for a Cabinet place.

RELIEF FOR COLLAR VICTIMS.

Congressman Moore's Plea for Regulation of Laundries Granted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—J. Hampton Moore's "bulldog and billygoat" laundry regulation bill was formally approved to-day by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the governing body of the National capital. Some changes were made in the measure, and the Commissioners agreed that the proposed licensing and inspecting of laundries is not only desirable, but necessary in the interest of public health and cleanliness, not to mention the preservation of the shirts of a Congressman.

The changes strengthen the bill, but do not change its essential features. The license fee remains at $50, and the penalty for any violation of the regulations remains at not exceeding $100.

M'INTYRE JEWELRY WENT TO MISS BOYD

Bankrupt Testifies That She Put It in Bank and That He Gave Some of It to Her.

PARTNER PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Ryan's Counsel Says He Was Really Only a Clerk—Rumor That He May Turn State's Evidence.

George C. Ryan, the member of the bankrupt firm of T. A. McIntyre, who was arrested Wednesday night in Syracuse charged with grand larceny in the same five indictments on which T. F. McIntyre himself was arrested, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. He was represented by Lawyer Frank L. Polk, who asked that his client might have till June 10 to change his plea or make any other necessary motion. Bail was fixed at $25,000 and was furnished by the Fidelity Trust and Deposit Company.

Mr. Polk declared that his client was little more than a clerk in McIntyre's office, and it was rumored that he might be a witness for the State at the trial.

The five indictments against the two men are identical. They charge grand larceny in the first and second degrees in having appropriated to the firm's use stocks belonging to clients.

When the bankruptcy proceedings against McIntyre were resumed yesterday before United States Commissioner Gilchrist, the hard luck of Charles Van Baar, bandmaster of the Old Guard, played a part in the hearing. Mr. Van Baar's bad luck started when he accepted an automobile as security for a bill of $330. He testified that he had given music lessons to Miss Anna H. Boyd, who he had been led to believe was a niece of Mr. McIntyre, but afterward learned was Mr. McIntyre's nurse instead.

Mr. Van Baar called at the Wyoming apartments on April 24, he said, and found the McIntyre apartment upset. He asked for $330, which was due for musical instruction. Mr. Van Baar said Miss Boyd told him he could have a touring car as security, and he agreed to take it.

"Was the car delivered to you?"

"Yes, and it has cost me about $75 a week for repairs ever since," he replied sadly.

"Do you claim the car?"

"I do not," replied Mr. Van Baar quickly, and added: "I am willing to surrender the car on a court order. I think it belongs to Miss Boyd."

The question of what has become of Mr. McIntyre's jewels, supposed to be worth between $30,000 and $40,000, was taken up at yesterday's hearing. Mr. McIntyre said he had a quantity of jewelry which had belonged to his late wife, but that it was removed by Miss Boyd to the safe deposit department of the Night and Day Bank before April 24. He said he had given Miss Boyd part of the jewelry, how many pieces he could not remember. He had also sold jewelry to the extent of $8,000, including a diamond pin, a pair of stick pins, formerly earrings belonging to his wife, and other articles which he could not remember.

John H. Edwards testified that Miss Boyd had furniture stored in the Manhattan Storage Warehouse under the name of William H. Levine. Mr. McIntyre's counsel agreed to turn over this furniture to the receiver.

The hearing will be resumed next Wednesday at 2 P. M.

Edward T. White, member of the McIntyre firm, applied for and received an order yesterday granting him immunity from civil arrest from Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court.

THIS "HOME RUN" MORTAL.

Boy Falls Into River While Trying to Keep Another from Scoring.

Tommy Osborne's home run in the game of "one old cat," which several small boys from Public School 44 were playing in the open lot known as "The Farm" beside Pier 34, North River, yesterday afternoon, was responsible for the drowning of Freddy Eckhardt, 14 years old, who lived with his parents at 210 West Street.

Freddy was a fielder, and as soon as Tommy hit the ball he started after it. The ball hit on the roof of the pier shed, and went over on the river side. Freddy started to walk along the stringpiece of the pier, running along beside the wall of the shed. When about half the length of the shed from shore he slipped on the narrow footway, and fell into the water.

Raymond Healy, 15 years old, of 15 Leonard Street, saw the boy fall and started to his aid, but Eckhardt did not come to the surface, and it is supposed that his head must have struck on a submerged log.

TO DEVELOP ALASKA COAL.

President Signs Bill Restricting Holdings to 2,560 Acres.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Roosevelt to-day signed a bill which in the opinion of many persons is the most radical measure of legislation enacted during his administration. Its title is, "To encourage the development of coal deposits in the Territory of Alaska."

Its principal provision includes an attempt to prevent monopoly by restricting holdings to 2,560 acres of coal lands and providing a penalty of forfeiture of all holdings by persons individually or in combination who get possession of more than this number of acres. It also gives the Government first claim on any coal that may be mined, thus guaranteeing fuel supply for the navy.

WIFE PLEADS FOR EX-HUSBAND

Former Mrs. Shanley for Children's Sake Tries to Save Lawyer from Jail.

When Judge Foster sentenced Victor Shanley, a young lawyer, to not less than five nor more than ten years in the State Prison yesterday, for forging the satisfaction piece to a mortgage, his former wife, who divorced him, and is now the wife of a lawyer in the Corporation Counsel's office, broke into tears, and was led sobbing from the room by her husband.

Throughout the entire second trial she watched anxiously, listening eagerly to every word of testimony. Generally she came to court alone. Even when he was finally convicted, she did not despair. Everything she could, she did to gain a suspension of sentence, but Judge Foster held the crime was too flagrant to meet with clemency.

NEW YORK WIDOW KILLED.

Auto Falls Over an Embankment at Seattle with Mrs. Ottolengui.

SEATTLE, Washington, May 28.—Mrs. Amanda Ottolengui was killed when an automobile carrying seven persons fell over the embankment on Magnolia Bluff last night and landed with the party underneath.

Mrs. Amanda Ottolengui was a widow and lived with her brother, I. Devoga proprietor of a sporting goods store at 102 West 119th Street. Her seventeen-year-old son, Harold, lived with them. Mrs. Ottolengui had been in Seattle about five days visiting her sister.

Regan Gains a Point in Gorham Suit.

In an action brought by James B. Regan, proprietor of the Hotel Knickerbocker, pending in the Supreme Court, against the Gorham Company for damages, a motion was made before Judge Gerard yesterday by Cornelius Earley, Mr. Regan's counsel, to vacate an order obtained by Olney & Comstock, counsel for the Gorham Company, directing Mr. Regan's examination before the trial of the action. Mr. Earley contended that this was a move by the defendant to disclose the plaintiff's case before the action was tried. Justice Gerard granted the motion.

COTTON EXCHANGE CENSURED

Commissioner Smith Makes Another Report on Its Operations.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations, made public to-day the second and third parts of his report on the operations of the Cotton Exchanges dealing with the methods of classification of cotton and with the range of grade contracts. Further facts are advanced in support of the conclusion reached in the first part of the report that the fixed differences between grades established by the New York Cotton Exchange worked inequitably, and that the commercial difference system had many advantages over the other system. Going beyond this the Bureau of Corporations recommends the exclusion from contract deliveries of all grades below low middling cotton.

Many of the suggestions advanced during the bureau's investigation of the Cotton Exchanges are rejected as impracticable, including the suggestion that only one grade of cotton should be permitted to be delivered on any single option, and another, that two classes of options be established, one for cotton of middling and higher grades and the other for cotton below middling grade. In supporting the commercial difference system of grade differences in place of the New York fixed difference system the report states that it is not as a matter of principle that the New York system is objected to, but largely because of the careless or improper application of the rules affecting these differences.

Despite the wide range of grades allowed under the New York Exchange's rules the report states that even these rules have not been complied with. It points out that under a ruling of the Board of Appeals of the Exchange and against the protest of the Classification Committee a certain amount of cotton of the 1906 and 1907 crop was included in the lowest contract grade, after it had actually been rejected by the classers.

The Classification Committee in issuing certificates for this cotton wrote across them that the cotton ought to have been rejected. This ruling of the Board of Appeals, the report says, illustrates the more or less general tendency of the officials of the New York Cotton Exchange to depart from commercial and equitable principles in the very fundamentals of their system.

Despite this censure of the Cotton Exchange officials the report says that the management of the Exchange is now trying to correct abuses which have been complained of. In pursuance of this policy, the report states, was the lessening of the number of contract grades at the beginning of this year.

GRAINS SOAR AT CHICAGO.

Armour Shows No Mercy in Wheat—Patten Settles in Corn.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Armour and Patten sent another procession of nervous chills up and down the backs of the wheat and corn shorts to-day. Wheat went up to $1.09, an advance of 3¼ over Wednesday's strong close, and corn soared to 82¾.

Mr. Armour apparently is not disposed to show his own string of shorts any mercy, steadfastly refusing all appeals for a private settlement. His tactics have brought signs of rebellion and the shorts are said to have made plans to default in their deals and have the whole matter thrown before the Board of Trade, which has a rule that grain may not be forced to a price in excess of its worth.

Mr. Patten is more lenient. He is willing to let his shorts settle their losses outside of office hours. In to-day's exciting trading he attempted to keep the price from mounting too high and was making adjustments with all who wished.

To-morrow marks the close of the bull deals in both grains, and the climax may be sensational.

COURT GREETS EX-OFFENDERS

Nearly 200 Under Suspended Sentence Gather Before Judge Rosalsky.

Judge Rosalsky told yesterday of a special session held in his court on Wednesday night, when all but seventeen of the more than two hundred persons on whom he has suspended sentence in the two years and a half he has been on the bench reported to him. Of the missing seventeen, five sent good excuses for their absence. Though the gathering was in a sense a matter of discipline, the meeting was in a measure a social one.

One man, who got another chance more than two years ago from Judge Rosalsky, now holds the place of manager of a large corporation, whose employ he entered after suspension of sentence through the recommendation of a probation officer. One boy is now a college student. All were able to tell the court some story of at least moderate success.

Woman Sent to Penitentiary for Gross Cruelty to 5-Year-Old Girl.

Mrs. Sophie Brecher of 460 East Fifty-seventh Street was sentenced to one month in the penitentiary by the Justices of Special Sessions yesterday for gross cruelty to five-year-old Louisa Engelhardt. The New York Infant Asylum had given the child into the woman's care.

The child was in court. Though naturally pretty, she had bruises on her head, face, and arms; she was very thin, and there were bare places on her scalp where the hair had been torn away.

Allegheny Bank Officials Confident That Montgomery Has $500,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBRG, Penn., May 28.—Officials of the Allegheny National Bank, which was wrecked by William Montgomery, the ex-cashier, who stole in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, are now thoroughly convinced that Montgomery has at least $500,000 of the money he took from the bank "salted," and that he will use a part of it in attempting to obtain a pardon.

The officials of the bank have commenced an investigation to find where this money is.

Just to show they're consistent little fellows, the Jimmy McAleer chappies in the store clothes took another game from the Highland heroes, and last night went on about their business with a record of three games won out of three games played, which is quite a lot of percentage. Good day to you, Master McAleer, and we hope you choke.

For the benefit of those determined readers who will insist upon facts, no matter how painful, these statistics are offered to whom it may concern:

Score—St. Louis, 4; New York, 3.

Runs made in innings—4, 6, and 8.

And this is positively all that shall be here provided in the matter of bald figuring. There was a fifty-fifty-split in the fourth inning, when we each took a run. Have to tell you a bit about this because Jimmy Williams, our wandering boy, was mixed up in the gather, and James is going to get his name mentioned several times in these next few inches, because, throughout yesterday's play, his other name was Mister Busy.

Stone was first up for the boys in the embroidered seymours, and the ball he slammed down toward second would have gone right on through a cast-iron door or the gate of a H. H. M. safe, but of course had to yield up the ghost when it encountered Mr. Niles's mits. The only thing tougher than our Mr. Niles's hands is Terry McGovern's face at about the time Joe Humphries is telling him to behave. So Niles stopped that gallant endeavor and Stone perished. Hoffman got a base on balls, and then J. Williams aforesaid hit neatly to centre, advancing Hoffman to third, whence he shortly after ambled safely home on Hartzell's hit.

The best part about our first run, which came in that same fourth inning, was Stahl's brave belt to right for two bases. The attention of those who speak of this gent in the past tense is respectfully drawn to his hitting record of the week. He is not yet ready to eliminate the "h" and finish his name with a double "l."

Williams gets his name in every description of yesterday's run innings. Maybe that's what you'd call fortuitous circumstances, or maybe it's just because Williams played a whole lot of ball. Anyway, in the sixth canto, the sweet singer of St. Louis sung a song that sounded for all the world like a Homer, as indeed it was, worthy James banging out a line of ball that even a leopard couldn't have caught—and that's the fastest runner what is. How, then, was Jake Stahl, in the left hand lot, to garner? Answer—Jake wasn't and didn't. The ball hit the ground by the score board and scooted over the fence, and James William just walked around those bases till he'd covered four. "Shall we give um a home run?" says a bulge-browed fan in the grand stand, fingering score book and pencil doubtingly. Yes, son, Yes!

Now, here's the eighth inning, with Dineen—a pretty steadfast sort of pitcher, as those Yanks who would shake him found out—going out at first, Ball to Chase. Then Stone walks, and Hoffman hits to right. Two men on bases and Williams at the bat. Much bated breath, and all that sort of thing. Incoherent coaching by Jimmy McAleer. Silk O'Loughlin, umpiring at the plate, straining his ears and eyes to catch every sound and move, and Umpire Egan, sound and kind, and once more in the game, standing watchfully behind the pitcher. Williams drives out one like a Mauser ball, and everybody with patriotic instincts groans aloud; it's surely good for scoring two. But what is this? The ball's course is stayed. Who stays it? Niles? Nay. Ball? Nuhnuh. Who but Umpire Egan, the unafraid. The other day a swift swat put Mr. Egan out of the game for quite a spell. Yesterday the blow didn't even stun him. He's getting used to these pleasantries. He stopped Williams from bringing in eighth inning runs, but he couldn't get in the way of Hartzell's hit to right—even the willingest umpire can't be all over the field at once—and Stone and Hoffman scored.

Williams was still demanding the public eye in our half. He fumbled criminally, and on this fumble, Hemphill, our first Yank up, made three bases, when he might have been out. The careless-bug also bit Hartzell, for when Chase hit to short, Hartzell fumbled badly and then made a wild throw, on which Hemphill scored. Stahl flied, and Conroy should have flied, but Stone dropped it, and that perked up quite a bit. We didn't need many to win. Ball hit clean to right, scoring Chase, and then crabbed his act by trying to make second. The result proved that a carefully thrown ball travels faster than the human body is capable of moving under its own propulsion. So Ball went out at second, and Moriarty's fly retired the side. And no runs came either way in the ninth.

Rube Waddell showed himself in practice work, and the Hudson kept right on flowing, with nary a sign of ignition.

There was a great deal of unnecessary vociferation in the grand stand. One fan made so much noise you couldn't hear Jimmy McAleer's suit of clothes.

MISS BISHOP GOLF VICTOR.

She Will Play Mrs. Callan for Metropolitan Championship To-day.

Miss Georgianna Bishop of the Brooklawn Club, Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. L. W. J. Miss Bishop is the present holder of the title and her victory over Miss Julia R. WASHINGTON, May 28.—Gen. James A. Drain, President of the National Rifle Association of America, announces that the team of riflemen to represent the United States in the Olympic games to be held in England July 9, 10, and 11 will not be sent, owing to the refusal of the British Olympic Council to extend the time for submitting individual names of men of the team from June 1 to June 15. The American trials to determine the personnel of the team had been fixed for June 10, 11, 12, and 13.

KEENE'S CELT WINS IN A FAST RACE

Three-Year-Old Beats Jack Atkin in His Public Trial for Brooklyn Handicap.

TRANCE TAKES THE GAIETY

Odom's Filly Carries High Weight to a Clever Victory—Five Belmont Park Favorites Win.

Celt, companion star to the unbeaten Colin in the great racing stable of James R. Keene, made a victorious first appearance of the season at Belmont Park yesterday in the chief event of the day, the Jockey Club Weight for Age race, and, leading all the way, won in fast time from Jack Atkin, the best mature horse that has raced in the East this Spring. To all intents the contest was a two-horse race from start to finish, and Celt's triumph was of a character to put the three-year-old high up in the esteem of horsemen, as, carrying full weight under the scale, he made his own pace throughout, and, galloping well in hand at the end, finished a mile and a furlong in 1:52, completing a most satisfying public trial for the $25,000 Brooklyn Handicap, to be run Monday, which is his next engagement.

The race was run under the disadvantage of a high wind that blew against the horses as they went through the back stretch, but Celt, on the outside at the starting post, went out for the lead at the lifing of the barrier, and carrying a fast pace from the first jump drew clear of his two opponents, racing with him for the lead, in the first furlong. When Celt showed first, Dugan, on Jack Atkin, eased the four-year-old and settled down for a waiting race, Jack Atkin galloping under a pull just on Celt's hips around the turn to the head of the stretch. Dorante, on the last turn, made an effort to get up and closed some ground, but dropped away beaten before they reached the stretch, where Jack Atkin moved up to Celt's shoulders. On the straight, Jack Atkin made his last effort, and, running stoutly to the end of the mile, forced Notter, on the three-year-old, to rouse Celt with a flourish of the whip. Celt then drew away again and eased up at the end, and, with Jack Atkin stopping fast, the three-year-old won by a length, Dorante being eight lengths behind Jack Atkin. The summaries:

BROADWAY WINS AND LOSES.

Croker's Champion Makes Good Showing at Bulldog Show.

More than 150 dogs were judged yesterday at the Spring show of the Bulldog Club of America at the McCreery Building, 112 West Forty-second Street. The entry list included many of the best bulldogs in the country, and the competition in nearly all the classes was very keen. The majority of the prizes were carried off by the entries from the Firenze, Gotham, and Dundee kennels, and Richard Croker, Jr.

The surprise of the day was the victory of Gotham Trust Promoter over Richard Croker's famous Broadway, Moston Colonel, and other champions in the limit class for dogs. The winner was practically unknown and seldom shown before. In the open dogs class champions Gotham Odin and Thornbury Diamond were both placed over Broadway, although the latter had repeatedly beaten the pair before.

Richard Croker carried off double honors with Belanshee, a promising son of Broadway-Bramble, but lost to champion Heywood Beauty in the open class for bitches. The latter won premier honors for winners with Madam Menelek reserved. In the winners' class for dogs champion Gotham Odin was first, and Gotham Trust Promoter, reserve.

MISS PAUL'S ENTRY WINS.

Philadelphia Girl Applauded When Her Horse Is Awarded a Blue.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—Those who take an interest in social groupings found much to consider at the Horse Show today in one of the afternoon classes for horses in harness driven by women. In the oval at the same time were to be seen Miss Emily H. Bedford, representing one of the wealthy old New England families; Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt of New York, Mrs. Bain, whose interests are far more equine than they are social, and Miss Mary Astor Paul, whose name speaks for itself in Philadelphia.

When the blue ribbon was awarded to Miss Paul her friends in the grand stand went wild with delight. Mrs. Vanderbilt received second, and there were more cheers. Third place, the "V. H. C.," was given to Mrs. Bain.

The Vanderbilts had Mr. and Mrs. William E. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Love of New York with them for luncheon.

Young Isaac Jobson, who was injured on Wednesday when thrown from Richard McGrann's mare Tarafort, appeared on the grounds with his arm in splints.

Huntsman, Beware in Jersey!

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, May 28.—Sportsmen should be informed of an amendment to the Trespass act passed by the last Legislature. Under the old act owners of lands had to post them in order that persons could be arrested while hunting over them for game. Under the amendment which has had the approval of the Governor a sportsman steps on any unposted private land at his peril, as owners do not have to post their lands to make posible prosecution of gunners. There is little knowledge of the new act and prosecutions may follow because of ignorance of the gunners.

Clinton in Dual Meet with Morris.

The Clinton and Morris High Schools' dual meet will take place this afternoon at Macomb's Dam Park. The Clinton track team is confident of being the victors, as it has defeated all comers this season, and would have been a close contender for the Championship Cup had it competed. Owing to the death of its Principal, John T. Buchanan, it refrained from all athletic activities.

WEST POINT LOSES LIVELY POLO GAME

Squadron A Defeats Military Academy Officers at Van Cortlandt Park.

SPORT DRAWS A BIG CROWD

Lieut. Morris and Lieut. Honeycutt Score the Two Points for Visitors—Hunt Makes Ten Goals.

West Point's polo team, composed of the officers of the Military Academy, came down to Van Cortlandt Park yesterday to engage with Squadron A in a friendly match. It is the first time in two years that this inter-military game has been played. The squadron poloists originated the plan of holding annual matches with West Point about four years ago, but of late years there has been a lack of enthusiasm among the West Pointers, owing to the fact that Squadron A has won every game hitherto played and also to the mediocre ponies and poor facilities for practice at the Military Academy. The story of the past was unchanged yesterday, for, with the teams playing on even handicaps, the local troopers so far outclassed the visitors that when the long Ben period game was over, at 7:30 o'clock, the squadron had a score of 15¾ goals to 1¾ for West Point.

In order to play the game on as even terms as possible, the squadron presented the novel plan of drawing lots for the ponies of the two teams. The squadron brought to the field sixteen of its stock ponies and nineteen cavalry mounts came down with the West Pointers, but only sixteen were used. The result of the draw was as satisfactory as the most critical could have wished, for it gave eight ponies of each squad to the opposing teams.

Long before the game started the west side of the big field on the parade ground was thronged with spectators. The squadron coach, driven by J. H. Alexandre, Jr., drove up with a merry party just before Referee Lorillard Spencer, Jr., threw the ball in the centre of the field, and a dozen or more automobiles and fashionable traps gave an air of country club sociability to the scene.

The West Pointers cheered the victors heartily at the close of the match and later in the evening the Squadron Polo Club entertained them at dinner at the Union Club. A return game will be held during the year at West Point. The teams and summary:

Summary.—Goals earned—Squadron A, 16; West Point, 2. Lost by penalties—Squadron A, ¼ for a safety; West Point, ¼ for a safety. Net score—Squadron A, 15¾; West Point, 1¾. Referee—Lorillard Spencer, Jr.

$10,000 to Bind Burns-Lang Match.

SYDNEY, May 28.—The syndicate which is arranging for the visit to Australia of "Tommy" Burns, the heavyweight pugilist, has deposited $10,000 to bind the match between Burns and Lang, the Australian boxer. The fight is to take place at Sydney in August. The syndicate also has the option of arranging two additional fights for $7,500 each.

LONDON, May 28.—On being asked to-day whether his Australian visit would interfere with the negotiations for a fight with "Jack" Johnson, the colored heavyweight, "Tommy" Burns replied that Johnson would have to wait until his Australian engagements were concluded.

GREAT NECK, L. I., May 28.—By a score of seven and a half goals to six the first team of the Meadow Brook Club this afternoon defeated the Freebooters of the same club in one of the best games that have been seen at Grace Field for some years. The event was for the second Challenge Cup offered by Grace Polo team, open to teams of four under the existing handicaps. Throughout, the game was very fast, and until the timer's bell sounded for the conclusion of the game it was not known who were the winners, as first one team and then the other would be ahead on the score. The total handicap of each team was seventeen goals.

Alexander Wins Tennis Title.

Frederick B. Alexander made as quick a finish as he could to the final of the Long Island championship lawn tennis tournament. He made it three short and decisive sets against Henry J. Mollenhauer on the courts of the Kings County Lawn Tennis Club, Brooklyn. With his victory at 6—3, 6—2, and 6—4 he becomes the challenger of Irving C. Wright for the title and trophy. While the singles final was the feature of the afternoon the remaining semi-final in the doubles produced good sport, Edwin P. Larned and C. Frederick Watson, Jr., defeating Charles M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin, the Crescent Athletic Club pair, in straight sets by the score of 6—1 and 7—5.

Miss Sallie Homans and Miss E. A. Lane won the titular doubles yesterday on the courts of the West Side Club, 116th Street and Amsterdam Avenue. This pair was faced in the final by Miss Elizabeth H. Moore and Miss Jeannett Smith, and although the latter were a dozen times within a stroke of winning the pluck and persistency of the prospective champions held them off until the latter finally scored by the best two out of three sets, at 4—6, 8—6, and 11—9. The triumph of the pair was all the more remarkable as they had just finished their semi-final before taking the court, and had won over Miss Betty Collamore and Miss Grace Quackenbush at 6—0 and 6—1. An attempt was made to decide the men's singles championship, but as only three sets had been played at dark it was put over until to-day. The score at closing stood: William B. Cragin, Jr., vs. Ross Burchard, 11—13, 3—6, and 6—3.

Walter L. Pate, John C. Remond, H. Gulick, and C. C. Putnam filled the semi-final brackets of the singles tournament on the courts of the Brooklyn Tennis Club yesterday. Remond, a former champion, scored a signal victory over Robert Cassamajor, one of Columbia University's former experts, at 6—2 and 6—love. The summary:

Men's Singles.—First Round—R. Cassamajor defeated E. M. Brunn, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5; H. Gulick defeated W. C. Perkins, 6—4, 6—8, 6—0.

Second Round—W. L. Pate defeated J. N. Thurlow, 6—3, 6—4; J. C. Remond defeated R. Cassamajor, 6—2, 6—0; H. Gulick defeated R. A. Van Vranken, 6—2, 6—1; C. C. Putnam defeated Weston Williams, 6—0, 6—3.

New York A. C. Chessmen Win.

With six players on a side, the New York A. C. and the Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn engaged in a game of chess at the clubhouse of the former last night. Several years ago the Crescents obtained the verdict in a similar match. Since then chess has been somewhat dormant among the Winged Foot athletes, but this year much interest has been developed under the coaching of Major J. Moore Hanham. The consequence was that a challenge was dispatched to the Crescents, who accepted with alacrity. The match was won by the New York A. C., 5 points to 1. The New York A. C. winners were Randolph, Gower, Ely, and Boscowitz. The Docharty-Rose and Prindle-Johnston games were drawn, the draw games counting half a point for each side.

Dartmouth Wins in Tourney.

BOSTON, May 28.—The New England intercollegiate tennis championship closed to-day with two well-contested matches in the finals in singles and doubles, Dartmouth scoring 1½ points in the championship cup by taking the former event, while in the doubles Wesleyan scored an unexpected victory over Williams and obtained one point in the cup with half a point for Williams. The standing of the colleges for the cup, eight points being necessary for possession, is as follows: Williams, 6½; Technology, 6; Brown, 4; Dartmouth, 3½; Amherst, 2½; Wesleyan, 1½; Tufts, 1; Bowdoin, 1; Vermont and Trinity have not scored as yet.

VANDERBILT RACE PLANS.

Cup Commission Inspects Probable Course on Long Island.

Chairman Jefferson Demont Thompson, A. R. Pardington, and Supervisors Philip J. Christ, Smith Cox, and Chester Painter made an inspection of the roads of Nassau County, L. I., yesterday with a view of selecting the course for the Vanderbilt Cup race next Fall. Two courses have been laid out, but neither has been determined upon, though both are said to suit the plans of the Cup Commission. The plan calls for the use of eleven miles of the Long Island Parkway, which is yet to be built, eight miles of State road, two miles of town highways, and seven miles of country roads. It is understood that the right of way both on the State and County roads and through the townships can be secured and that the Parkway stretch will certainly be finished in plenty of time for the race in October.

Supplies have all been shipped along the line of the Parkway, and it is expected that two thousand men will be set to work next week along the entire stretch. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., will officially turn the first spadeful of earth at Central Park on Saturday of next week. No doubt is entertained by any one of those interested in the work that it can be completed and in good shape by the middle of September, as far as the road is included in the race plans.

THOMAS 6 cylinder Touring car or Roadster, price fully equipped, top, speedometer and clock, shock absorbers, trunk rack, etc., $6,000. F. O. B. Buffalo.

NEW YORK AND PARIS RACE

7,000 miles from home and spare parts the Thomas "Flyer" is being hurled over the worst roads encountered during the race, keeping the American flag at the front in the greatest Automobile Contest ever run. Roads up to the engine in mud and water, and filled with logs and hidden boulders. Do you blame the manufacturers who did not dare put their cars before the public in such a contest of strength and reliability?

GRAND PRIX

Again in the Grand Prix the THOMAS alone comes forth to defend America against the best there is in the world's motor car manufacture. Facing forty-five of the fastest cars in the world, many of them working together in teams, our faith of the Thomas car was not shaken by the tremendous odds against it. We believe in the Thomas Car; so does every Thomas owner. Ask them! Do you wonder that there are invariably more Thomas Cars than any others, American or foreign, at the races, and contests that society attends?—that it is the most popular as well as the best car built to-day?

USED CARS

We offer a few 1907 "Flyers" thoroughly overhauled and repainted, duplicates of the New York to Paris car, at half their original cost, and as good as new. Also some 1906 "Flyers" at from $1,300 to $1,500.

THE EMERGENCY BILL.

Nobody attempts to defend the emergency bill. Even the preposterous proposal bears upon its face a limitation in time, which is the same as saying that it neither can nor should be endured longer. Yet this unendurable proposal is itself an alleviation of the erstwhile perfect currency system of the Republican Party, to which it has pointed with pride uncounted times. With what scorn has our cherished Uncle Joe ridiculed those who advocated a "rubber" currency, and yet the genial old gentleman turns up smiling in favor of adding a half billion dollars to an already excessive volume of currency, whose merit but yesterday was the statutory prohibition of retirement when not wanted. Each house is on the record as formally condemning the proposals of the other house. The very gentlemen who sign the conference report combining all the faults do so apologetically. Upon this the Republicans propose to go to the country, and set themselves up stoically for the ridicule of the judicious.

However, the thing is before the country, and respect for our lawmakers requires that some attention be paid to the ripe—not to say overripe—fruit of their half year's labors. The first thing which occurs is to compare it with the practice of bankers under conditions which make correct conduct a matter of financial life and death. It appears that the bill reverses what our bankers did. They accepted as a basis for Clearing House certificates commercial paper in the proportion of 3 to 1 of bonds. This bill makes the proportion of commercial assets acceptable 30 per centum of capital and surplus, leaving 70 per cent. for bonds. Moreover, commercial assets are to be accepted only to 75 per cent. of face value, while bonds are to be accepted up to 90 per cent. Why should the law thus penalize the best banking practice, not only of New York too recently to have been forgotten, but of the entire world? Is there any inference that the bill is an indirect bill of indemnity to Secretary Cortelyou for a similar lapse, under conditions entitling him to indulgence? There could be only one objection to leniency with whatever was done wisely and in good faith under such conditions, and that is that it should not prejudice the future under cover of indulgence for the past. Yet that is what the bill proposes.

The bill is subject to the objection which proved fatal to the proposed amendments to the Sherman trust law. The country would not stand the placing of the control of commercial affairs in the discretion of the Executive. This bill proposes to place the administration of the statute in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury. It is no derogation from the personal or official dignity of the present Secretary to say that the country will be as reluctant to place this power in his hands as the corresponding anti-trust regulation in the hands of the President. This is still a country of law, not of Executive discretion, which no man can measure or foresee. Banking practices are vital to banks and their customers, and they are entitled to do business together directly, without bureaucratic intervention.

The bill bristles with minor objections. The best which can be said for the bill is that it will fail in its object. It indeed does devolve the power of Clearing Houses upon the Secretary, but the Clearing Houses are not so easily gotten rid of. Can there be doubt what any bank will do in a compulsory choice between clashing edicts of the Clearing House and those ineffective associations which are the avenue of approach to the Secretary, and whose membership is discredited by the very fact of divorce from the Clearing House? Words fail to describe the ineptness of lawful regulation of a panic. When the bankruptcy of entire communities hangs in the balance who is going to stop to apportion the issue of currency "equitably"? A feather duster would be as useful against a cyclone. Surely some of the Congressmen must have read Job. Bearing in mind that this is a bill exclusively for the regulation of financial cyclones, it is well to quote the seer who had almost as much cause for patience as we with Congress:

> Canst thou draw out leviathan with a fishhook, or press down his tongue with a cord? Canst thou put a rope into his nose, or pierce his jaw through with a hook? Will he make many supplications unto thee, or will he speak soft words unto thee? Will he make a covenant with thee that thou shouldst take him for a servant forever? Wilt thou play with him as with a bird, or wilt thou bind him for thy maidens?

When these things happen to leviathan, then will financial cyclones follow the metes and bounds of this worthless defense against emergencies.

THE WORTHLESS BALLOT LAW.

Whatever may be the ultimate result of the recount as between Mr. McClellan and Mr. Hearst, the disclosures made in the course of the first day's recounting are sufficient to condemn the present ballot law as a grossly defective and dangerous statute, and to make it quite impossible that we should ever go from bad to worse by adopting the Massachusetts form of ballot, so strenuously urged by reformers who are more zealous than wise.

In one ballot box, that used in the Second Election District of the Sixth Assembly District, the recount led to the exclusion as void, for irregularity in marking, of twelve ballots out of 379, or more than 3 per cent. These ballots presented no evidence of fraud; at most, a mere presumption was created that the irregularity in marking might have been a device employed by a bought voter to show that he had kept faith with his buyer. These ballots were accepted as valid by the Election Inspectors. They were rejected by the Judge, two years and six months after the day of election, because the voters' marks in the circle did not comply with the law which requires that two lines crossing each other shall be placed therein. The diagrams of these unlawful markings, which we published yesterday, show that the irregularities were of such a doubtful nature that candid men, even Judges upon the bench, might honestly disagree as to the propriety of their rejection. As Judge Lambert explained, workingmen with stiffened muscles, unaccustomed to the use of a pencil, illiterate, it may be, and but imperfectly informed as to the requirements of the law, might with the best intention in the world mark a ballot in so clumsy a manner as to fail of compliance with the law. Manifestly, the fault is with the law, and not with the voter. It is preposterous that the act of suffrage should be regulated by a statute making it possible for the will of the electorate to be defeated long after the election by the throwing out of ballots honestly cast by qualified voters, simply because of an unskillful use of the pencil in the voting booth.

Three per cent. is altogether too great a margin for invalidating errors. But if the errors amount to 3 per cent. under a ballot law which requires but a single cross in the circle at the head of a party column, what percentage would they reach under a plan where a cross must be put before the name of each candidate, as is done upon the Massachusetts ballot? With the names of from fifteen to twenty candidates for each party upon the ballot, a very large proportion of the voters would certainly disfranchise themselves by markings not in conformity with the law.

The theory of every ballot law should be to make voting easy and certain according to the intent of the voter. Our present law is manifestly worse than the old system under which ballots printed by the party organizations were handed to the voter as he approached the polls. The Massachusetts law would be vastly worse for this State, at least, however well it may work where an educational requirement is made a condition of exercising the suffrage. The conclusion is irresistibly forced upon us that it is the voting machine, not the Massachusetts Ballot act, that we want in New York State.

HARD TIMES FOR MUCKRAKERS.

Things are coming very much the way of those who have thought that the muckrakers here were overdoing their scavenger work, and this is happening elsewhere as well as in New York. We have more than once remarked that the liquidation of our embarrassed banks bore unimpeachable witness to the fact that our banking conditions were never so bad as painted, even when judged by the worst cases which could be selected. The same appears to be true of Philadelphia, where a name dragged through the mire most conspicuously has just been cleared most inconspicuously. And yet the facts are worth attention for the most impersonal of reasons, to wit, for their bearing upon the financial wholesomeness of the community which is impeached under such conditions.

When the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia suspended it was alleged that it had been looted by the loans of Adolph Segal, in collusion with the company's Treasurer, Mr. North, and his assistant, Mr. Collingwood. No less than forty-one indictments were found against the three men, and yet within a few days they have all been fully exonerated, there being no facts in support of the allegations. Mr. Segal was simply a borrower, upon adequate collateral, as appears from the fact that he has redeemed it. Hence his arrest, instead of being a vindication of virtue, was an outrage which is only partially avenged by the retraction of charges made in good faith, and under conditions of excitement, but which nevertheless were never fit to be made at all. It is a duty as well as a pleasure to take note of such incidents, since it is impossible in doing so to rest under suspicion of condoning improper acts even in defense of the reputation of an entire community, which is impeached when its representative men and institutions are charged with vice instead of misfortune. The fabric of any financial community is strengthened by the swift recuperation of banks, and Philadelphia is entitled to place a like construction upon Mr. Segal's deliverance.

STANDING BY THE TRUSTS.

Whoever strikes at a tariff-protected Trust wounds a friend of the party in power. The Republican Party has the habit of standing by its friends. Its custom and practice are exemplified for the hundredth time by the majority report of Mr. Mann's committee which, upon the complaint of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, has been investigating the wood pulp and print paper business in its relation to the tariff. The report, it may be said at once, is precisely what was expected. The attitude of the controlling influences in the committee toward the publishers respectfully petitioning for a redress of grievances was that of public prosecutors having before them wicked persons engaged in a conspiracy. The majority report, therefore, properly rebukes the petitioners, and denies their prayer.

Chairman Mann is deeply solicitous for the welfare of the print paper manufacturing interests. "Any policy that would give the Canadian mills preferential advantage over American mills in obtaining the raw material at a lower price must inevitably result in the dismantling of American paper machines and the ultimate dependence of American publishers on Canada." That is to say, the business of manufacturing news print paper is in such desperate straits that the removal of the duties on wood pulp and printing paper would destroy it. There is no combination at work. The petitioners presented pretty good evidence to show the existence of an agreement or understanding to keep up prices, but did not the paper manufacturers "strenuously and completely deny, under oath, the existence of any combination, agreement, or understanding of any nature whatever among the paper manufacturers"? We shall have come upon evil times, indeed, when it is necessary to take the word of a selfish and prejudiced consumer against the solemn oath of a tariff-sheltered Trust.

The qualities of shameless dishonesty and partisanship which characterize the report throughout and make up its substance might excite the indignation of persons unfamiliar with the traditional attitude of stand-pat Republicans toward assailants of the sacred tariff. But the Republican Party has so long, more than half a century, been engaged in fooling the people about the tariff that it is entirely natural that its conscience should have become callous, and that it should be indifferent to the reproaches of mollycoddle morality. The majority report, while holding out some hope of further investigation, recommends that the duties be retained. The minority report recommends their removal. So the matter will stand through the campaign. It happens, however, that the testimony has been printed. It will be accessible to the press, to the compilers of campaign literature, and to the orators who will address the voters. The case presented is that of a typical group or combination of manufacturers who are enabled by Republican tariff duties to demand unreasonable and extortionate prices for a commodity of universal consumption. If the party in power thinks that a concrete illustration of tariff abuses thus clearly presented is a good campaign issue, it is entitled to all the comfort and advantage it can derive from the Paper Trust investigation.

MR. BRYAN'S KNOWLEDGE.

Probably nobody in the country except Mr. Bryan's most ignorant adherers, who think he knows everything because he talks glibly, will be astonished by the statement of a Chicago banker, Mr. Forgan, that the perpetual candidate does not know what a bank deposit is. How many persons who frequently deposit money in banks comprehend the theory of banking? Not many. But financiers do, and statesmen who criticise banking methods and promulgate schemes of financial reform ought to.

Mr. Bryan's fault is not that he does not know much about finance and banking, but that, seemingly unaware of his ignorance, he continually talks in public on those subjects in the manner of an oracle. Intelligent people used to be amazed by Mr. Bryan's utterances, but they have become used to them, latterly, and hear him with complacent tolerance. This sort of feeling for Mr. Bryan, complacent tolerance, has become a veritable malady in the Democratic Party.

The South, for instance, does not like Bryan, and does not trust him. But its complacent tolerance of his candidacy may deprive the country of the wholesome influence of a strong and intelligent opposition to the party in power. Little harm could be accomplished by the people who admire Bryan and believe in him. But they who complacently tolerate his whims and his shallow sophistry, and accept his candidacy, with good-humored sneers, are doing the whole country a grievous wrong.

THE HANSOM CABS.

The adoption of the taxameter by the public hansom cabs, if it becomes general, will be a boon to the public. The season of Summer travel is at hand, and the cab to and from the station, especially from the station to the tired returning tourist's home, is a luxury highly esteemed. The legal rate (50 cents a mile) has never seemed too high for the service, but the difficulty has been to find cabmen satisfied with that rate. Our cabmen have seemed to a long-suffering people a band of brigands, out for the spoils. They drive between the timid woman and the trolley car and demand from $3 to $5 to take her and her handbag anywhere. If the hitherto unregulated hansom cab, which has defied legal rates for years, is now to take on a taxameter, and be regulated, one of our transportation problems is in a fair way to be solved.

The new charge of 25 cents for the first half mile will make a short ride in New York as cheap as a ride in London or Paris. To be sure, a London cabman is expected to carry you two full miles for the humble shilling, but he rarely does. His pathetic pleading generally conquers, even if his abusive vocabulary is not brought into use. New Yorkers do not expect to ride two miles for 25 cents. The 50 cents a mile rate does very well, when it is adhered to.

The motor taxicab has worked wonders in this town already. It has already made the routine of New York life more agreeable. If its influence really induces the old-fashioned cabman to accept legal fare, and thus enter into honest competition with it, thousands of New Yorkers will be grateful.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Not for Their Decision. Even those of us who incline toward the opinion that, all things considered except cost, men are apt to make better teachers than women, just as they are apt to carry any work which both sexes can perform to a higher degree of excellence than is within the capacity of their feminine rivals, will feel something between regret and humiliation that the men Principals in the public schools of the city should have been moved to make open vaunt of their superiority and to petition the Board of Education to employ them in greater numbers.

Somehow it wasn't quite nice, not quite courteous, not quite in good taste. Perhaps, as the petitioners say, "the fact that boys and boys' schools need the commanding strength of men teachers for the order and discipline growing out of the greater respect boys have for the authority of a man needs no argument," and perhaps, as they also say, the association of boys with men adds to their manliness. Much has been said in support of these assertions, and some of it had a rather convincing sound, but the men teachers are such deeply interested parties to the controversy that they cannot with any propriety act as judges in it, and they might well leave it to the settlement of other people.

Their adoption of the contrary course is a bit irritating—enough so to create a temptation in some minds to call attention to the fact, also in no need of argument, that not all men teachers can talk about their "commanding strength" without exciting smiles, and, on the other hand, most of us in our boyish days had to do with more than one or two women teachers for whose authority we had abundant respect. Nor were those particular women inexpert or unsuccessful in giving lessons in manliness to such boys as had the inclination or ability to profit by them.

The men teachers seem to forget, if they ever knew, that, respectable and important as is their profession, it is one that frequently has effects not altogether admirable on the men who follow it for any great length of time—gives them, for instance, a habit of ascribing enormous weight to trifling faults and inconsequential virtues. The school master's favorite pupil is only too often a failure in after life, while the object of his severest reprehension occasionally manages to become great or good or both, in spite of it. Mistakes of this sort women are rather less likely to make than men, if our observation is correct, and that is a phenomenon not to be ignored in considering this large question.

Notified of a Mistake. So nearly sure are we that there is no newspaper office, even in Nebraska, where mistakes are not sometimes made that we are almost as much grieved as surprised that The Omaha World-Herald should attack us with ferocity for having printed recently a dispatch to the effect that on the day before the Democratic State Convention had been held at Butte, and that the delegates, though adopting resolutions of allegiance to the principles of Mr. Bryan, had instructed the men sent to the National Convention to vote for Mr. Johnson. Montana's State Convention, says The World-Herald, will not be held until June 10, and therefore Montana has not yet instructed for Mr. Johnson or anybody else.

The truth of both these statements we humbly and frankly, and, oh! so regretfully admit; indeed, we have already printed a correction. Explanation of just how the error did occur would be unintelligible to the uninitiate, and therefore details would be useless; it is enough to say that a Montana County Convention did exactly what we had a not-yet-held State Convention doing, and so the blunder came.

But why didn't The World-Herald kindly point out the error, with sympathy if possible, with humor if necessary? Just to make it a little ashamed of itself we will print here a bit of the poor, foolish stuff it does say:

> But is it honorable newspaper practice to assert a lie for the truth, presumably for the effect that lie might have on Democratic action in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Alabama, and elsewhere? Do The Times and The World and The Sun, and the other rabid newspaper enemies of Mr. Bryan in New York, really believe they can pursue these tactics indefinitely and still retain whatever influence they may once have had with their readers?

Recommends the Muzzle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If my recollection is correct, an ordinance was passed a few years ago—after a prolonged howl—requiring muzzles on all dogs on the street. This should be enforced, as the owner's name, a four or five foot leash, or a dog license do not prevent rabies. PRO CANIS.

DIRECTOR OF ZOO MAKES PROTEST

Declares About 10 Per Cent., or 120,000, of Annual Visitors Are Disorderly.

THROW RUBBISH ABOUT

Lunching Parties, Banana and Peanut-Eating Fiends, and Waste Paper Strewers Sternly Warned.

William T. Hornaday, Director of the Bronx Zoological Park, has addressed to The Times the following protest against a class of visitors to the Zoo, who, he declares, have become an intolerable nuisance:

New York, May 28, 1908.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the past nine years the New York Zoological Society has sought by every means in its power to promote the pleasure and the intellectual enjoyment of all visitors to the Zoological Park.

While the great majority of the 1,200,000 persons who annually visit the park are fully appreciative of these efforts and do all in their power to promote the best interests of the park, it is also a painful fact that about 10 per cent. of our visitors are utterly heedless of certain duties which they owe to the cause of good order. After long and careful consideration and many experiments, it has been decided that a campaign of education and admonition must be undertaken forthwith. It is earnestly hoped that through the aid of the press and of printed notices the offenders against good order may be led to reform the careless habits of which we now complain.

Up to this time the New York Zoological Park has been constantly defaced by vast accumulations of waste paper, paper boxes, fruit skins, newspapers, and the shells of nuts that have been thrown upon the walks by visitors. Practices prevail in many of the public parks of America which in Europe would not be permitted for one moment, and the worst offenders in this respect are persons who have come to us from European countries wherein they would not dare to do as they do here. There are to-day in New York City many thousand persons who think that "liberty" and "license" are synonymous.

The Zoological Park is not the only place in New York in which the practice of throwing down refuse prevails. I have noticed it in every New York public park which I have visited, and it abounds on nearly every street.

On all days of heavy attendance at the park the litter of torn newspapers, paper boxes, fruit skins, and peanut shells that by mid-afternoon bestrews the walks and the grass borders is unbelievable until seen. In the aggregate it is to be reckoned only by tons and cartloads. It is no uncommon occurrence for one family luncheon party to strew upon the grass, within 20 feet of a waste basket, more than a bushel-basketful of rubbish! Peanut shells have become an intolerable nuisance, and the bringing of unshelled peanuts into the Zoological Park is to be prohibited in the interest of good order. Not only do the shells fringe the borders of the walks, but they cover the grass alongside for a width of from 3 to 5 feet.

There are a number of good reasons why this objectionable practice should now resolutely be taken in hand and broken up. Speaking for the Zoological Park, I can state positively that the habit complained of costs us between $2,500 and $3,000 per year; and even with that expenditure the walks are unsightly after 2 o'clock P. M. This waste of money in the performance of work unfairly and improperly created is an injustice to taxpayers and should be stopped by a change in the habits of the disorderly section of the public.

The practice complained of fosters and promotes disorderly habits and lawlessness in other directions. To suppress it is one of the bounden duties of good citizenship.

The Director and officers of the Zoological Park, with the assistance of the Police Department, propose to bring about a reform in the treatment of that park by careless and disorderly visitors. In this effort the assistance of all good citizens is invited. By means of signs printed in four languages and conspicuously posted for as long a period as their presence may prove necessary visitors are now sternly forbidden to throw waste paper, luncheon refuse, or nut shells upon the ground and are directed to place all such materials in the baskets and other receptacles provided therefor. The time for reliance upon polite and mild requests has gone by. In the parlance of the street, these notices "mean business," and the machinery to compel the observance of the rule against disorder is all ready.

It is not the duty of any park administration to provide a waste basket for every bench and for every nook and corner in the grounds! It is the duty of the person producing rubbish to carry it until he finds a proper receptacle for it, be the distance long or short. Hereafter every person in the Zoological Park who is seen to throw any rubbish upon the ground will be dealt with, and all visitors who believe in law and order are called upon to assist in this campaign for decency.

In its desire to promote to the fullest extent the pleasure of visitors to the Zoological Park the Zoological Society has for nine years permitted visitors to bring boxes of luncheon into the inclosed grounds and consume their contents anywhere save in the buildings. This privilege is not accorded in any zoological garden in Europe, so far as we are aware. But the habits of the luncheon parties—some of them—have become so intolerable that unless a complete reform is effected the park officers will be compelled to set aside one spot exclusively for lunching, and to it send all parties who bring food into the park. This will be not nearly so pleasant, and the disagreeable day has been postponed as long as possible.

There is no reason why lawlessness and disorder should be endured in American parks, when in the parks of Europe such conduct would not be tolerated for a moment. In Berlin any person who throws waste paper upon a street or pavement is immediately accosted by a policeman and given the option of picking up the paper or being arrested and taken to a police court and fined. As a result the parks and streets of German cities—and of Dutch cities also—are the cleanest in the world.

In the schools our grand army of school teachers labor year in and year out to teach school children the value of orderly habits. In our streets and parks the example of disorderly grown persons destroys much of the value of that teaching and encourages disorder and lawlessness. There is no New York street without its fringe of waste paper, banana skins, and peanut shells two hours after the cleaners have gone by. As a people we are entirely too easygoing—aye, too indolent, if the whole truth must be spoken—in the curbing of lawlessness and disorder.

In the belief that the conditions and practices complained of have been endured quite long enough, you are invited to co-operate in the campaign of education that is necessary to eradicate them, and which now begins in the New York Zoological Park.

BOARD DROPS ENGLISH BID.

Water Commission Rejects Low Offer to Build Wallkill Siphon.

The Board of Water Supply decided yesterday to throw out all the bids received for the construction of the Wallkill siphon and to advertise the work again or possibly change the plans and do the work itself. The lowest bidder was the English firm of S. Pearson & Sons, which asked $3,304,909; the next was McArthur Brothers, who bid $4,352,163, and then came the T. A. Gillespie Company, which was willing to do the work for $4,685,450. In addition, the enormous bid of $25,003,710,975 was received from the Bradley Construction Company, which was an error for a bid of $3,786,975.

The peculiarity of the bid of the English firm was its lowness. The engineers of the board had reckoned that the work would cost about $4,500,000, and it seemed impossible that Pearson & Sons could make anything on the job. The Central Federated Union, moreover, protested to the Mayor, and accused the firm of being hard in its treatment of its employes. The Mayor referred the delegates of the union to the board, and its members have now declared themselves dissatisfied with the English bid. On the other hand, Pearson & Son are still anxious to undertake the work, and maintain that they can make a profit upon it.

The Board of Water Supply, in letting the contract for the Ashokan Dam last August, threw out the lowest bidder, the Pierce Company, which asked about $10,000,000, and accepted the offer of the McArthur Brothers and the Winston Company for over $12,500,000. This award led to an investigation by the Commissioners of Accounts, who criticised the board for not making a sufficiently searching investigation into the character of the bids, but sustained their right to act.

GIFTS TO EDUCATION.

General Board Reports That It Has Recently Distributed $787,000.

Dr. Wallace Buttrick, Secretary of the General Education Board, to which John D. Rockefeller has given many millions to aid in its work of fostering education, academic and industrial, in the United States, announced yesterday that the board had recently made donations to educational institutions and to the farmers' co-operative demonstration work in the South amounting to $787,000.

This aggregate of gifts was shown in the various reports made to the board at its regular meeting Tuesday night, when to its fourteen members were added President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University and Andrew Carnegie.

The largest single gift reported had been made to William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., amounting to $125,000. Davidson College, Davidson, N. C., comes next with $100,000; Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., third, with $75,000, and Harvard University for its Graduate School of Business fourth, with $62,000.

To these benefactions must be added the $80,000 given for the farmers' cooperation work and the $20,000 for the payment of the salaries and traveling expenses of the special high school agents in connection with State universities in the Southern States. At present the board has in the South eighty-nine agents, who are conducting nearly 15,000 demonstration farms in the various Southern States.

SEA BOTTOM IN MINIATURE.

To be Reproduced from Coral in the Natural History Museum.

Dr. R. E. Dahlgren of the American Museum of Natural History has just returned from the Bahama Islands, bringing with him nearly 200 cases of coral. It is the purpose of Dr. H. C. Bumpus, Director of the Museum, to cut out a section of the first floor of the museum building and reproduce below the level of the floor a representation of the bottom of the sea, showing coral reefs in all stages of development. The section of floor to be cut out will be 6 by 30 feet.

When the reproduction of the reef and sea bottom have been completed, the flooring will be replaced by a rectangle of heavy plate glass. The work so far has been quite expensive, and the actual installation of the reef will be a task of a very delicate and tedious character, requiring probably six months for completion. It will be begun at once, under the direction of Dr. Dahlgren and Mr. Miller, also of the Museum, who went to the Bahamas with him.

Dr. Dahlgren, while in the Bahamas, got an unusually complete collection of coral and scores of excellent photographs showing the live and tender polyps in the actual coral making.

Higher Fees for Citizenship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—From now on it will cost more to become a citizen of the United States. Congress passed a bill to-day permitting clerks of courts to charge $4 instead of $1 for receiving and filing a declaration of intention; $3 instead of $2 for docketing the petition, and $3 instead of $2 for entering the final order of citizenship.

The Anglo-French Entente.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I regard your dispatch in to-day's issue concerning the possible enlargement into an alliance of the present Anglo-French entente as a piece of news of the weightiest importance. It is the most pointed and conclusive evidence yet set forth anywhere of Great Britain's need of a modern, effective army if her alliance is to be of preponderant value to any Continental nation. This conviction came to me more than twenty-seven years ago just after landing from Calais at Dover, and I append some lines embodying it precisely as I then put them down. The "German" was Bismarck, the Titan of Teutonism:

(Written at Dover, England, March 9, 1881.)

Tournant les yeux au Cap Grisnez,
I looked from Dover Head to-day;
Et de moi-même je me demandais,
What game will next the German play?
En cas de guerre et d'alliance,
How many men will you send France?
Je ne veux pas dire de gros navires,
But men of rifle, horse, and spear?

MORTIMER THOMSON.

New York, May 27, 1908.

THE PIONEER.

Being a few remarks from Old Farmer —— in the Adirondacks on the occasion of a drive with his grown sons on the first fine Sunday morning this Spring.

Fine mornin', boys. * * * 'Bout fifty year ago,
'Twas most a day like this, I looked below
An' saw the land, the river windin' through,
The same as ever now, as smooth and blue,
The pines and fir jest picter'd in a glass
An' early Summer sweepin' o'er the grass;
The land below there rollin' like the sea,
An' I, thinks I, "That's good enough for me!"
'Twas jest a morn like this. * * *

How time d'es fly!
Four hundred acres clear, an' then ye die.
That's mighty little when ye think o't, just
A bare spot in the big woods at the best.
I done my best, though, an' it's wu'th more, too—
A township, an' they've shoved the railroad through.
Why, but for me there wouldn't be no town,
Nor railroad neither—nothin' doin' aroun'.
'Twas jest a morn like this. * * *

Them birds do sing!
Reck'n they're mighty glad to see the Spring.
I guess come Fall, I'll drap off wi' the leaves.
Or, as the hymn says, git home wi' the sheaves.
But I got you boys cerry on the farm,
So it don't count a dern lot—where I am!

ETHICS CODE DRAWN FOR AMERICAN BAR

National Association Prepares Canons to Govern Lawyers in Their Practice.

TO DRIVE OUT SHYSTERS

New Canons Are to Free the Profession from Censure Due to the Misconduct of Unworthy Lawyers.

A draft of the proposed "canons of professional ethics," prepared by a committee of the American Bar Association, has been submitted to members of the association for suggestions and criticisms. The final report, which it is proposed to base upon the suggestions and criticisms received, will be submitted to the association as a whole at the annual meeting to be held next August in Seattle, Washington.

In twenty-seven States of the Union there are codes of ethics more or less complete, which exist as a result either of codification by statutory enactments of some of the "duties" of lawyers or of the action of State bar associations in adopting canons of professional ethics. For some years members of the bar associations have advocated a standard of professional conduct which will not only serve as a guide to the young practitioner, but will free the profession from public criticism and censure resulting from the misconduct of unworthy men who have found their way into its ranks.

In its report the committee says in part:

> The foundation of the draft for canons of ethics is the code adopted by the Alabama State Bar Association in 1887. This draft represents our best present judgment after a most careful consideration of the subject.
>
> No code or set of rules can be framed which will particularize all the duties of the lawyer in the varying phases of litigation or in all the relations of professional life. The following canons of ethics are adopted by the American Bar Association as a general guide, yet the enumeration of particular duties should not be construed as a denial of the existence of others equally imperative, though not specifically mentioned.

The canons deal with the many problems confronting the lawyer in his professional conduct. These are among the most important recommendations:

DEFENDING ONE WHOM ADVOCATE BELIEVES TO BE GUILTY.—A lawyer may undertake with propriety the defense of a person accused of a crime, although he knows or believes him guilty, and having undertaken it, he is bound by all fair and honorable means to present such defenses as the law of the land permits, to the end that no person may be deprived of life or liberty but by due process of law.

HOW FAR A LAWYER MAY GO IN SUPPORTING A CLIENT'S CAUSE.—Nothing operates more certainly to create or to foster popular prejudice against lawyers as a class and to deprive the profession of that full measure of public esteem and confidence which belongs to the proper discharge of its duties than does the false claim often set up by the unscrupulous in defense of questionable transactions that it is the duty of the lawyer to do whatever may enable him to succeed in winning his client's cause. A lawyer owes entire devotion to the interest of his client, warm zeal in the maintenance and defense of his cause, and the exertion of the utmost skill and ability to the end that nothing may be taken or withheld from him, save by the rules of law legally applied. Nevertheless, it is steadfastly to be borne in mind that the great trust is to be performed within and not without the bounds of the law. The office of attorney does not permit, much less does it demand for any client, violation of law or any manner of fraud or chicanery. No lawyer is justified in substituting another's conscience for his own. A lawyer should not do for a client what his sense of honor would forbid him to do for himself.

ADVERTISING, DIRECT OR INDIRECT.—The most worthy and effective advertisement possible, even for a young lawyer, and especially with his brother lawyers, is the establishment of a well-merited reputation for professional capacity and fidelity to trust. This cannot be forced, but must be the outcome of character and conduct. The publication or circulation of ordinary simple business cards, being a matter of personal taste or local custom, and sometimes of convenience, is not per se improper. But solicitation of business by circulars or advertisements or by personal communications or interviews not warranted by personal relations is unprofessional.

STIRRING UP LITIGATION, DIRECTLY OR THROUGH AGENTS.—It is unprofessional for a lawyer to volunteer advice to bring a law suit, except in rare cases where ties of blood relationship or trust make it his duty to do so. Not only is stirring up strife and litigation unprofessional, but it is disreputable in morals, contrary to public policy, and indictable at common law. No one should be permitted to remain in the profession who hunts up defects in titles or other causes of action and informs thereof in order to be employed to bring suit, or who breeds litigation by seeking out those with claims for personal injuries or those having any other grounds of action in order to secure them as clients, or who employs agents or runners for like purposes, or who pays or rewards directly or indirectly those who bring or influence the bringing of such cases to his office, or who remunerates policemen, court or prison officials, physicians, hospital attaches, or others who may succeed, under the guise of giving disinterested friendly advice, in influencing the criminal, the sick and the injured, the ignorant or others to seek his professional services.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR LITIGATION.—No lawyer is obliged to act either as adviser or advocate for any person who may wish to become his client. He has the right to refuse retainers. Every lawyer must decide what business he will accept as counsellor, what causes he will bring into court for plaintiffs, what cases he will contest in court for defendants. The responsibility for advising questionable transactions, for bringing questionable suits, for urging questionable defenses, is the lawyer's responsibility. He cannot escape it by urging as an excuse that he is only following his client's instructions.

THE LAWYER'S DUTY IN ITS LAST ANALYSIS.—No client, corporate or individual, however powerful, nor any cause civil or political, however important, is entitled to receive, nor should any lawyer render, any service or advice involving disloyalty to the law whose ministers we are, or disrespect of the judicial office, which we are bound to uphold, or corruption of any person or persons exercising a public office or private trust or deception or betrayal of the public. When rendering any such improper service or advice, the lawyer lays aside his robe of office, and in his own person invites and merits stern and just condemnation. Correspondingly, he advances the honor of his profession and the best interests of his client when he renders service or gives advice tending to impress upon the client and his undertaking exact compliance with the strictest principles of moral law. He must also observe and advise his client to observe the statute law, though until a statute law shall have been construed and interpreted by competent adjudication, he is free and is entitled to advise as to its validity and as to what he conscientiously believes to be its just meaning and extent. But above all a lawyer will find his highest honor in a deserved reputation for fidelity to private trust and to public duty, as an honest man and as a patriotic and loyal citizen.

The committee commends for adoption the following oath of admission to the bar, as containing clearly the general principles which should ever control the lawyer in the practice of his profession:

> I do solemnly swear: I will support the Constitution of the United States and the State of ——.
>
> I will maintain the respect due to courts of justice and judicial officers;
>
> I will counsel and maintain only such actions, proceedings, and defenses as appear to me legally debatable and just, except the defense of a person charged with a public offense;
>
> I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided in me such means only as are consistent with truth and honor, and will never seek to mislead the Judge or jury by any artifice or false statement of fact or law;
>
> I will maintain the confidence and preserve inviolate the secrets of my client, and will accept no compensation in connection with his business except from him or with his knowledge and approval;
>
> I will abstain from all offensive personality, and advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a party or witness, unless required by the justice of the cause with which I am charged;
>
> I will never reject, from any consideration personal to myself, the cause of the defenseless or oppressed, nor delay any man's cause for lucre or malice. So help me God.

The report is signed by Alton B. Parker, former Chief Judge of the New York State Court of Appeals; Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court of the United States, Judge Thomas G. Jones of the United States Court in Alabama, J. M. Dickinson, President of the American Bar Association; George R. Peck and William Wirt Howe, former Presidents of the association, and Francis Lynde Stetson, President of the New York Bar Association.

PLANS FOR NEW THEATRE.

Stock Company for Gaiety to Produce Cohan Musical Plays.

The new Gaiety Theatre, in West Forty-sixth Street at the northern end of Times Square, which is to be opened the latter part of August under the management of Cohan & Harris, is practically complete. George M. Cohan yesterday explained that he does not intend to occupy the house himself except, possibly, now and then, for a few weeks at a time.

However, Mr. Cohan is organizing a company especially for the new theatre. The company is to be called the Cohan & Harris Comedians, and will be without a star. George Beban, now playing with Lew Fields in "The Girl Behind the Counter," has already been engaged, and contracts have been signed with several well-known vaudeville performers. The opening attraction will be a musical comedy by Mr. Cohan, as yet unnamed.

"My scheme," said Mr. Cohan last night, "is to make the Cohan & Harris Comedians, as far as possible, a permanent company at the house, presenting musical comedies, most of which will be my own work.

"Only musical productions will be seen at the Gaiety. In spite of the small size of the theatre the stage is large enough for elaborate production."

ANNA HELD ON SPENDING.

Women Dreadfully Extravagant Here—A Few Thoughts Before Sailing.

Anna Held, before sailing yesterday on the Savoie, gave utterance to a few thoughts.

"In no country of the world," said Miss Held, "are women so extravagant and careless of money as they are in America. Women whose husbands only make $15 a week live up to the limit, forcing their husbands into debt and bringing unhappiness. The wives and daughters of the rich live on a plane that would have astonished the rulers of an age famed for extravagance.

"In no city in the world is money so foolishly squandered as in New York. As for me—well, I want money for the comfort it brings, but I would rather be poor and be happy."

Then the Savoie sailed.

Balfe's Centenary Next Sunday.

The centenary of the birth of the Irish composer, Michael William Balfe, will be celebrated next Sunday evening in Carnegie Lyceum. William Ludwig, an Irish baritone from Dublin, will sing "The Heart Bowed Down," "The Light of Other Days," and other selections from Balfe's many operas. A chorus from the Gaelic Society will assist. Seats may be obtained at Shanley's, Forty-second Street and Broadway, or at 624 Madison Avenue.

Brighton Beach Park to Open.

Brighton Beach Park will open to-morrow, and the new Brighton Beach express train service will begin on the same day. Among the attractions for the season are Ah Foon, the Chinese wizard; Uncle Dan Boynton's trained animals, the carrousel, and the skating rink. Joseph Hart's attractions will be seen with the vaudeville at the Brighton Theatre.

New Long Beach Casino to Open.

The new Casino at Long Beach will be opened to-morrow. The building is in the Italian Renaissance style. The terrace is covered with a glass roof, over which water will constantly flow, so that the restaurant and café beneath will always be cool. An open grill, with bar adjoining; a rathskeller, a complete ice manufacturing plant, and a kitchen, the equipment of which cost $30,000, are among the many features of the new structure.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS.

A Real Thriller When "Prof. Carr" Tumbled to the Ground.

The crowds in Columbus Circle covered the sidewalks and scores stopped to watch a wire which stretched from Fifty-sixth Street to Fifty-seventh Street across the vacant lot on the west side of Eighth Avenue last night. A brass band played circus music and a light shone at the end of the wire made fast to the top of the Y. M. C. A. Building at Fifty-seventh Street.

Above the music of the band a human voice soared with all the volume that a ringmaster's tones give through a megaphone.

"The Hair-Raising Exploit, the Terrific Backward Slide for Life, by Prof. Eugene Carr!" came from the megaphone.

Prof. Carr appeared on the edge of the cornice of the Y. M. C. A. Building. A pistol was fired as a signal to make ready. Another shot was the signal for Prof. Carr to begin his slide down the wire. He plunged from the cornice in the glare of the electric lights and shot like a plummet toward the ground. Ping! sounded the wire as it broke, and there followed a dull thud as the professor's form struck the earth.

There was a scream of horror from the crowds in the streets outside the fence which inclosed the grounds laid out for the third annual circus of the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. A policeman ran from his post at the Circle and Eighth Avenue and pushed aside the ticket taker at the Fifty-seventh Street gate. When the policeman reached the ring side he found a dozen clowns dusting up the sawdust of which "Prof. Carr" had been constructed. As the circus audience howled its delight at his discomfiture, the policeman beat a hurried retreat for the sidewalk, waving back a crowd of mirbid people.

"Prof. Carr's" feat was only one of many burlesques of circus acts that delighted the crowd.

MRS. REID WINS A LAWSUIT.

Court Says She May Build on Lot to Which a Neighbor Objected.

A decision was returned in the Court of Appeals in Albany yesterday by which Mrs. Whitelaw Reid is permitted to build on the lot in the rear of her residence at Fiftieth Street and Madison Avenue. The case has been in litigation since 1904.

Mrs. Reid owns a lot in the rear of her residence, in which Edward Mitchell, who owns a house adjoining it, claimed that he had light and air rights. He sued out an injunction in 1904 restraining Mrs. Reid from carrying out the plans she had filed to build on the lot.

Judge O'Gorman, in Special Term, decided in favor of Mr. Mitchell, and the decision was sustained by the Appellate Division. Sacket, Chapman & Stevens, attorneys for Mrs. Reid, carried the case to the Court of Appeals, which rendered a decision yesterday in Mrs. Reid's favor.

CHOLERA IN PHILIPPINES.

Has Taken Serious Foothold in the Province of Pangasinan.

MANILA, May 28.—Cholera has apparently taken a serious foothold in the province of Pangasinan. Four cities, including Dagupan, are infected, and the Bureau of Health is sending additional Inspectors, planning to stamp out the disease.

The entire family of the lightkeeper at Dagupan was infected, and five of its members died. Their condition was discovered through their inability to extinguish the light in the day time.

Cholera also is rife in the Province of Capiz, where 231 cases have been reported since January in Rizal and Zambales. There is no fear of a general epidemic.

MAURETANIA STILL CRIPPLED.

Coming Direct from Liverpool with Only Three Propellers in Use.

LONDON, May 28.—The Cunard Line steamer Mauretania, which left Liverpool yesterday, four days later than her usual sailing schedule, owing to her disabled propeller, is going direct to New York without calling at Queenstown.

At noon to-day, according to a wireless dispatch, the steamship was 140 miles west of Fastnet. This position indicated an average speed of twenty-four knots an hour on the westward run from Fastnet.

The officials of the Cunard Company say, however, there is no possibility of the Mauretania making a record on this trip, as the repairs to her propeller were not finished up to the time she left Liverpool. She is using only three propellers. An average speed of twenty-two knots an hour was the company's estimate for the voyage to New York.

GEN. STEPHEN D. LEE DIES IN VICKSBURG

Stricken After a Speech Welcoming Northern Soldiers Whom He Had Fought 45 Years Ago.

OVERCOME BY EMOTION

Commander of Confederate Veterans and Directed the Firing of the First Shot of the Civil War.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 28.—Lieut. Gen. Stephen D. Lee of Columbus, Miss., Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, answered his last roll call to-day. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of his death.

Gen. Lee died at the official residence of the Vicksburg National Park Commission, of which he was a member. He was stricken last Friday night, following the delivery of a speech welcoming four regiments of Iowa and Wisconsin soldiers, whom he had fought upon the Vicksburg battlefield forty-five years ago.

President Roosevelt, who was a great admirer of Gen. Lee, was among the first to send condolences.

An incident in connection with Gen. Lee's military career not generally known is the fact that he directed the firing of the first shot of the civil war. He was one of the two officers of the South Carolina troop sent by Gen. Beauregard to demand the surrender of Fort Sumter, and upon refusal of this demand he ordered the nearest battery to fire on the fort.

Gen. Lee was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1833. He received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. At the outbreak of the civil war he resigned his commission in the United States Army and entered the Confederacy. He served with the Confederate Army in Virginia until after the battle of Antietam, when he was made a Brigadier General and sent to Vicksburg.

On the death of Gen. John B. Gordon, Gen. Lee was unanimously chosen Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and was always the most conspicuous figure at the annual reunions of that organization. Just before his death he was making preparations for the reunion, June 8, at Birmingham.

Wilbur Fisk Lunt.

Wilbur Fisk Lunt, a member of the Board of United States General Appraisers, died at 9:30 o'clock last night at his home, 464 West 144th Street, of apoplexy, in his sixty-first year. He enlisted in the First Maine Cavalry when only 16 years old, and took part in the chief battles of the civil war. He was shot in the back of the head, but felt no bad effects from the wound until three years ago, when he had a first stroke of apoplexy. After the war Mr. Lunt served two terms as Assistant United States District Attorney for Maine. In 1890 he was appointed to the Appraisers' Board for the Port of New York by President Harrison. He was a member of the New York and Maine Bar Associations. The interment will be at Saco, Me. He leaves a widow and six children.

Col. Clarence Ashley Postley.

Col. Clarence Ashley Postley died yesterday at his residence, 817 Fifth Avenue, after a brief illness. He was a son of Gen. Brooke Postley, and was born in 1849 in this city. He was graduated from West Point in 1870 and married Miss Margaret Sterling in 1874. He was a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Manhattan, University, Union League, New York Athletic, Driving, Suburban, Riding and Driving, Larchmont Yacht, Automobile of America, Country, Riding, New York Yacht, American Yacht, New York Jockey, Players, Michaux, Cycling, Westchester, and Country Clubs, and the Army and Navy Club of Washington. He was a prominent yachtsman.

Dobson, who during his career as banjo instructor taught three generations of Belmonts, members of the Claflin and Vanderbilt families, and 30,000 other pupils, died on Wednesday at his home, 570 Mott Avenue, of a complication of diseases, aged 77 years. He opened his first teaching class in 1853 at Broadway and old Amity Street.

CHARLES K. LADD, one of the best-known Democratic leaders in Illinois, died in Kewanee yesterday after several months' illness, due to a general breakdown. Mr. Ladd was a candidate for the nomination for Governor in 1904.

Lieut. WILLIAM KEHOE of the Police Department died suddenly last night at his home, 4,373 Richardson Avenue, The Bronx, of apoplexy, in his 60th year. THE SUNDAY TIMES.

The Picture Section of THE TIMES next Sunday will include three pages of reproductions of the paintings which are now being shown in the one hundred and fortieth annual exhibition of the Royal Academy, London. One need not be necessarily a connoisseur in art to find enjoyment in these paintings. In variety they are of an unusual range, and the canvases selected for reproduction in THE TIMES's Picture Section are certain to make a wide appeal to popular interest. The remaining pages of the Picture Section of the forthcoming issue will carry entertainment in uncommon degree. There will be a page of photographs of charming children; a page of very artistic photographs of young women who are well known in society circles in New York City; unusual photographs showing a scientist studying the activities of a volcano; pictures of a new bungalow built for Queen Alexandra; photographs showing the interior of the new Railroad Club; photographs of the Directoire costumes, which have made something of a sensation in the fashionable world of Paris; Memorial Day pictures, photographs of prominent actresses, and other pictures of interest and of information. The Magazine Section will contain an abundance of good reading—many articles of value, timeliness, and of general interest. Thomas F. Willard has reached Mukden for the purpose of learning how Japan is fulfilling her promises regarding Manchuria. The first of his articles will appear Sunday. It contains much information of importance. The Magazine Section will also include a striking interview with Cardinal Logue, and an interview with Justice Brewer. Prof. Lounsbury of Yale will discuss the interesting controversy regarding good and bad English. Ways of living cheaply in and around New York City will be entertainingly told. The great battleship Connecticut has been cut in two from stem to stern, (in a remarkable model,) and the picture of the interior of the great fighting machine is unique. It will be printed in THE TIMES Sunday. There will be many other features to give pleasure. The pages especially designed for women readers are wide in the scope of their interest. The fund of information and entertainment is increasing weekly. Orders for THE SUNDAY TIMES should be placed with newsdealers early in the week in advance of Sunday whenever possible, as the paper is invariably sold out early on the day of publication.—Adv.

WALTER SATTERLEE DIES.

Noted Artist Expires at His Home After a Week's Illness.

Walter Satterlee, the artist, died at his home, 148 East Eighteenth Street, yesterday after a week's illness. Mr. Satterlee was 65 years old. He was born in Brooklyn, the son of George C. and Mary Le Roy Livingston Satterlee, and was graduated from Columbia in 1863. He was an associate member of the National Academy of Design, the Water Color Society, and many other institutions. The funeral service will be held at St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square, at 10:30 o'clock next Monday. He is survived by Dr. F. Le Roy Satterlee of 6 West Fifty-sixth Street, a brother, and Mrs. William H. Willis, a sister.

Mr. Satterlee was chiefly known for his figure painting and genre work, and many examples from his brush are to be found in the principal collections here and abroad. He was an artist from boyhood, when he used to illustrate many books with pen and ink sketches. He began his studies under Edwin White, a famous figure painter, and later went to Paris and Rome, where he studied under Leon Bonnat and Freeman, and was very successful in portraying the peasants of Normandy and Brittany. In this country the Western Indian was a favorite subject.

A fine example of his work is "The Balsam Cathedral." It is a picture of evergreens, shaped like a cathedral, the scene being on the border of a lake in the Adirondacks. The reflection from a camp fire lights up the interior of the cathedral.

OPPOSE VISIT TO CZAR.

Socialist Members of Commons Want Edward to Cancel His Engagement.

LONDON, May 28.—The Socialist members of the House of Commons are displaying marked interest in the approaching visit of King Edward to the Russian Court, having the possibility of closer relations between the two countries resulting from his Majesty's trip in view.

Early this week a Socialist member asked Premier Asquith to secure the abandonment of the visit on the ground that it was not fitting that Great Britain should seem to support those persons in Russia who were responsible for sending into exile the "patriots of the Duma."

The matter was brought up again this afternoon when Foreign Secretary Grey informed a questioner that no new convention or treaty was under discussion between the two Governments, nor was it intended to initiate negotiations for one during King Edward's visit. The Secretary said he trusted, however, that the visit would contribute to the good relations existing to-day between the Governments and the peoples of the two countries.

Bandits Kill Two Americans.

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—Two Americans and one Englishman were attacked by bandits and killed near Coachinia, one of the mining camps of the Greene Copper Company near Dolores, Chihuahua. No details were given.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, May 28.—Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, who was one of the principal witnesses to the alleged identity of the Duke of Portland with T. C. Druce, was sentenced to-day to eighteen months' penal servitude for perjury, her appeal having been disallowed. She is 70 years old.

LISBON, May 28.—The damage to transatlantic cables caused by trawlers off the Irish Coast recently has been brought to the notice of the international telegraphic conference, now in session here, by the presentation of a letter signed by all the cable companies. The letter points out that at the present moment no fewer than six cables between Europe and North America are interrupted from this cause.

LONDON, May 28.—A banquet was given at the French Embassy to-night by M. Cambon to President Fallieres and King Edward. Ambassador Whitelaw Reid was one of the guests.

MOSCOW, May 28.—The Municipal Council of Moscow has decided to celebrate the eightieth anniversary of the birth of Count Leo Tolstoy by opening Sept. 10 a public library in this city, and by giving the Count's name to the school he attended in his youth.

REVOLT IN SAMOS, FIGHTING THREE DAYS

Inhabitants Take Up Arms Against the Prince of Samos, Who Is Their Governor.

THEY SEIZE AND BEAT HIM

He Takes Refuge in Palace, to Which the Malcontents Lay Siege—Gendarmerie Side with People.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 28.—The inhabitants of the Island of Samos, a Greek island off the west coast of Asia Minor, are in revolt against the Prince of Samos, who is the Governor of the island. Fighting has been going on at Vathy, the capital, for the last three days, and there are numerous victims of the encounters.

The trouble appears to have arisen in a conflict between the Governor and the Senate. The Prince of Samos was seized by the malcontents and beaten. He made his escape to the palace, which since has been beleaguered. Reinforcements of troops sent from Smyrna were driven back by a fusillade from the shore.

The revolting islanders are being aided by the gendarmerie. It appears that the telegraph office has been seized by the rebels, but a dispatch sent from Smyrna with to-day's date declares that the attack on the palace continues, and that there have been many casualties.

Since 1832 the Island of Samos has been an autonomous principality, paying an annual tribute to Turkey. The ruler, styled the Prince of Samos, is nominated by the Sultan, and is a Greek. The island has a General Assembly. It is 27 miles long and its greatest breadth is 10 miles. It is 42 miles southwest of Smyrna. The population ten years ago was 50,000, mostly Greeks.

BRITISH CAMPAIGN ENDS.

Gen. Willcocks, Having Subdued the Mohmand Tribesmen, Will Return.

SIMLA, May 28.—The British punitive expedition has ended its campaign against the warring Mohmand tribesmen, and on Sunday Major Gen. Willcocks will return to Indian territory and demobilize his forces.

This unexpectedly rapid collapse of tribal opposition and the close of the campaign are attributed largely to the tactful management, from the political side, of the Viceroy, Lord Minto, and removes what quite recently seemed a threatening situation, possibly involving an Afghan war.

The British losses in the eighteen days of the campaign were 6 officers killed and 9 wounded, 72 men killed and 144 wounded. Nearly half of the deaths, however, were caused by the cholera.

85 SUICIDES A MONTH.

Self-Destruction Prevails in St. Petersburg to Alarming Extent.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 28.—There has been an epidemic of suicides in St. Petersburg that has lasted for three months.

The average number of deaths has been eighty-five a month, and the high record for a single day was reached this week, when no fewer than eighteen persons killed themselves.

Many of the cases are due to destitution, but despondency has been the prevailing cause.

WEAKNESS IN GOULD ISSUES

Declines in This Group Affect the List—English Bank Rate Lowered.

After passing through alternating periods of strength and weakness, yesterday's stock market closed with losses in a majority of the active issues. Outside of professional operations against prices, these being conducted upon a somewhat larger scale than on preceding days of the week, the factors of greatest influence were undoubtedly the extreme weakness of the Gould group of railroad stocks and the various developments of the day affecting these corporations. The earnings of the Wabash, Pittsburg Terminal property, a sixty-mile railroad with terminals in the City of Pittsburg serving the Wabash and the Gould system generally as a Pittsburg outlet, have for a number of months been falling so far behind fixed charges as to make a receivership for the property practically a foregone conclusion. Meetings of those interested have been under way in this city for several days to canvass this situation, and further conferences yesterday were under close observation by the Stock Exchange, which has for some reason or other conceived the idea that upon the fate of this particular project depends in large measure the fortunes of other Gould properties. This is, of course, in no way the fact, since it is quite possible to treat the Pittsburg Terminal affair separately. It is a fact, however, that a readjustment of its finances upon a sensible basis will inure to the benefit of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Wabash Railroad, and the other properties directly associated with it. Wall Street preferred, however, to take the other view of the matter, at least for the day, and upon the appearance of special weakness in Missouri Pacific stock, which fell some 8 points in all, promptly gave heed to the most exaggerated of the day's reports. The selling which ensued bore most heavily upon other Gould issues, such as Denver & Rio Grande preferred and Wabash preferred, but it was also fairly general, and not until late in the day did effective support appear to steady the list. Trading then became dull, and the market closed with a moderate rally under way. Reports from the crop territory were of a generally favorable character, and further advances in wheat and corn on grain markets were properly ascribed to manipulation rather than to actual conditions in the fields. A comparatively large budget of railroad reports came to hand; that of the Reading with only minor changes was well regarded, and this was also true of the Southern Railway, which, after losing $832,000 in gross earnings, reported a gain in net for April of $244,000, thanks to economies in operation. The Atchison figures for the same month were relatively favorable, for a gross loss of $1,132,000 became a net loss of only $454,000.

The Bank of England reduced its discount rate from 3 per cent. to 2½ per cent., a rate last in effect on Sept. 6, 1905. At the same time open market discounts in London fell to the lowest figures quoted in ten years. As a result of these occurrences international banking houses are now looking for an early decline in interest rates at Berlin, and thus a termination of the gold export movement to that city. The losses which the local banks have sustained as a result of withdrawals of Treasury deposits and takings of gold foreshadow a decrease of above $10,000,000 in cash holdings in the bank statement, which will be published today, owing to the falling of the holiday on Saturday. Receipts from the interior were, of course, too small to offset more than a part of the losses in other directions. Among bankers comment on the Currency bill, which passed the House on Wednesday and was expected to receive the sanction of the Senate, after the close of business yesterday was mixed, but in general the feeling was that the measure possessed more faults than virtues. At best, it is a device which will allow banknotes to take the place of Clearing House certificates in times of trouble. Such trouble it will possibly alleviate; it will hardly prevent it.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Irregular Market Leaves Prices Generally Lower After Day of Sluggish Trading.

TINTIC AN EXCEPTION

Gains ¼ Point, While Most of the Mining List Shows Weakness—Dullest Day in Weeks.

Another day of desultory trading on the Curb yesterday left stocks generally lower after irregular movements up and down in many of the less sluggish issues. On the whole the market was one of the dullest since the stagnant period earlier in the year. The trading element was thinly represented in the market, and there was little business from the commission houses. At the close there was some firmness shown in the few stocks in which interest appeared. An illustration of the general dullness of the market was seen in the fact that Nevada Consolidated, which has been one of the active issues ever since its first appearance on the Curb did not sell a single share. One of the few issues to make a gain was Tintic, which closed at 4, ¼ above the opening, after transactions reported at 900.

⁂

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—There was a further congestion in the local trading to-day, the dealings narrowing down very largely to Reading and United States Steel. Prices did not vary a great deal. Rapid Transit closed unchanged, Union Traction was up a small fraction, and United Gas and Philadelphia Traction were a trifle easier. All of these stocks were dull. Cambria Steel and Lehigh Valley held their own, as did the Lehigh Navigation issues, but Electric Storage Battery receded another point. Total sales, 28,425 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Public Unlucky as Usual.

It looks as if any continuance of the present irregular market would result in the complete elimination of whatever public trading developed as a result of the recent marking up of prices. That class of traders usually referred to as the public does not take kindly to a material setback at any time, and particularly under such circumstances as those now existing. There was a panic which resulted in heavy losses not only to the public, but to the insiders. The market began to advance at a time when the public was absolutely skeptical, and when it failed absolutely to recognize the possibility of higher prices. The persistent advance brought about an uncertain feeling, which finally compelled an acknowledgment of the probability of much higher figures, and the result was some activity in buying stocks on the part of those hitherto skeptical. But history repeated itself promptly, and those who were beguiled by high prices and excited trading into purchasing stocks either lost their money or realized no profit within a very short time after they took the plunge. The result is an emphasized distaste for the market. Fortunately, this was not general, but at the same time it has served to limit further the genuine commission business of the brokerage houses.

⁂

Is Bond Market Less Active?

Some bond men say that the edge has been taken off the bond market, or in other words that the continued stimulation which has been going on for several weeks appears to be lagging with the prospect of a recession, not so much in price as in investment interest. In other words, they say that sufficient of the investment demand has been met with high-grade securities to satisfy, temporarily at least, those who wanted genuine investment securities. Probably the second stage of this bond development, however, will be an improved demand for securities which must be rated necessarily second class, but are withal good and worthy of consideration. A general opinion on the bond market is not easy to obtain, since there are so many variants in the individual views expressed. Some good bond men say that they have found a comparatively good demand for all kinds of bonds, except the new issues of untried corporations. For example, construction bonds go slowly at the moment.

⁂

City Bonds and Ouster Suit.

Curiously enough, some anxiety has developed among the holders of small lots of the recent issues of city bonds concerning the outcome of the Mayoralty recount case, now going on, and its possible effect, in the event of the contesting claimant being victorious, on such bonds. It would seem easy enough for any one to decide that whatever the result there would be no question whatever with regard to bonds issued under the administration, as it is now de facto constituted. Nevertheless, one or two brokerage houses have received from clients who hold a few of the bonds queries, asking, first, whether there is any question concerning the legality of the issues; second, whether, if the present Mayor should be ousted, it would not have a depressing effect on the bonds. Here is an extract from one letter: "I purchased $7,000 worth of the last issued of the city 4½ per cent. bonds, and I cannot afford to invest in a lawsuit or legal controversy. Will there be any question as to the validity of this issue if any of the officers authorizing the issue and singing the bonds be illegally in office?" The answer was: "You need not worry about the validity and legality of your bonds, nor do we think you need worry about price depression, no matter what the result. The security behind the bonds never contemplated as an additional guarantee the personal element."

⁂

Money Market Factors.

Two contrary facts in the money market, using the term broadly, were the reduction in the Bank of England rate and the estimated loss by the banks of more than $10,000,000. The English bank rate reduction was not unexpected and consequently had little effect, while, on the other hand, the loss by the banks was easily explained and in consequence ought to have had no influence whatever, so far as stock prices are concerned. Generally it was attributed to the withdrawal of United States deposits. If that be the explanation, there is a qualifying element in it not at all adverse. The withdrawal of United States funds might help to influence exchange conditions so that the outflow of gold would be checked. Probably it is a fact that neither the reduction in the Bank of England rate nor the loss in cash by the banks had the slightest influence, but they are both part of what are generally credited with being influencing factors in the market.

Good Effect of Positive Advice.

Business is irregularly distributed just now, according to the statements of the brokers. Some houses have been doing a big business, some have been doing a limited business, and some of them did not feel any stimulation, even with the advancing market. This is all a question, of course, of the individual customer and the aggressiveness in the matter of advice of the broker himself. Some brokers have the trick of being positive in their advice, and so making their suggestions conclusive and apparently worthy of being followed. Take a case in point which may illustrate the difference in the business of the various houses. Two brothers are members of different houses. Comparing notes yesterday on a specific day last week, it was found that one house had done in excess of 55,000 shares of stock while the total for the other house was less than 20,000 shares of stock. Generally the firms are of the same calibre as to credit, number of customers, and general scope. In one instance the customers were right on the market, and in the other instance the official advice was contrary to the trend of prices.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee was very quiet yesterday, sales being reported of only 4,750 bags. The market opened unchanged, but improved slightly in the late trading and closed steady net unchanged to 5 points higher.

There were no European cables, owing to holidays. Rio was unchanged and Santos 50 reis lower, while receipts continued on the recent scale. The Government auction sales, at which 50,000 bags will be offered in Hamburg and 10,000 in Rotterdam, are to be held to-day.

Spot coffee was quiet; 6⅝c for Rio No. 7.

TO PROTECT HOLDERS OF TERMINAL BONDS

Committee Formed to Look After Their Interests in View of Expected Default.

AWAIT GOULD'S STATEMENT

Conferences of Directors Held Yesterday—Missouri Pacific and Other Gould Securities Weak.

Holders of Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal first mortgage bonds upon which default is expected to be made next Monday, when $600,000 in interest falls due, organized a protective committee of seven members yesterday to look after their interests in the proposed reorganization of the property.

The committee is headed by James N. Wallace, President of the Central Trust Company, and includes Myron T. Herrick, Gordon Abbott of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, Halsey Fiske of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and George P. Butler of George P. Butler & Brother. It was suggested that the Rockefeller interests, which are strongly represented on the Western Maryland protective committee, may have a representative on this Terminal committee.

The news that the committee had been formed came out following prolonged meetings of the Wabash and Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal Directors held at the Gould offices, 195 Broadway, yesterday morning and afternoon. A statement will probably be issued by George J. Gould to-day in reference to the Terminal situation, but neither he nor other Directors would consent yesterday to discuss what was done at the several meetings. It was made clear to Wall Street, however, that the previous day's information that the Terminal Company would be allowed to default was well founded.

The statement was reiterated yesterday that the difficulties which confront the Terminal Company will in no way impair the position of the Wheeling & Lake Erie notes which mature on Aug. 1. These notes, it was stated, will undoubtedly be cared for.

Wall Street heard yesterday, and was inclined to believe the prediction, that further dividends on Missouri Pacific are likely to be indefinitely postponed. The information that the road had sold 8,000,000 additional of its forty-year 4 per cent. bonds, bringing the total amount of this issue up to $25,000,000, which was had through the listing of these bonds on the Stock Exchange on Wednesday, aroused considerable interest in the Street.

It was recalled that it was recently reported that the road was settling part of its floating debt through the sale of these bonds at 70. They have been selling in the neighborhood of this price for some time.

The Gould securities showed weakness yesterday under the leadership of Missouri Pacific, which dropped from 53⅜ to 45½, and closed with a net loss of 6¼ points. Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal firsts sold down to 46 and the seconds to 9¾. Western Maryland first 4s, on the other hand, rose from 71 to 72.

From Pittsburg it was reported yesterday that officials of the Grand Trunk Railway and of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg have been making an inspection tour of the terminal systems.

Receiver for Oklahoma Central.

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., May 28.—The Oklahoma Central Railroad Company, operating from Lehigh to Chickasaw, 180 miles, yesterday was placed in the hands of a receiver. Radical legislation, which first prevented the sale of the road and then blocked a loan of $300,000 already arranged in Philadelphia, is given by President A. D. Carter as the cause of the road's bankruptcy.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Cheerful Feeling on London Exchange—European Bourses Not Open.

LONDON, May 28.—Money was easily obtainable on the market to-day, and discounts were quiet.

On the Stock Exchange the reduction in the Bank of England's rate of discount cheered the markets, and although the announcement had been largely discounted, it caused a rise of one-quarter in Consols and assisted in a further improvement in gilt-edged securities and home rails. Profit-taking, however, caused a reaction from the best. Kaffirs continued strong and active, and foreigners were firm but quiet, owing to the fact that the Continental Bourses were closed to-day.

American securities were quietly firm. They shared in the general improvement in the forenoon and prices hardened over parity, but business was checked by the political campaign and the uncertain outlook on Wall Street. The afternoon session was quiet. New York bought moderately, and late trade caused a firmer close.

Bar silver was steady, 24⅝d per ounce. Money, 1@1¼ per cent.

PARIS, May 28.—The Bourse was not open to-day, it being Ascension Day.

BERLIN, May 28.—The Boerse to-day was closed, it being Ascension Day.

BOMBAY, May 28.—The rate of discount of the Bank of Bombay was reduced today from 8 to 7 per cent.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Higher prices for May prevailed in Chicago yesterday, but the rest of the list had a sharp decline. News from the Winter and Spring wheat belts was conflicting. In the Northwest country offerings have increased, although there was a decrease of 425,000 bushels in the Minneapolis stock for five days. Liverpool was practically unchanged, and Continental markets were closed. The final official Indian crop figures were given at 216,000,000 bushels, compared with 316,000,000 last year. Exporters bought 6 loads. At the immediate opening Chicago was lower in contrast to higher openings elsewhere. Cash wheat in New York closed as follows: No. 2 red, $1.03, nominal, in elevator, and $1.00⅝, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.17⅝, and No. 2 hard, Winter, $1.11½, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—Heavy rains west of the Mississippi made little impression yesterday, as farm work has made good progress elsewhere, and the general situation was considered quite satisfactory. Argentine shipments were reported at 2,876,000 bushels, compared with 2,722,000 bushels the previous week. No. 2 corn in New York closed at 77½c, nominal, in elevator, and 76c, nominal, free on board, afloat.

DENIAL BY S. R. GUGGENHEIM.

Not True He and Brothers Are Trying to Make a Sale to Amalgamated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 28.—S. R. Guggenheim told me to-day there was no truth in the report that he and his brothers were trying to sell their Utah Copper, Nevada Consolidated, and Cumberland-Ely to the Amalgamated.

"I don't know who started the report," said Mr. Guggenheim, "nor what object he had in view, but it was a bad guess. The Amalgamated people have not approached us, and I am sure we have not approached them."

NEW STOCK EXCHANGE HOUSE

Carlisle, Mellick & Co. Organized with Six Out of Seven Partners on the Floor

A new Stock Exchange house which will have six members of the Exchange out of a total of seven partners is being organized under the firm name of Carlisle, Mellick & Co. The new firm will begin business with offices at 20 Broad Street, probably about June 15. The members will be Jay F. Carlisle, George P. Mellick, Daniel A. Loring, Jr., Clarkson Runyon, Jr., Ira Richards, Jr., Charles F. Samson, and David C. Halsted.

Of these all but Mr. Halsted are members of the Stock Exchange. The only firm which now has as many representatives on the floor as this new firm will have are De Coppet & Doremus, who have seven Stock Exchange members.

The new firm will make a specialty of the odd-lot business, or the trading in less than 100-share lots, which for the most part represents purchases of stock for investment. This business has grown very largely during recent years.

Mr. Carlisle, the head of the new firm, is one of the best-known specialists on the Stock Exchange, having for many years been the specialist in American Sugar. Mr. Mellick, the second member of the firm, has been in Wall Street since he was a small boy. Mr. Halsted, who will be the office partner of the new firm, was for a long time a partner in the house of Wassermann Brothers.

LONDON BANK RATE LOWER.

Reduced from 3 Per Cent. to 2½ on Account of Great Money Ease.

LONDON, May 28.—As anticipated, the rate of discount of the Bank of England was reduced to-day from 3 to 2½ per cent. The authorities had been retaining the rate at 3 per cent. owing to the absorption of gold by France and Germany, but the London monetary position had become so easy, with funds at 1¼ per cent. and discounts at 1¼ per cent. below the bank rate, that the authorities had little choice but to give the trade of the country the benefit of the lower rate, as well as bring the minimum rate nearer the market discount level.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve decreased £48,000, circulation increased £151,000, bullion increased £103,220, other securities decreased £167,000, other deposits decreased £232,000, public deposits increased £12,000, notes reserve increased £2,000, Government securities unchanged.

The proportion of the Bank's reserve to liability this week is 51.90 per cent.; last week it was 51.77 per cent.

Westinghouse Meeting Postponed.

The stockholders' meeting of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company scheduled for yesterday to pass upon certain formalities in connection with the rehabilitation plan, has been postponed for two weeks. Deposits of stock under the plan may be made until June 1, when a report must be made to the reorganization committee.

Iowa Central Floats Bonds.

The Iowa Central, it was announced yesterday, has sold $2,000,000 additional of its first and refunding 4 per cent. bonds. The proceeds of these bonds will extinguish the road's floating debt. In this connection an official of the road pointed out that the company was thus placed in a strong position.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Irregular Fluctuations—Closes Steady 5 Points Up to 8 Down.

Cotton was nervous and irregular yesterday, early decline being followed by a sharp advance during the middle session, after which the market weakened with new crop months relatively easy and the close steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 8 points. Sales were estimated at 275,000 bales.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2@3 points, and during the first few minutes sold at a net loss of 5@8 points. Liverpool steadied up shortly after the New York opening.

The Government report will be issued at noon on Tuesday, giving the acreage and average condition of the crop.

The range of contract prices to-day was as follows:

STANDARD OIL RUNS RAILWAY SCHOOLS

Witnesses in the Federal Suit Against the Company Disclose Its Educational Enterprise.

EXPERTS TEACH USE OF OILS

Incidentally They Travel Far and Wide on Passes and Save Money for the Railroads.

Classes of instruction for railroad men in the economic use of lubricants are maintained by the Standard Oil Company in its campaign of extermination of rivals in the oil business. Halls are hired throughout the country, and the experts of the Galena Signal Company, a Standard subsidiary, give illustrated lectures to classes of from 75 to 100 engineers and firemen and other railroad employes whose duty it is to lubricate the rolling stock. This staff of educators is privileged to ride on passes issued by the railroads.

All this came out yesterday in the Standard Oil Company's defense to the Government's suit against the New Jersey corporation, now on before Examiner Ferriss in the new Custom House. The discovery that the Standard Oil Company employes ride on passes from the railroads which use Standard oil was brought out in cross-examination by Frank B. Kellogg, the Government's lawyer, while G. E. MacVicar, one of the Galena Signal experts, was on the stand. Mr. Kellogg, after asking the witness if he rode on passes, and being answered in the affirmative, asked:

"Your compensation comes from the Galena Signal Company, does it not?"

"Yes," replied Mr. MacVicar.

"You are at no time an employe of the railroads during the execution of your duties, are you?" Mr. Kellogg pursued.

"No," answered the witness.

While this at first seemed to be a violation of the Hepburn act, it was explained that the railroads had a ruling from the Inter-State Commerce Commission allowing them to issue passes to any one performing expert service for the roads. And the Galena Signal's experts are considered in this class.

Mr. Walsh is the man who conducts most of the classes of engineers. He said that the result of the company's system of education of railroad employes had been a great saving to the railroad companies in the lubrication of their rolling stock, and that the number of hot boxes per 1,000 miles had been reduced to a minimum. The quantity of oil used is much reduced.

The testimony along this line is to demonstrate that the Galena Signal's monopoly of the lubricating business has been gained on merit alone.

Another line of evidence to counteract the testimony Mr. Kellogg sought to adduce that Standard Oil Directors use their influence to get contracts with the railroads of this country and used the amount of Standard Oil freight as a club over the heads of the railroad Presidents, was started by Mr. Rosenthal. He brought out the fact that many passenger railroads and railways which haul no freight are using Galena Signal oil in their lubrication, and have been for many years.

The question of electric car lubrication will be gone into to-day.

PITTSBURG BROKERS FAIL.

George W. MacMullen & Co. Have $350,000 Less Assets Than Liabilities.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 28.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States Court against George W. MacMullen and Sanford B. Evans, doing business as George W. MacMullen & Co., stock brokers.

Judge James S. Young appointed the Guarantee Title and Trust Company receiver. The bond was fixed at $100,000. In the petition it is stated that the liabilities will reach $1,800,000, while the assets are about $350,000 less than the liabilities.

The firm has been the largest buyer of Ohio Fuel stock, and it is said was the strongest supporter of that stock. At present it holds 7,000 shares. On this there have been loans made to the amount of $1,310,000. The market value of these securities to-day is $1,510,000. This leaves an equity of $200,000, but it is stated by those who are posted that the firm owes its customers $600,000, and with the equity from the Ohio Fuel stock the firm will fall short about $400,000 in paying customers. The par value of the Ohio Fuel stock, of which there is an issue of $7,000,000, is $25, and the selling price is $34.50.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN DEFILED.

Refuse from Pulp Mills Permeate Its Waters—Death to Fish Life.

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 28.—The surface of Lake Champlain is covered with a sticky slime, said to be the refuse discharged from the pulp mills situated on the tributary rivers on the New York side of the lake.

The heavy rains this Spring have scoured the river beds, and the accumulation of years of pulp mill refuse has been swept into the lake. This refuse is found floating about on the lake in great patches. It washes ashore, creating a nuisance.

The spawning beds in the rivers and lake have been ruined by this pulp refuse, and it is stated if it was not for the restocking of the waters by the State and Federal authorities the fish would become extinct. Last Summer thousands of fish were killed by the discharge from one of the pulp mills. A protest will be filed with the State authorities against this wholesale destruction of fish life.

F. M. EMERSON A SUICIDE.

Sent His Caretaker Away and Shot Himself in Adirondack Cottage.

Special to The New York Times.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 28.—Frederick M. Emerson of Newton, Mass., who shot himself at Moody's, on Big Moose Lake, in the Adirondacks, Tuesday afternoon, died last night.

Mr. Emerson recently returned from a private sanitarium, where he was treated for nervous trouble. He had been living at Tupper Lake, but Tuesday afternoon got permission to go to his cottage. He was accompanied by "Uncle" Mat Moody, a guide. Sending the old man out of the cottage for a moment, Mr. Emerson loaded his rifle and shot himself.

It is said that Mr. Emerson had spent $50,000 beautifying his cottage at Moody's.

SUES AFTER X-RAY TREATMENT

Mrs. Brinckerhoff Says It Permanently Marred Her Expression.

The trial of an action brought by Juanna Brinckerhoff, widow of George C. Brinckerhoff, former Consul General at Havana, to recover $50,000 damages against Dr. Sigismond Cohn for the alleged unskillful application of X-rays, whereby her facial expression was permanently marred, began in the Supreme Court yesterday.

According to counsel for Mrs. Brinckerhoff, she went to Dr. Cohn to have a mole removed from her left temple. The treatment accorded her included the use of the X-rays, and, she declares, through its unskillful application a permanent scar was left on her face. Dr. Cohn says that what Mrs. Brinckerhoff called a mole was in reality a cancer, and that he used the X-rays skillfully in its cure.

STRUCK HER EX-HUSBAND.

Mrs. Levy Admits It, but Says She Used a Handbag, Not an Ice Pick.

Miss Lillian Albertson, leading woman in a Broadway show; Mrs. Mary Levy and A. L. Levy, who were divorced six weeks ago, and a chauffeur told varying stories in Magistrate Cornell's private Chambers in the West Side Court yesterday, but all tended to show that Mrs. Levy had attacked Mr. Levy on May 14, just when Mr. Levy was handing Miss Albertson into an automobile outside the stage door of the theatre after the night performance. The accounts differed particularly as to whether Mrs. Levy used an ice pick or a handbag in hitting her one-time husband.

According to Mr. Levy, who is a bookmaker and lives at the Hotel Knickerbocker, it was an ice pick with which he received public chastisement. He said that since the granting of the interlocutory decree he had often escorted Miss Albertson home from the theatre, as he expected to marry her soon.

He had just handed Miss Albertson into the motor car, he said, when Mrs. Levy appeared and claimed him as her husband. With the divorce decree in mind Mr. Levy denied the allegation and then, he says, Mrs. Levy hit him. His hat flew off and he got a blow on the bare head. Then he ordered the chauffeur to drive on and spare Miss Albertson's feelings.

Miss Albertson testified that the chauffeur obeyed orders, but not before she had seen her prospective husband severely pummeled. Miss Albertson said she was so agitated that she couldn't tell whether it was an ice pick or a handbag that Mrs. Levy used.

Chauffeur Henry W. Telling also saw the blows, but was too busy with the motor car to identify the weapon used. Then Mrs. Levy took the stand and admitted the assault, but declared she had employed only her handbag in striking Levy.

"It was the twenty-seventh anniversary of our marriage," said Mrs. Levy, "and when I saw him escorting that woman my heart was broken. I spoke to him and he insulted me. Then I hit him."

Magistrate Cornell held the woman in $1,500 bail for trial.

SWINDLED AN AGED WOMAN.

Two Crooks Convicted of Taking $400 She Had Saved.

A new method of playing on helplessness and ignorance was laid bare yesterday in the trial and conviction of two young Slavs, Richard Loznedensky and Edward Warmeck, both of 180 Avenue A, who stole $400 from Mary Stofsky, an old woman of 123 Avenue A.

At one time she was prosperous, but her husband lost the fingers of his right hand so that he was unfit for ordinary work. Then she began to save what she earned by odd jobs against the time when they both grew helpless. In this way she had accumulated $400. Mistrusting banks, she carried it with her.

The Slavs knew this. They cultivated her acquaintance. On April 28 one of them dropped a pocketbook in her rooms. She found it and gave it back unopened.

"Well, look here," said the one to whom she gave it, "the money's gone. Did you take it?"

She denied that she had. "Let's see your money," said the other. "I know my bills."

She showed them her money. The men said it was not theirs, and, putting a roll on the chair, left her. But the roll they left was only a $2 bill wrapped about a piece of paper.

TROUBLE OVER COUNTY FAIR.

Losers in a Queens Enterprise Will Complain to District Attorney.

Some of the men and women concerned in the Queens County fair, which opened for a week last Monday, at Maspeth, L. I., said yesterday that they would go to District Attorney Jerome to-day to make complaint against the management over alleged losses in connection with the failure of the attraction.

Fourteen young women were employed as cashiers, and $100 in security was put up for them. The cashiers not only want their security back, but also their wages.

Other protestants are peanut and frankfurter men, the management of an Indian show, and several other concessionaires. Some of these, it is reported, paid flat rentals, while others are angry because they undertook large expenses on the understanding that the management would boom the project.

Sheriff Herbert S. Harvey of Queens County supplied at his own expense some twenty-five deputies to handle the crowds which did not, as expected, attend the fair. He also expects to be reimbursed.

Shop talk was tabooed and all hands joined in having a good time until a late hour.

The other guests were John H. McCooey, N. Taylor Phillips, Hubert L. Smith, John F. Curry, Charles S. Hervey, Oliver E. Stanton, Col. John F. Hobbs, Miss Mary E. Brennan, Miss Catherine A. TO WED WHITE GIRL.

Gen. Maceo's Son, a West Indian Negro, Gets Marriage License.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 28.—Joseph Antonio Maceo, colored, a student at Syracuse University, and Alice Isabel Mackley, a white girl, procured a marriage license here to-day. The bridegroom gave his birthplace as Jamaica, West Indies, and says that he is the son of the Cuban insurgent General Antonio Maceo and that the Cuban Government is defraying his college expenses.

The family of Miss Mackley strongly opposes the marriage. Both bride and bridegroom are Catholics, and expect to be married in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception here. It was stated to-day at the home of Bishop Ludden that the Church had no power to refuse to countenance a marriage between a negro and a white woman.

OCULISTS OPERATE ON BRONX RHINO

Mogul Was Threatened with Blindness from Cataracts on Both Eyes.

WAS HARD TO CHLOROFORM

Half an Hour in Passing Under the Influence of the Anaesthetic—Operation Seemed to be Successful.

Mogul, pride of the rhinoceros family in the Bronx Zoological Park, was operated upon yesterday afternoon for blindness, supposed to be due to cataracts. This is the first operation of the sort ever performed on any of the inmates of the Zoo, and the five physicians who were employed on the case pronounced it a great success. The actual operation on both eyes took less than ten minutes, while the preparations consumed more than an hour and a half.

While Mogul bears the reputation of being one of the most docile and sweetest tempered citizens of the Zoo colony, he objected seriously to being set upon by the physicians and attendants, who held him in submission while the anaesthetics were being administered. Mogul, who weighs over one thousand pounds, kicked and tried to wriggle himself free. For more than an hour he struggled against the ropes with which they sought to bind him.

The antelope house, where the operation was performed, was closed to visitors in the afternoon, and Mogul's cage was generously supplied with fresh cut grass. As this was his lunch hour and he was exceedingly hungry, the grass distracted his attention while the attendants fitted and applied hobbles. Three big pillows formed the operating table on the floor of the cage. As he was stretched on this, the physicians and ten men, including W. T. Hornaday, head of the Zoo, holding him down, Dr. J. T. Gwathmey, of the Polyclinic Hospital, begun to administer the chloroform.

With the cone-shaped tube over his nostrils, Mogul began to breath in the fumes of the anaesthetic. Fifteen minutes of this steady application passed and Mogul appeared to be growing stronger as he tried to wrench himself free. Finally, after twenty minutes had passed, one of the physicians suggested that the chloroform be reinforced with ether. Mogul's heart was examined carefully, and his pulse and temperature were found satisfactory, and the ether was brought into use. After half an hour, in which two pounds of chloroform, which is more than four times as much as is generally used on a horse for the same purpose, had been consumed, together with half a pound of ether, Mogul's breathing, which had sounded like the exhaust of a locomotive, became softer.

Meantime Dr. W. Reed Blair, bending over the injured eyes, was treating them with cocaine. The incision on the hardening lens, which required less than five minutes, was made by Dr. George G. Van Mater, optician and professor in the New York University. Assisting him were Dr. John E. Ryder and Dr. Ellis.

"I do not consider it a difficult operation," said Dr. Van Mater afterward, "but the patient was so highly sensitive that it required more time to administer the anaesthetic than would have been required for fifty small children. I cannot set the time, but it may require three or four weeks or even longer to determine the progress of the absorption of the medicine in the wound. If the absorption takes places freely and clears away this cloudiness which befogs the sight, of course the operation will have been highly successful, and I believe it will be. However, in a month's time, if it is found that this work of absorption has not progressed as well as it should have, then it may be necessary to operate a second time. I am inclined to think it will not be necessary."

Mogul recovered from the chloroform readily after the operation. Last night the patient had begun to eat grass again. Mogul is one of the finest specimens of his family in captivity, and is valued at $7,000.

SUBWAY MEN COMPLAIN.

Say They Have No Relays Between Trips—Mr. Hedley's Denial.

Some of the Subway motormen, conductors, and guards of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company are complaining that since the opening of the Flatbush extension of the Subway system in Brooklyn, they have been working ten and eleven hours at a stretch without the fifteen-minute rest that the law stipulates they shall have between round trips.

The motormen say that there are no relays between trips on the West Farms expresses, all of which are operated through to the Flatbush terminal, or on the Broadway expresses which run into the Flatbush station during the rush hours.

One of the complaining motormen said yesterday that the men employed on these expresses are even compelled to eat on the trains. One day, this motorman said, six motormen were discharged because the railroad company had been informed that they were contemplating forming a union to have the conditions changed.

When General Manager Hedley was told of the complaints of the men, he declared that they were not justified.

"That is all wrong," said Mr. Hedley. "No such conditions as stated exist. The men get the relays required by law, and as a rule they do not work over nine hours. When they do, it is due to some cause beyond the control of the company, and when they work overtime they get paid for it.

"As for discharging certain men because of any contemplated organization of a union, that is also incorrect. Some men were discharged, but it was because they were incompetent. The discharge of such men is a necessity."

HUGHES FOR SUBWAY DINNER.

To be Guest of Honor at Celebration of Queens Civic Associations.

Gov. Hughes will be the guest of honor at the third annual dinner of the Allied Civic associations of Queens at the Hotel Manhattan on next Thursday night. The dinner will have the added significance of being part of the Long Island Subway celebration.

The Governor will spend the day on Long Island, going to Jamaica in the morning on the official train. He will formally open the celebration by an address at Kings Park, Jamaica, and until 2 o'clock will be the guest of H. P. Engelhardt of Woodhaven, President of the Allied Civic Associations of the Fourth Ward of Queens.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 28.—Unfounded rumors that an Italian secret society had formed a plot to dynamite the school building at Ewing and Desplaines Streets caused a panic among the 1,700 pupils.

This afternoon when several shots were heard in the alley back of the building 600 children fled to the street in a panic. Many of them were knocked down in the rush for the doors, but none was seriously injured.

PROPOSALS.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, 9TH JUDICIAL District, Westchester County.—KENSICO RESERVOIR, Section No. 10.

Crops Making Fair Progress.

Returns of crop conditions, compiled by Dun's Review from advices from correspondents in the agricultural districts, indicate that the crops are making fair progress, except that low temperature and rains are retarding influences. The Review continues:

> About the customary area of cotton land will have to be replanted because of floods, adding to the cost of the crop, but not necessarily reducing the yield. Most reports indicate that cotton is growing well. Both Winter and Spring wheat States report favorable progress, and harvesting will soon begin in the early districts. Many States report great improvement as to the rainy weather, and as the ground dries there is especial pressure to get the crop under way, owing to the attractive prices prevailing.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Tinsel Wire Forms for Christmas Trees Not "Toys"—Other Decisions.

Acting on protests filed by John Dunn, Jr., & Co., G. Thanhauser, and O. G. Hempstead & Son of Philadelphia, the Board of United States General Appraisers overruled yesterday the contention that tinsel wire forms used as decorations for Christmas trees are to be regarded for dutiable purposes as "toys."

Instead, the action of the Government in returning the wire forms at 60 per cent. as "tinsel wire" is approved. General Appraiser Fischer, who writes the decision for the board, says that no proof was presented to show that the forms or ornaments are commercially known or recognized in trade or commerce as "toys." On the other hand, the board is convinced the claim under the toy schedule at 35 per cent. is wholly without merit.

General Appraiser De Vries handed down a decision upholding claims filed by Letzerich & Co. and others of Galveston regarding the classification of selected pieces of old cotton bagging, generally used for patching cotton bales. The merchandise was classified as bagging, "with a tax of six-tenths of a cent per square yard," whereas the importers alleged duty at 10 per cent. under the provision in the law for "waste."

SEEK COPPER BANK STOCK.

Urgent Demand for It Starts Rumors of a Change in Control.

In consequence of urgent inquiry among shareholders of the National Copper Bank for stock, as high as 208 being recently bid, according to report, rumors were circulated yesterday of an impending change in control. Boston stockholders who were in receipt of telegrams bidding for their stock queried New York to know what was happening in the bank's affairs.

President Charles H. Sabin said he could not account for the activity of the stock except on the ground that the recently published report to the Controller of the Currency showed that the bank had been making money. He said that a number of inquiries from brokers had been received at the bank, but that he knew of no one interest which was buying the stock, nor of any attempt to get control out of the hands of the present majority interest. The bank, which started business a little more than a year ago, now has deposits of about $17,000,000.

To Default on Railway's Notes.

The interest on the notes of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, which falls due on June 1, will not be paid, it was said in Wall Street yesterday. The road is in receivers' hands, and a protective committee for the noteholders was formed several months ago. The failure to pay the interest on the notes has been regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Banking Bill in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—The Chamber of Deputies passed the Banking bill yesterday. In its essential features the bill regulates the establishment of new banks, provides for an examination of existing institutions by a representative of the Finance Department, defines collateral securities, and remedies the existing abuses relative to long-time loans.

APPROVES PRESIDENT'S VIEWS

Vanderlip Thinks the Message of April 27 Highly Commendable.

Frank A. Vanderlip, Vice President of the National City Bank, had a good word to say yesterday for some of the Roosevelt policies urged in the President's message of April 27.

"It has surprised a great many men of business," he said, "that the excellent recommendations of the President in his message of April 27 have not been more freely commented on. Here are large issues—the amendment or modification of the Sherman anti-trust law and the framing and passage of a Federal corporation law—which go to the very heart of the complicated corporation question as it exists at present. Yet these great issues are failing to attract the proper attention.

"The Sherman act, in its present shape, is impossible of application to our large industrial organizations without producing business chaos, yet the President's persistent efforts to bring about a modification, and put the Nation's law and the laws of commerce on an equal footing, have not borne their proper fruit.

"But even of more importance is the President's recommendation about the necessity of enacting a Federal corporation law. This, to my mind, is of the highest interest to all corporations doing an inter-State business.

"A Federal law which would at once in its operation certify to the honest conduct of a corporation just as, normally, a National bank is certified to by its existence under the National banking law, would be of inestimable value to the corporation and its shareholders as well as to the community at large."

NEW HAVEN COMMITTEE MEETS

Special Session Held to Discuss Bonaparte's Suit Against Road.

The Executive Committee of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad held a special meeting at the Grand Central Station yesterday, to discuss the situation brought about by the suit which has been instituted against the road by Attorney General Bonaparte, charging the New Haven with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. After the committee had adjourned it was stated that no conclusion had been reached on the matters under discussion.

One of the matters concerned in this suit, as well as in the moves which have been made against the road in Massachusetts, is the disposition to be made of the Boston & Maine, in which the New Haven attempted last year to get a controlling voice, and in which it was successful in acquiring a very large minority interest before its further progress was frustrated by a special act of the Massachusetts Legislature. It was recently reported that plans were under consideration for the transfer of the New Haven's Boston & Maine holdings to the Delaware & Hudson.

Minneapolis Mills Pass Dividend.

The poor business among the Minneapolis milling industries has resulted in a decision by the Directors of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills Company, Limited, of London to "indefinitely postpone" the dividend on the preference shares, which was expected at this time. At the annual meeting of the company, in December, a dividend was declared on these shares, to be paid "at such time as the board shall resolve that payment can conveniently be made."

READY TO CELEBRATE OUR MEMORIAL DAY

Parades of the Grand Army and Work Horses and Many Games and Sports.

SECRETARY TAFT TO SPEAK

At Grant's Tomb—Special Service at Carnegie Hall To-morrow Evening—The Line of March.

It is again Memorial Day to-morrow, and it will be celebrated extensively, for the most part in the usual way. The sporting events are almost numberless, and their kinds are nearly without limit.

Perhaps the most important feature will be the parade of the Grand Army men. The veterans and the other organizations that march with them will form at West End Avenue and Seventy-second Street and will march west into Riverside Drive and up to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at Eighty-sixth, where Gov. Hughes will review them. The principal address will be made by the Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Hill, pastor of the Metropolitan Temple. The lines must be ready to march at 9 o'clock.

The Grand Marshal of the Grand Army of the Republic, Borough of Manhattan, who will have command of the G. A. R. celebration is Isidore Isaacs. There will be seven divisions in the parade.

In the afternoon the U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., will have public services at Grant's Tomb. Secretary of War Taft will deliver the address there. The services will begin at 3 o'clock.

To-morrow will also see the second work-horse parade. The one held last year was such a marked success that its originators, the Women's Auxiliary of the S. P. C. A., put the parade on a permanent foundation. The route of the horses will be through Madison and Fifth Avenues and adjacent streets below Twenty-third Street, passing the reviewing stand at the Worth Monument, Madison Square. It will begin at 10 o'clock.

The John A. Dix Post, G. A. R., after taking part in the morning parade, will, with their friends, board the steamer Albertina at the foot of West Tenth Street and will steam up the Hudson River as far as Yonkers. On the return trip they will disembark at 155th Street, whence they will march to the grave of Gen. John A. Dix in Trinity Cemetery.

There will be a G. A. R. memorial service to-morrow night at Carnegie Hall. Mrs. Hardin Burnley of Richmond, Va., the daughter of a Confederate officer, will deliver a recitation.

The inmates of the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island will join with the employes to-morrow for a ripping holiday. In the morning a baseball team representing the employes will play one representing the inmates. In the afternoon there will be all sorts of races and athletic contests, with a musical programme.

The youngsters of the Brooklyn Disciplinary Training School for Boys, Eighteenth Avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-eighth Streets, will parade in uniform and will then listen to music and hear speeches.

TO DEPORT DENMARK LAWYER.

Chance Meeting with a Former Acquaintance Discloses His Past.

Because of a chance meeting with a man who had not seen him for years, C. P. Wedel, attorney at law, a man of refinement and culture, will probably be deported to Denmark. He was detained yesterday in Brooklyn by immigration officials and taken to Ellis Island. It is said that he has offended against the laws of his native land, and, therefore, is not considered a desirable alien.

Wedel had entered the country regularly and was trying under another name to retrieve his past. He came to this country on the Scandinavian-American liner C. F. Tietgen, booked as Alex Vadum. He landed here early in May. He went to live in Brooklyn, and apparently was well supplied with money. About a week ago he was seen, it is said, near his home by a former Copenhagen acquaintance, and from the chance meeting resulted the action of the Ellis Island officials.

It is said that Wedel was arrested in Copenhagen, where he practiced law, on charges of embezzlement, forgery, and assault, the latter it is believed, in an effort to avoid capture. He served eight months in Bridsloseille prison.

Before a Board of Special Inquiry, it is said, Wedel admitted that he had served a short term, but pleaded extenuating circumstances and a desire to live down the past. He is a plausible talker and has a pleasing manner.

The Board of Special Inquiry decided that Wedel must be deported, and there is said to be small chance that Washington will reverse the decision.

FISCHER-HANSEN PLEADS.

Says He's Not Guilty of Extortion—His Trial Set for June 10.

Carl Fischer-Hansen, the lawyer who is under indictment on the charge of extorting $15,000 from Joseph E. O'Brien of Philadelphia, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Justice Goff, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, and June 10 was fixed as the date for the trial.

The pleading was preceded by a demurrer argued by the defendant's counsel, John F. McIntyre, who said that the indictment was illegal because two charges were made in a single count of the indictment. Assistant District Attorney Smyth opposed the demurrer, and Justice Goff overruled it. He announced that he would extend his trial term to preside at the trial, and then called upon the defendant to plead.

"He pleads not guilty," said Mr. McIntyre.

"Where is he?" asked Justice Goff, who had ordered the day before that he be present.

Mr. Fischer-Hansen then came forward from the rear of the courtroom, while his plea was recorded.

Mr. Smyth wanted the trial set for June 8, on Monday, as he intended to ask, he said, that the jurors be locked up during the trial. He hoped to finish the case before the end of the week, thus avoiding confining the jurors over Sunday. As Mr. McIntyre pleaded important business on June 8, the court set the trial for June 10.

SUES A. McKINLEY'S WIDOW.

Administrator Alleges Undue Influence in Obtaining $72,000 Life Insurance.

CANTON, Ohio, May 28.—R. S. Shields, administrator of the estate of the late Abner McKinley, brother of the late President, began suit here to-day against Mrs. Anna S. Allen, widow of Abner McKinley, to recover $72,000 in life insurance for the benefit of the estate.

Mr. Shields alleges that by undue influence Mrs. McKinley had the insurance transferred to herself two weeks before her husband's death. The administrator says that the estate cannot pay its creditors in full without this money.

RAILWAYS' BETTER SHOWING.

Decreases in Operating Expenses Partly Offset Decreases in Gross Earnings.

Several important systems, including the Reading, the Atchison, and the Southern Railway, yesterday published their reports for the month of April. These made a much better relative showing than many other recent reports, as the decreases in gross earnings were offset by decreases in expenses to a larger extent than in other recent reports.

The Southern Railway with a decrease of $882,100 in gross earnings showed a gain of $266,061 in net earnings, the Atchison with a decrease of $1,132,980 in gross showed a decrease of $364,693 in net, and the Reading with a decrease of $728,092 in gross showed a decrease of $390,862 in net.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET | LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET

An Invitation to Home Seekers of Moderate Means, Refinement and Discrimination.

We cordially invite all persons, whether prospective purchasers or not, to visit and inspect our picturesque country residence park—

Roslyn Estates

ROSLYN, LONG ISLAND.

We are very sincere and definite in the wording of our headline. From its very inception we have worked toward the perfection of Roslyn Estates as a distinctive colony of homes. The discrimination and restrictions surrounding the sale of property prevent the intrusion into the colony of any detrimental elements.

On the other hand, the prices at which we are enabled to offer plots of half an acre to five acres will attract desirable families of moderate circumstances.

Roslyn Estates lies in the very heart of the Wheatley Hills, the highest, healthiest, and most beautiful region on the Long Island north shore, distant only a 45-minutes' ride from New York City Hall. The natural beauty of this lovely rolling woodland, and the skilful landscape art which has developed it into a real park, will appeal to home builders whose refined taste demands a picturesque environment not afforded by the ordinary lot-in-a-city-block suburb.

If you are visiting any of the suburbs on the main line of the Long Island Railroad, take time to run on to Roslyn, where our representatives will show visitors every courtesy.

When you are on the train en route to Roslyn, note carefully the character of the suburbs by which you will pass in the train, in contrast to the beauty of Roslyn Estates, with its magnificent old trees, its dainty lakes and shaded park roads.

The Sun

"Further on you run into the completed Casino, completed except for some gold leaf still to be put on in the great white and gold dining room. The Casino will be ready for use also on Decoration Day. Nobody thought to ask when it was begun, but doubtless ground was broken for it first on the previous Monday.

"Flagpoles jut upward from the Casino roof and balconies and most of the exterior seems to be made up of glass covered balconies. If you were not particular about your restaurant manners you could flip a lump of loaf sugar right over your girl friend as you and she sit at one of the balcony tables in the moonlight and the lump of sugar would drop almost straight down into the tumbling surf when the tide is in. Private dining rooms swarm all over the second floor of the Casino, and the remainder is given over to a ballroom of generous size and a dozen or so bachelor apartments with baths.

"Over the glass roof of the balcony tables a steady sheet of water will be kept flowing so that the sun beating on the glass during the day will not make things uncomfortable for diners. The biggest dining room of all, on the ground floor, is all gold and white where it isn't glass, and just back of it is a $30,000 kitchen that would make a Harlem flat dwelling housewife pass away from this life from heart disease. There's an oaken grill and a bar adjoining, and in the basement are a rathskeller of pretension and the ice manufacturing plant."

40,000 PAY TRIBUTE TO GOV. CLINTON

Great Throng Marches Past the Coffin in Governor's Room, City Hall.

19-GUN SALUTE AT BATTERY

Military and Patriotic Organizations Escort the Body from Pier A Up Broadway.

The body of George Clinton, the first Governor of the State of New York, Vice President of the United States during the two terms of Thomas Jefferson, and a Major General of the American Army in the War of the Revolution, which will be reinterred in Clinton's home city of Kingston to-morrow, lay in state in the City Hall for six hours yesterday. In that time, according to the police, nearly 40,000 persons filed past the coffin.

Clinton died in Washington ninety-six years one month and seventeen days ago to-day. After a state funeral in the Capitol, the body was interred in Washington, where it remained until a few days ago, when it was disinterred for final burial at Kingston, the first capital of New York.

The first funeral of the Revolutionery patriot and statesman could not have been more impressive than the tribute paid by New York yesterday. From the moment the coffin containing the body was landed at the Battery, when Government and city officials, United States soldiers and sailors, National Guardsmen, and members of patriotic societies took charge of the ceremonies, until it was removed from the City Hall, at 4 P. M., the tributes to the memory of Gen. Clinton were continuous.

Salute of Nineteen Guns.

The coffin arrived in Jersey City from Washington on Wednesday night, where it remained until 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Then it was transferred to the revenue cutter Manhattan and brought to New York. As the Manhattan approached the landing place in Battery Park the guns of the converted gunboat Wasp, training ship of the New York Naval Militia, boomed out the Vice Presidential salute of nineteen guns, while the thousands lining the Battery walls reverently uncovered.

On board the Manhattan were Collector of the Port L. S. Fowler, as the representative of Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou; a detachment of United States coast artillerymen under command of First Lieut. H. F. Spurgeon, U. S. A.; Hugh Hastings, representing the Committee of Seventy-five named by Mayor McClellan, and the following descendants of Gov. Clinton: George Clinton Andrews of Tarrytown, George Clinton Genet of New York, Louis F. Genet of New York, and S. G. Taylor of Mount Vernon.

While the minute guns of the Wasp were saluting, the coffin was landed at Pier A, being borne ashore on the shoulders of eight non-commissioned officers of the United States coast artillery. The coffin was placed on a gun carriage, after which the organizations designated as the escort were formed in line by Major Gen. Frederick D. Grant, U. S. A., the Grand Marshal.

The line of march was from Whitehall Street to Pearl Street, through Broad Street to Wall, thence to Broadway, and up Broadway to City Hall Park. Despite the early hour it was estimated that at least 25,000 persons witnessed the parade. From the time the coffin was landed at Battery Park until it was placed in State in the Governors' Room in the City Hall, the chimes of Trinity Church and St. Paul's Chapel tolled in honor of the State's first Governor.

Order of the Parade.

In the procession, in the order of their placing, were Capt. W. T. Johnston, Fifteenth Cavalry, U. S. A., and Capt. A. J. Bowley, First Field Artillery, U. S. A., Gen. Grant's regular army aides, and a score of civilians acting in a similar capacity.

Detachment Squadron A, N. G. N. Y., Capt. Stowe Phelps; platoon mounted police; United States Army regulars, Lieut. Col. H. L. Ludlow; Fifty-first Company, Coast Artillery, U. S. A.; Eighty-sixth Company, Coast Artillery, U. S. A.; two platoons of mounted police; the caisson.

On each side of the caisson four non-commissioned officers of the Coast Artillery Corps, United States Army, body bearers. Outside of body bearers on each side of the caisson, members of the Order of Cincinnati, pall bearers. Outside of Order of Cincinnati members of the Veteran Corps of Artillery of New York, honorary guard.

The came Mayor McClellan, Corporation Counsel Pendleton, Chairman Mayor's Committee of Seventy-five; Percy Nagle, Marshal to Board of Aldermen; the Board of Aldermen, headed by President Patrick F. McGowan; the Committee of Seventy-five.

Ninety-eighth Company, Coast Artillery, U. S. A.; One Hundred and Twenty-third Company, Coast Artillery, U. S. A.; One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Company, Coast Artillery, U. S. A.; New York Naval Militia, First Company, Marines, U. S. S. New Hampshire; Second Company, Marines, U. S. S. Hancock; Third Company, Blue Jackets, U. S. S. Coffin in the City Hall.

When the procession reached City Hall the coffin was borne on the shoulders of the artillerymen to the Governors' Room. There it was placed in the centre of the room. The Veteran Corps of Artillery, organized when Clinton was Governor, took charge of the body, two uniformed members of the organization standing guard at each end of the coffin. Howland Pell, Adjutant of the corps, was in command.

A great crowd was massed outside the police lines, waiting to march into the room where the remains lay. The police arrangements, under Inspectors Schmittberger and Russell, were excellent, and at no time was there the least hitch. As soon as the City Hall was thrown open the waiting thousands formed in a line by twos, and then, marching between two solid lines of police, passed into the City Hall, past the coffin, and then out through the doors facing the Supreme Court Building.

From 10 A. M. until 4 P. M. the line never diminished, and there were thousands still waiting for a chance to view the coffin when the police stopped the procession.

Promptly at 4 o'clock the coffin was removed to a hearse and taken back to Battery Park, where it was placed on board the cutter Manhattan, which transferred it to the Wasp, on board of which it will be taken to Kingston to-day. It was covered with floral designs, among the most beautiful of which were those sent by President Roosevelt and the Governors of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The procession, on the return to Battery Park, was led by the police band and three platoons of mounted policemen, under command of Inspector Schmittberger. The guard of honor was composed of members of the Veteran Corps of Artillery.

The Wasp, convoyed by torpedo boats, will sail for Kingston at 8 o'clock this morning.

At 7:30 the Wasp will be boarded by Lieut. Gov. Chanler, Gen. Henry, Lieut. Commander A. B. Fry, Chief of Staff of the Naval Militia, Col. S. E. Marvin, and Major F. P. Moore, of the Governor's staff, and George Clinton Genet, representing the descendants, at Pier A. At Kingston the official party will be met by Gov. Hughes, who will there deliver the oration.

TO EXTEND SUBWAY LINES.

Willcox Discusses Plans of the Public Utilities Board.

In considering the offer of the Interborough Railway Company to construct, equip, and operate a rapid transit route from Canal Street, Manhattan, to Fulton Street and Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, the Public Service Commission does not take the view that the Interborough's offer means the strangulation of the Fourth Avenue Subway, but believes that both plans might be worked out together. Chairman Willcox said yesterday:

"It is possible to divide the use of the Flatbush Avenue extension between the Interborough and the Fourth Avenue Subway, and we have received a number of suggestions about it. There are probably fifty different possibilities in the situation and we shall consider them all."

The Chairman said that the offer of the Interborough would not interrupt work on the Fourth Avenue Subway, and that as soon as the contracts were approved by the Board of Estimate the contractors would begin work.

In answer to inquiries about the Broadway, Brooklyn, line of the Subway loop, Mr. Willcox said:

"Our engineers are making plans for the extension of the Subway along Broadway, Brooklyn, and also for the Lexington Avenue Subway in Manhattan. When they are complete the commission will submit them to the Board of Estimate for approval."

Turner, removed. Mr. Hasson is connected with The New York Press, and is a friend of Commissioner McCormack, the Democratic leader of Richmond, and a McClellan man. William D. Nagle of Hollis, L. I., has been appointed Deputy Tax Commissioner at $1,800 a year.

Dismisses "Overstitch" Patent Suit.

TRENTON, N. J., May 28.—United States Judge Lanning to-day dismissed the famous "Overstitch" patent suit between the Willcox & Gobbs Sewing Machine Company of New York and the Industrial Manufacturing Company. The court holds that the Willcox Company failed to make out an infringement case.

WHITMORE CASE GOES TO THE JURY TO-DAY

Prisoner, the Chief Witness in His Own Defense, Sets Up an Alibi.

ADMITS HAVING JEWELRY

Also Owns Up to Two Convictions for Robbery—Counsel to Sum Up This Morning.

Theodore S. Whitmore was the chief witness yesterday in his own behalf in his trial in Jersey City for the alleged murder of his wife, Lena, in Lampblack Swamp, Harrison, N. J., on Christmas Day. At the close of the afternoon session both sides had presented all their testimony, and the case was then adjourned until this morning, when counsel will sum up. The case will then go to the jury. It has been the aim of the Judges to finish the case so that the jurors might not be locked up over Decoration Day.

After the prosecution had put the cashier of the Brooklyn bank where Whitmore went with a burned bankbook on the stand to corroborate this story, the defense opened. The most important wtness before Whitmore was Samuel Pelvers, a substitute starter at the City Hall station of the Third Avenue elevated road. He testified that Whitmore had gone to the City Hall station at 11:30 o'clock on Christmas night and inquired whether his run had been covered, as he had reported ill.

"I am sure that it was 11:30," said the witness, "because one Smith, a motorman, came in while I was telling Whitmore that his run had been assigned to another man. Smith was due at 11:30."

This evidence, if correct, according to Whitmore's friends would prove that he could not have arrived at the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City at 12:40 A. M. on the same night on a train that had passed through Newark as Joseph Quinn, an elevated tower switchman, had testified on Wednesday. Watchman Cougan had sworn, too, that it had been 10:30 o'clock on Christmas night when he saw a man and woman go into Lampblack Swamp. The body of the Whitmore woman was found in the swamp on the morning of Dec. 26, and the murder was believed to have been committed on Christmas Day.

Whitmore Angered on Stand.

Whitmore was the first witness at the afternoon session. He was fairly composed on the stand except when cross-examined by Prosecutor Vickers, when at times he became angry and made sarcastic replies to questions. Mr. Vickers did not ask the witness about either his alleged threats against his wife or the evidence set up by the State through other witnesses that jewelry had been found in a Brooklyn saloon which had been left by Whitmore with the saloon keeper and which Whitmore had described before his arrest as having been worn by his wife when she disappeared.

Whitmore said that his wife had been away from the Adams Street house, where they let rooms, for four or five days prior to Christmas. On Christmas morning, he said, he had been told that his wife was at the corner of Concord and Adams Street. He went out and wished her "Merry Christmas," and persuaded her to return to the house. On the previous day also he had seen her on the street. She had reached into a fold of her dress, he said, and he grabbed her. She repulsed him, and he fell, dragging her down with him. She had dropped her pocketbook and he picked it up.

She went back to the house with him on Christmas morning, he said, but complained of being lonely. Usually Whitmore had brought her brother's children down from Schenectady. At 4 in the afternoon O'Neill, a lodger in the house, had brought down a turkey dinner to the Whitmores. When Mrs. Whitmore again complained of being lonely, Whitmore gave her $15 and told her she might go to Schenectady to see the children.

Then, Whitmore said, he went out to a saloon, and when he got back his wife was gone.

"I was sore," he testified, "and felt that I had been a sucker."

He Sets Up an Alibi.

He said he went to Lilly Heidel's house to look for his wife, but did not find her and returned home. He left again a little before 11 o'clock that night and went to the City Hall Station, where he was told that his run had been covered.

"It paid me well for the short time," said he, "and I wanted to make sure it had been covered."

Leaving the City Hall Station, he went along Park Row, he said, then went back to the City Hall Station, where he remained until 12:57, when his train came in. The dispatcher was running it, as the man who had been assigned in Whitmore's place had not appeared. Whitmore remained in the station, he said, until Fowler, the man assigned to the run, came in. Then, he said, he went into "Bob's" restaurant on Park Row, wished the proprietor "a Merry Christmas," and then went home, where he remained all night.

Whitmore testified that he had made no secret about the jewelry he left in a saloon, and declared that the detectives hadn't forced this admission from him. On the contrary, he had asked the detectives to go to the saloon and see that the jewelry was taken care of. He had once given Georgia Dickinson a 53-cent bracelet.

"Were you ever in Harrison before you went there to see the body?" asked the prisoner's counsel.

"Never, though I had passed through New Jersey."

Denies Killing His Wife.

"Did you, on Dec. 25, meet your wife in Harrison and murder her by beating her or strangling her?" asked Mr. Simpson.

"No, Sir," said Whitmore, firmly.

"Did you have any motive for murdering her?"

"No, Sir."

"Is it true that you murdered your wife because you wanted to get rid of her?"

"No, Sir."

Prosecutor Vickers began to cross-examination by asking the defendant if he had not been well treated in the Harrison jail.

Whitmore became angry.

"How about those ghosts that Brannegan would jump at me all night and make them say: 'You murdered your wife, didn't you?'" demanded the witness.

Mr. Vickers made Whitmore admit that he had been convicted twice for robbery.

The defense then rested.

A number of witnesses were called in rebuttal, but for the most part their testimony was ruled out or was trivial. The prisoner's father was not allowed to testify for the defense.

DOG ATTACKS CHILDREN.

Three Pupils Bitten by Newfoundland Puppy on Staten Island.

A black Newfoundland puppy strolled into the yard of Public School 23, in Mariner's Harbor, S. I., just before school opened yesterday morning, and the 100 or more little girls playing there tried to make friends with it. They petted and caressed it, and the puppy wagged its tail.

Presently, however, the dog seemed to weary of the attention it was receiving. It growled at the children and showed its teeth. Suddenly it snapped at one of the little girls, and as she turned away frightened the dog sprang on Annie Mucci of 8 Bush Avenue and sank its teeth in her leg.

As the dog ran down the street it also bit Margaret Breen of 129 Bush Avenue, and Eddie Idonet of Richmond Terrace.

A yelling crowd had gathered by this time. Men shouted "Mad dog!" until persons ahead of the animal ran into their houses and slammed the doors. None dared try to stop the dog until Policeman Madden saw it several blocks away. He heard the cries of the crowd, and, drawing his revolver, waited until the dog came up to him. The dog sprang at the policeman, but Madden struck it on the head with his nightstick, and as it fell to the sidewalk fired a shot into its head.

In the meantime teachers in the school had carried the injured children to a near-by drug store, where a Health Board physician cauterized their wounds. Then they were taken home and put to bed. They will be watched carefully by physicians until it is determined whether or not the dog had rabies.

Veterinary Surgeon Nichol of the Health Department was summoned by Principal Cator, and he cut off the dog's head and sent it to the Health Department laboratory in Manhattan, where it will be examined.

KILL MYOPIA CLUB DOGS.

Rabies in the Fine Hunt Pack Results in a Slaughter.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 28.—In order to suppress an outbreak of rabies among the dogs of the Myopia Hunt Club most of the club's pack of fifty-two are being killed. The doctors and keepers of the kennel thought this measure necessary.

Forest King, the fine hunter of Judge William H. Moore at his Pride's Crossing stable, was shot on Monday because of an attack of hydrophobia, supposed to have been contracted following a bite by one of the dogs. Dr. Clayton, a New York expert, came on Tuesday and decided that the animal had suffered from the disease.

Policeman Kills Dog That Bit Him.

Policeman John Dundon of Jersey City was bitten in the left leg by a big mongrel dog early yesterday morning as he was walking in Monmouth Street. Dundon shot the dog.

New York Central Inspector Killed.

In trying to jump aboard a moving train at the 125th Street Station of the New York Central Railway yesterday, Francis Kilcawley, an Inspector of the Harlem Division of the road, accidentally slipped on the steps and fell between the cars. His body was caught under the wheels and he was crushed to death.

GIRL-WIFE CHARGES DIVORCE CONSPIRACY

Says Husband Sent Her with Co-respondent and Went with Latter's Sister.

TOLD HER HE WAS A MASON

So That It Was All Right—Mrs. Florence Fisher Says She Was Intimidated Into Going to a Hotel.

Mrs. Florence E. Fisher, who was recently divorced by her husband, Robert Lee Fisher, Treasurer of H. Knickerbacker & Co., brokers, at 70 Broadway, alleges that she is the victim of a conspiracy and that she intends to bring her case to the notice of District Attorney Jerome to-day to see if he can straighten out the hopeless tangle in which she has become involved.

In an interview with a TIMES reporter yesterday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Hurd, at 34 St. Nicholas Place, Mrs. Fisher, who looks more like a schoolgirl than a woman who has had six years of married life, said that she had been the victim of circumstances in the hands of persons who took advantage of her ignorance in the ways of the world.

Mrs. Fisher married Mr. Fisher in 1902, when he was 40 and she was 17. "My troubles began," said Mrs. Fisher, "last July, when my former husband went to Saratoga, and met a woman named Hazel Prince. On his return he sent me up to the mountains alone, and promised to come up later, but only visited me once, when he left next morning on the plea of illness.

"On my return to the city in September I found that the Prince family and my husband were inseparable. Charles Prince, the brother of Hazel, and he were always together, and on several occasions when the four of us went out to a theatre together and had supper afterward. my husband sent me home with Charles Prince, while he escorted Hazel, and that was the beginning of a series of events that ended in the divorce suit against me in which Prince was co-respondent.

"The suit was brought in February, and I did not defend it, as I was threatened by Prince and was afraid of my life. Before Justice O'Gorman gave the decree I told my story to Stephen Baldwin, my lawyer, and he went into court and charged conspiracy. The Judge reopened the case and permitted me to file an answer, in which I submitted, through my lawyer, evidence that everything had been done by the connivance of Mr. Fisher and Charles Prince, and, although I had been intimidated into going to the hotel with the latter, no improper conduct had taken place.

"When I asked my husband last Fall," said Mrs. Fisher, "why he was sending me home every night in charge of his friend, he said: 'He's all right; he is a brother Mason, so you need not be afraid.' Even then he had detectives on my track.

"When I was in the hotel with Prince he drew a pistol and threatened to shoot me unless I sat there with him until after midnight. I went into the bathroom and bolted the door and cried until 1 o'clock, when I was let out. To prove my case before Justice O'Gorman I had to produce Charles Prince in court, but my lawyer could not find him, and so the case was closed again, and my husband got his decree on May 7. So much has been said about my case that I wanted the truth to be known to the public."

Mrs. Hurd, who was present at the interview, said that her daughter had been shamefully treated, and that she was going to the District Attorney's office with her to-day to see what could be done in the matter.

CROWD SEES RIVER RESCUE.

Watch from the Speedway While Capt. Southerton Saves Drowning Man.

Persons walking on the Speedway yesterday afternoon ran to the river wall when they saw a rowboat in which was a man overturned in midstream. The man could not swim apparently, for he was carried along by a swift tide and every now and then disappeared beneath the surface.

None on the Speedway dared jump in after the man, but Capt. Charles Southerton of the Conqueror Boat Club and a member of the Volunteer Life Saving Corps, saw the man from the float of the boat club, and dived into the river without waiting to remove his shoes or coat.

He reached the man with a few strokes and grabbed him under the arms. In his fright the man fought against his rescuer, and the crowd on shore watched in fear that both might be drowned. At last, however, Capt. Southerton got the man in a position where he could not struggle, and swam with him to the float.

There the rescued man was revived. He said he was Henry Gross of 129 East 109th Street. He was able to go home after resting awhile.
